WILLKIE BLAMES ROOSEVELT FOR LACK OF PLANES

Let's Not Be Fooled, He Urges.

Wendell Willkie, addressing a great Republican rally in Madison Square Garden, New York city, will be heard from 9:15 to 10 p. m., Chicago time, tonight over W-G-N and Mutual; WMAQ and NBC-Red; WLS and NBC-Blue, and WBBM and CBS networks.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Aboard Willkie Special Train, Nov. 1.—Wendell Willkie replied to President Roosevelt's Boston, Mass., speech tonight, charging that the President was trying to make political capital out of aviation orders from Great Britain.

Behind this, the Republican nominee said, is a story of neglect and abuse of airplane production which he called typical of the handicaps under which American industry has had to operate under the Roosevelt administration.

Calling the President's new interest in military airplane production a "recent conversion," Willkie told of what the New Deal has done to discourage airplane production.

The Republican Stand.

For himself and the Republican party, said Willkie, an interest in vital production "is no 11th hour conversion. This is no political expediency. This is a deep rooted conviction. It is time to turn our backs on the wasted years of stifled enterprise, neglected industry, and chronic unemployment.

"American productive capacity," he added, "given the chance which it has been denied for these past seven years, can give us not only the airplanes that we need—it can give us once more a strong, a vital, an expanding nation."

Willkie added a new question to the long list of unanswered ones that he has put to the President. It was:

"Mr. Third Term Candidate, what have you ever done to encourage the expansion of our private airplane factories?"

The airplane factories are making progress, Willkie said, but the credit is not to be taken by the New Deal.

Where It Belongs.

"The credit," he said, "belongs to these private manufacturers who doggedly kept going, and who are now patriotically bending every effort to make up for the loss of time and discouragement. The credit for the increased production belongs to the airplane industry and to the orders that have been placed here by Great Britain.

"The credit or discredit for our lack of greater productive capacity belongs elsewhere. And the third term candidate knows where it belongs!"

Willkie warned that "we should not fool ourselves" by thinking that the nation is able to make rapid progress toward the production of 50,000 planes a year.

With Willkie's seven weeks of special train campaigning at an end, his train was parked tonight in the New Jersey marshes between Newark and New York City.

He Remains Aboard.

The towers of New York weren't far away, but Willkie preferred to remain in isolation in a region of withered grass, stunted trees, and smoke from railroad engines and steel mills. His train was behind the fence of the Crucible Steel company, and no one could enter there without a pass.

Willkie will enter New York City tomorrow afternoon and in the evening will make his final massmeeting appearance at Madison Square Garden, an event for which New York Republicans are making great preparations. He may make a few New York City appearances on Monday, but for all practical purposes he considers the campaign about over.

As to the outcome, Willkie feels that it will be close, but that he has a little more than even chance and that the last hour swing is toward him. However, he is not swallowing whole all the last minute optimistic reports that come to him and will work until the end to meet any special argument or situation that arises. He plans to answer the President's last minute speeches as fast as they come out.

BUSINESS READY FOR PROSPERITY IF WILLKIE WINS

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—A Willkie victory on Tuesday would be a big step toward prosperity and would lead to gradual absorption in business and industry of the more than 9 million unemployed, in the opinion of business experts.

They see an upward surge of confidence which would unleash billions of dollars of idle capital into channels of private investment, financing industrial expansion not only for the defense program but for ordinary needs.

According to the latest report of the federal reserve board there are nearly 7 billions in excess reserves in banks of the federal reserve system—available for investment when the "go" signal is given. Many millions more in cash are believed hoarded outside of the banks.

Utilities Have 3 Billions.

The utility industry alone has available an expansion program of nearly 3 billion dollars covering the next five years, provided it is not harassed by further regimentation by the government, according to recent estimates from the industry.

Business leaders and other analysts of the business and economic scene have no delusions about an undue reduction in government regulation of business if Wendell Willkie is elected. But they do express belief that the relations of business and government would be more clearly defined, so that definite plans for the future can be made, and that reckless fiscal policies and deliberate oppression of business by government will be eliminated.

The business men agree that labor and social reforms are here to stay but that there is plenty of room for improvement in their administration, and give Willkie support on this score.

The statement made last Tuesday in Chicago by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of General Motors corporation, on Willkie and business prospects has received wide attention here. His statement has been accepted as representing pretty clearly what most business men are thinking.

Sloan Associate of Knudsen.

Sloan is a close associate of William S. Knudsen, production coördinator on the national defense advisory commission and former president of General Motors. This relationship lent additional importance to the statement.

"It is my hope," Sloan asserted then, "that if we can succeed in electing Willkie we will pass from an economic philosophy of dividing what we have, to an economic philosophy of bigger and better production. . . . There is no limit to what we can do."

Altho not mentioning President Roosevelt by name, Sloan viewed gloomily the prospects if the alternative—reëlection of Mr. Roosevelt prevails.

"I view with great apprehension future years unless we can interject into our system a different type of government than that to which we have been subjected the last seven years," said Sloan, adding that the national income should total more than 100 billion dollars instead of the present 70 billions or more.

What Knudsen Thinks.

While Knudsen and other business leaders on the defense commission are careful not to make political

G. O. P. SEEKING A DICTATORSHIP, SAYS ROOSEVELT

Charges Radical and Reactionary Tieup.

President Roosevelt's address tonight will be broadcast over WBBM and CBS, WMAQ, and the NBC-Red network and WLS and the NBC-Blue network from 8 to 9 o'clock, Chicago time.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 1.—President Roosevelt tonight charged that his Republican opposition is seeking to establish a dictatorship in America and is opposing democracy because it is Christian.

In making these charges in the fourth of his six admitted political speeches of the 1940 campaign, Mr. Roosevelt again dodged the third term issue raised by the opposition.

The third term candidate spoke before an enthusiastic audience of 3,000 in the Brooklyn Academy of Music. He came onto the stage on the arm of his third son, Franklin Jr. He was introduced by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York. Among Democratic notables on the stage was James A. Farley, Democratic state chairman of New York, who resigned as national Democratic chairman because he could not stomach the third term.

Calls Combination Ominous.

In making the dictator and anti-Christian charge Mr. Roosevelt insisted there is something ominous in the combination forming within the Republican party between the "extreme reactionary and the extreme radical elements of the country."

In accusing the Republican party of dictator ambitions, he said:

"There is no common ground upon which they [the 'reactionary' and 'radical' elements] can unite unless it be their common will to power, and their impatience with the normal democratic processes to produce overnight the inconsistent dictatorial ends they each seek."

In raising the anti-Christian accusation, the President said:

"These forces hate democracy and Christianity as two phases of the same civilization. They oppose democracy because it is Christian. They oppose Christianity because it preaches democracy."

Speech Written by Trio.

The attack on his Republican opposition, which White House aids hinted was launched in a desperate effort to head off the swing to Wendell Willkie, was completed only an hour before Mr. Roosevelt left his train for the speaking platform.

The speech was the work of three authors, who attacked their job feverishly as the campaign special raced from Washington to Brooklyn. They are Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, No. 1 White House ghost writer; Harry L. Hopkins, former secretary of commerce and the President's closest friend, and Robert Sherwood, author of the play, "Idiot's Delight."

In his speech Mr. Roosevelt cited as New Deal accomplishments which would be imperiled by a Republican victory the farm program, minimum wages, child labor laws, old age pensions, unemployment insurance, slum clearance, regulation of the stock market, curbing of holding companies, and abolition of sweat shops.

Hails New Deal as Friend.

He hailed the New Deal as the friend of business, the friend of religion, the friend of the working man, the friend of all nationalities, and the protector of peace.

The President wound up his address with a climax upon which he lavished all his oratorical art. He employed repetition effectively to assert he is fighting for a free America, against the revival of government by lobbyists, for the rights of little men as well as big men, for prosperity and peace.

"I am fighting for these great and good causes," he concluded. "I am fighting to defend them against the power and might of those who now rise up to challenge them. And I shall not stop fighting."

After the address Mr. Roosevelt boarded his campaign special and headed for Cleveland, O., where he will deliver the fifth of his six scheduled political speeches tomorrow night. He will make platform appearances in western New York and Pennsylvania en route to Ohio.

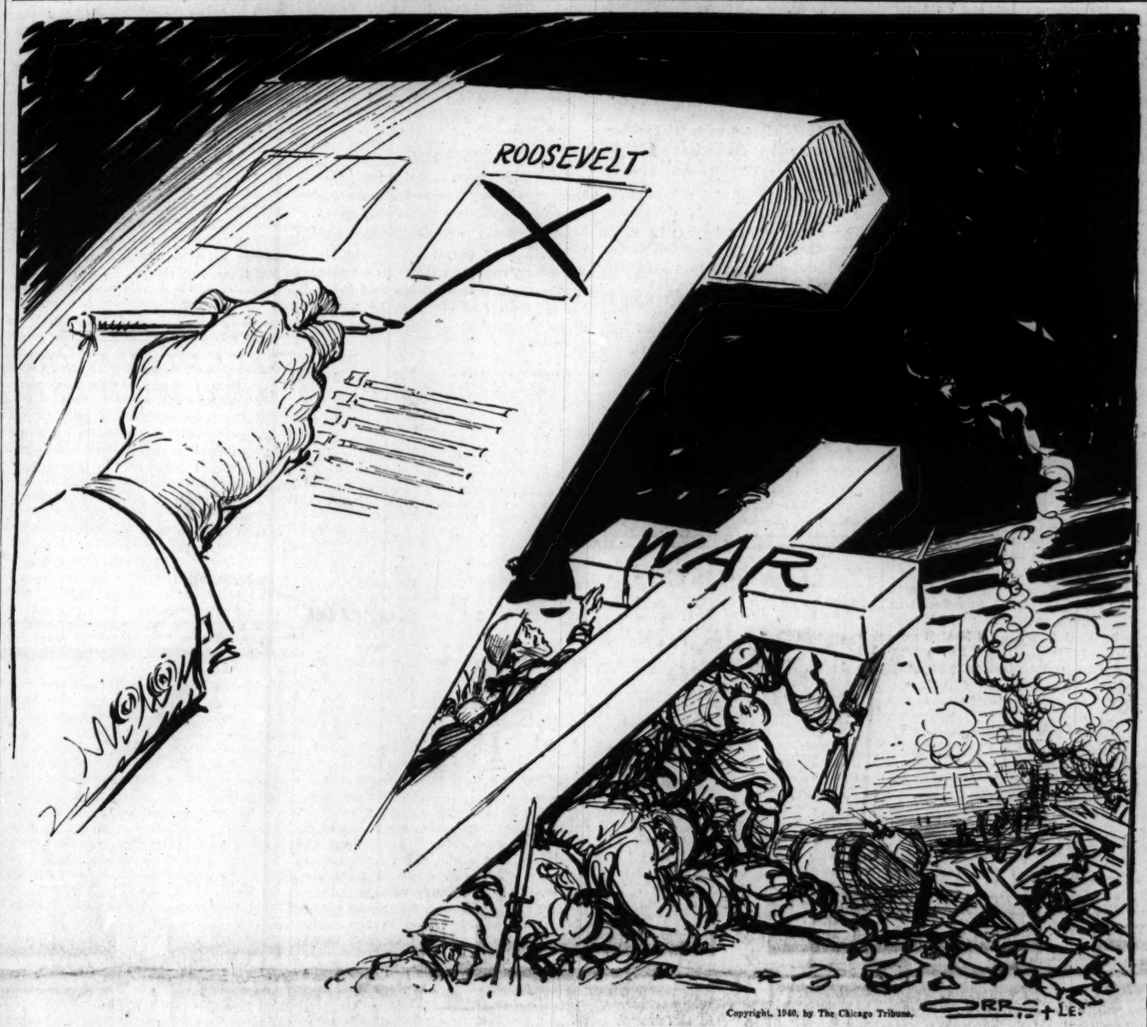
A CROSS FOR THE BACKS OF YOUR SONS



Federal Agents Quiz Ohioan for Wiring F. D. R.

Toledo, O., Nov. 1 [Special].—Paul Sun, 28 years old, 4246 Rosewood avenue, who sent a telegram to President protesting the order that conferred a captaincy on the President's son, Elliott, disclosed today that two secret service agents had subsequently called on him and threatened him with reprisal, if the incident was repeated.

In an affidavit, prepared for the Citizens' Information committee, Sun said the agents told him that "if it occurred again that they had ways of annoying me, such as suggesting among my friends and to my employers that I was a radical."

Text of Telegram.

On Sept. 25, the affidavit said, Sun and three friends talked over the appointment and decided it was unfair. After discussing the matter, Sun said he prepared the following wire and sent it the next morning:

"President Franklin Delano Roosevelt—Accept Responsibility to join up stop Provisions Kee Wee service Stop 200 per month plus expenses stop will wear civies stop." [Kee wee, it was explained, is a term used to describe a member of the air force holding a desk job and means "bird without wings."]

On Oct. 30, two secret service agents telephoned him and insisted that he call at their office, Sun said. When he arrived they showed him a copy of the wire and asked what he meant by sending it.

Tells of Questioning.

"I avoided a direct answer at first," said Sun's affidavit, "suggesting that perhaps I had a right to have an attorney present. One of the agents said that they had ways of making me answer. They then took me into an inner room where no others were present and I explained fully the occasion and conditions under which the group of which I was a member composed the wire which we agreed would express our feelings."

Then, Sun said, he was questioned as to whether he was the member of any radical organizations, whether he was opposed to conscription, and whether he was a conscientious objector. He answered each question in the negative.

Warned Against Repeating.

"The agent admonished me not to do this again," the affidavit continued. "I answered that as far as I knew I had not done anything illegal. He stated that it was the duty of the secret service to protect the President, and if it occurred again they had ways of annoying me, such as suggesting among my friends and to my employers that I was a radical.

"He insisted that I give him the names of the other boys at the party, where the idea of wiring the President, was just discussed. I hesitated and he suggested that he could get the names very easily if they wanted to trail me. I gave him their names and addresses and after I left they were immediately called in."

DETROIT QUESTIONER HE ROUGHED UP SUES 'THE LITTLE FLOWER'

New York, Nov. 1 [Special].—New York's pugnacious mayor, Fiorello [Little Flower] La Guardia, today was served with a summons and complaint in a suit for $350,000 damages as a result of his attack on a citizen who asked him a question after a political speech at Detroit.

The suit was filed by Benjamin H. Owens, a bus garage employé of Ferndale, Mich. He was a member of a crowd before the Detroit city hall where La Guardia spoke on Oct. 21 in behalf of President Roosevelt. The mayor was accused of seizing him near the throat, twisting his necktie, tearing his shirt, and ripping off buttons.

Owens' complaint charged La Guardia with assault and battery and defamation of character. It alleged that the fiery official, after the attack and in the presence of other persons on the city hall steps, made statements damaging Owens' reputation.

LIFE UNDER NAZIS HELL, BOERS TOLD BY DUTCH STORKS

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Nov. 1 (AP).—Boer farmers in this vicinity report that some of the storks arriving here in their annual 7,000 mile migration from the Netherlands are carrying written messages on the condition of the Dutch under Nazi rule.

One farmer said he untied this scribbled message from the leg of a migrating stork: "We inhabitants of Bergen-op-Zoom tell you German occupation is just hell." Another said, "The Dutch people are dying under injustice."

[The Boers, still speaking Dutch dialects, came to South Africa from Holland more than a century ago and were absorbed into South Africa, now a British dominion, after the Boer war at the turn of the century.]

Jarecki Acts to Guard Vote; Orders Election Police Shifted

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday dealt a crushing blow against wholesale vote thievery in Chicago. He exercised his power to take charge of the city's police department and its 5,000 men on election day. He countermanded directions already given policemen for election day duty and ordered a reassignment made in accordance with his plans for fraud suppression.

This is the first instance since enactment of Illinois election laws in the 1880s that a county judge has taken active charge of police polls guardians in Cook county. Hitherto, police assigned to the city's 3,648 precincts always have been under direction of the department's commissioner. And no policeman in 70 years ever has reported any of the polls frauds epidemic in other elections.

Answer to Kelly-Nash.

Observers considered that Judge Jarecki's surprise move yesterday was a reply to efforts of the Nash-Kelly political machine to sidetrack work of private citizens and citizen groups now battling to give Chicago an honest election Tuesday. The machine, on Thursday, began cracking down in the city council and the police headquarters on the civic fighters.

Presumably following orders, Commissioner James P. Allman had ignored requests of Judge Jarecki and the joint civic committee that policemen be assigned for the election to precincts outside their regular police districts. Jarecki had explained to the commissioner that the police are unable to function as a force for honest elections in their own precincts where they are subject to political organization pressure.

Nevertheless the police orders for election day failed to specify that the men be placed outside the districts where they regularly are assigned. Instead the commissioner directed his captains merely to move the men into precinct polling places other than those where they served in the last election.

Curt Order Is Issued.

Forthwith Judge Jarecki and the election commissioners, Harry A. Lipski, Mabel G. Reinecke, and William B. Daly, drafted their countermanding order. It was delivered to Commissioner Allman's office at 5:30 last night after the commissioner had departed for the day.

The order directed the commissioner to furnish policemen for election headquarters in the city hall, for the 12 subheadquarters in 12 city high

POLITICAL HOODLUMS HIT REPUBLICANS WITH VIOLENCE AND THREATS

Republican workers and sympathizers on the north, west, and south sides reported last night that pre-election violence and threats were being directed against them in organized fashion.

A hotbed of trouble was the 28th ward. Late Thursday night the Republican ward committeeman, Joseph Porcaro, was beaten severely in his headquarters at 2531 Superior street by five masked men carrying guns. It was Porcaro's opinion the men were not merely robbers altho they demanded and got $150 from him.

Last night Guy Scarpelli, 2623 Superior street, Republican captain of the 17th precinct, 28th ward, reported being threatened with slugging unless he ceased his activities. Michael De Santis, 5517 School street, a volunteer helper of Porcaro, told of being stopped near 2017 Ohio street and ordered by hoodlums to stay out of the district.

Noble W. Lee, associate dean of the John Marshall Law school and Republican nominee for the state legislature, was in front of his home at 5541 Woodlawn avenue when several eggs were thrown at him. The eggs struck his car, which bore a "Vote Republican" sign.

Raymond Saxon, a worker at the Associated Willkie club headquarters at 3209 Lake street, reported he and other canvassers had been warned by hoodlums to cease working for votes in the vicinity.

Displays of Willkie pictures brought window breakings in several homes, including those at 9351 Elizabeth street, 6639 South 51st avenue, Cicero, 1220 East 46th street, 5247 Calumet avenue, 358 East 53d street, in the 3700 block of Sheffield avenue, and at 4222 Berkeley avenue.

Owner Careless, So Nazis Blackout Home for Him

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—Police shut off the electricity for a week in a home at Kottbus, near Berlin, because the owner of the home had been careless in observing blackout restrictions. A "heavy fine" also was imposed. Residents were warned that "an indoor blackout" henceforth would be in store for every home which violated the regulations.

FAILURE TO MIX NUMBERS IN JAR SHOWN BY STUDY

Capsules in Nests Within Bowl.

Two eminent Chicago mathematicians yesterday completed an exhaustive study and charting of the national selective service lottery held Tuesday in Washington, D. C., and found that the capsule encased numbers had not been thoroly mixed before the drawing.

They found that the capsules were allowed to cluster in nests and layers within the bowl so that serial numbers from 1 to 2,400 tended to escape being picked in the first 2,000 draws. High serial numbers came up instead.

Like Three 13 Card Suits.

The scientists found that the improbability of many of the low serial numbers appearing where they did in the Washington drawing is about the same as that of drawing in succession three hands of 13 spades in a bridge game. Another instance cited, they said, would occur by pure chance less often than once in 150,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 times.

Of the 9,000 numbers in the bowl, 1,116 of the highest were in effect blanks. They were put in to cover later registration expansion and hence did not represent any registrants in the draft. Of all the local draft boards in the nation, the largest one enrolled only 7,836 men.

Average Board Smaller.

And since this one—in Baltimore, Md.—was exceptional and the average draft board enrollment is 2,672, there were 5,164 additional high serial numbers that represented from one lone registrant to a few hundred men each.

The mathematicians found that as a result the lower serial numbers—each representing several thousands of men—were picked from the bowl later in the order of the drawing and hence were assigned higher order numbers, indicating the holder would be called later in the draft.

The immediate and tangible effect, however, will be that these millions of men holding high order numbers and who, consequently, feel reasonably secure in their civilian status, will be called to the colors far sooner than they now expect.

Orders Await Lists.

Just how much sooner, they will not know until each local draft board receives and adapts to its own list of registrants the official master list of registrations from Washington. This will not be for several days.

Millions, therefore, will not know until after the election how they actually stand in the selective service draft and when they may expect a summons to training camp. Thus, political leaders were quick to point out, the onus of the draft as a political issue was dispelled by the strange order in which the capsules emerged from the lottery bowl.

Draft Statistics Studied.

The mathematicians who conducted the lottery study are Dean Walter Bartky, chairman of the committee on statistics of the University of Chicago and professor of mathematical astronomy there,

JAPAN FEARS WAR IF ROOSEVELT IS GIVEN THIRD TERM

Charges Made He Likes to Play with Fire.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 1.—Japan's interest in the American Presidential election is greater than it ever has been. For the first time the Japanese express the belief that the outcome of the American political campaign will have a tremendous bearing on their future.

There is a widespread opinion that the reëlection of President Roosevelt will increase the American-Japanese war danger. Inasmuch as it is generally believed that relations between the two countries already are near the breaking point, grave apprehension is felt over the future.

Play Up Willkie Forecast.

Newspapers today played up the prediction of Wendell Willkie that if Mr. Roosevelt is reëlected he would plunge the United States into war in the spring. The Japanese call the President "Daredevil Roosevelt," because they charge he has taken too many wild chances and likes to play with fire.

Fear is freely expressed that Mr. Roosevelt, in a third term, might start a war against Japan in support of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China and Great Britain if he meets a sudden embarrassing domestic problem.

Americans long resident here, as well as Japanese, assert that when the American evacuation ship Monterey left Yokohama yesterday for Shanghai only 58 boarded the ship. The allotment for Americans in Japan is said to have been 400. There are 4,000 Americans in Japan.

Criticizes U. S. Authorities.

The Japanese maintain this reflects the feeling of safety of Americans in Japan. The newspaper Kokimin, charging that the United States government is exploiting its policy toward Japan for election purposes, said that American authorities are causing the people to suspect the situation in the far east is becoming aggravated when the opposite is true.

It urged adoption of cool judgment and proper measures to meet what it described as the "hysterical policies ruthlessly adopted by Washington" toward the far east.

GAYDA SAYS U. S. SKIDS TOWARD WAR WITH AXIS

ROME, Nov. 1 (AP).—President Roosevelt was accused today by Virginio Gayda, the highly placed Fascist editor, of initiating an offensive against Germany and Italy and of responsibility for creating an "ideological political conflict which is skidding toward belligerency between the United States and the axis."

He declared again, however, that Italy is not interested in the outcome of the Presidential election in the United States. Mr. Roosevelt, Gayda asserted, had concerned himself with the internal affairs of Germany and Italy; had made "public defamations of their political systems."

The editor also cited speeches and actions of Secretary of State Hull, Ambassador to France William C. Bullitt, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, certain senators, and others.

Close Italian School in Rio; Charge Fascist Activities

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 1—Rio de Janeiro state authorities have closed the Brazilian-Italian school in Novo Friburgo. It was charged school officials demanded that professors and students wear Fascist uniforms and that the Brazilian national anthem was barred, but Fascist songs were compulsory.

Eight Russians Must Die for Part in Theft of Meat

MOSCOW, Nov. 1 (AP).—Eight men today were sentenced to death before a firing squad for theft after a mass trial of 45 freight handlers and delivery agents charged with organized stealing of 500,000 rubles worth of meats since 1937.

Reconciled

Robert Williams with wife, Olga, and son, Charles, after parents were reconciled yesterday in court of Judge Desort.

The sight of her husband's naval uniform helped Judge Rudolph Desort bring about a reconciliation yesterday between Robert Williams, 27 years old, and his estranged wife, Olga, 27, of 8616 Vincennes avenue.

The reconciliation came after Special Commissioner Charles C. Cooley had recommended that Mrs. Williams be denied temporary alimony as her husband had been called to active duty in the navy.

At the suggestion of Attorneys Ben Ehrlich and William Halvorsen Judge Desort talked with the couple in chambers and Mrs. Williams agreed to drop her suit for separate maintenance. The Williamses have a son, Charles, 16 months old.

BOMBERS SINK 13 SHIPS IN BRITISH CONVOYS—BERLIN

Cruiser Among Victims of Attacks, Nazis Say.

London Amazes Nazi

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—A Stuka [dive bomber] pilot just arrived in Berlin from the English channel front tonight told THE TRIBUNE correspondent that "half of London is destroyed and we are going to destroy the rest." He expressed amazement that the British continued to hold out. "Any other people would have quit long ago," he said.

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Nov. 2, Saturday (AP).—British airmen bombed Berlin and Amsterdam during the night, an official German announcement said today, killing seven Dutchmen and wounding nineteen German soldiers in Amsterdam and killing and injuring a number of civilians in Berlin. Only residential sections were hit in Berlin.

BERLIN, Nov. 1 (AP).—German dive bombers screaming down on three British convoys today sank 13 ships—including one cruiser—totaling 47,000 tons and badly damaged nine others aggregating 36,000 tons, D. N. B., official news agency, said tonight. The agency said the attacks occurred as the convoys approached southeast British coast harbors.

One convoy lost nine of its ships when it was attacked off Sheerness, south of the Thames estuary, D. N. B. asserted. Near Great Yarmouth, the news agency continued, a single bomber sank a protecting cruiser and three freighters out of a convoy.

Eight British planes were shot down in fighting over England today, the agency said, and only one German plane was lost. In addition, it continued, many grounded British planes were destroyed in German attacks on British airdromes.

Gunners Down Five Planes.

LONDON, Nov. 2, Saturday (AP).—Sharpshooting British ground batteries blasted five German raiders out of the dank skies over England last night and early today in one of their best night's shooting performances of the 56 day old Nazi air siege, the air ministry announced.

Their performance, during an eight hour raid which ended in the early morning hours today, brought to 13 the number of German craft announced as downed since dawn Friday. Six British planes were lost. Two British pilots were saved.

The Germans punched at the capital and other parts of the United Kingdom with one of the heaviest attacks in a week. In one midland town a number of persons were trapped in a factory basement shelter; in another several persons were buried in cellars when four houses were demolished and a bus was hit.

ITALIAN FORCES REVIVE STALLED DRIVE IN EGYPT

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 1 (AP).—Italy's long-stalled invasion of Egypt came to life today in a new burst of fighting across the sands of the western desert, indicating Premier Benito Mussolini may be unfolding a grand plan to coördinate this drive with his campaign against Greece.

In a revival of heavy desert fighting, the British air force reported eight Italian warplanes were downed and four more so badly damaged they probably failed to reach their bases yesterday in a battle over Matruh. British fighters lost two planes. Two others collided, but the pilots parachuted to safety.

[The Italian high command reported 17 British planes downed in the Egyptian battle and said Fascist ground forces struck at British troops 25 miles east of Sidi Barrani, advance base of the Italian drive. Sidi Barrani is 85 miles from Matruh.]

Elsewhere in the battle of Africa British planes raided in Ethiopia and Libya and patrols attacked Italian camel trains and outposts. The Italians struck back with a heavy bombing of the island of Perim, at the southern entrance of the Red sea.

PETAIN CABINET BACKS LAVAL ON DEAL WITH AXIS

VICHY, France, Nov. 1 (AP).—Vice Premier Pierre Laval today returned from another series of discussions with German officials in occupied France and received approval from the Vichy cabinet with "confident unanimity."

A communique said the whole cabinet was "confident and satisfied" with the efforts of Laval and Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain in their efforts to settle details of French "collaboration" with the axis.

SURRENDER YOUR LUXURIES, SAVE! PLEA TO BRITISH

Workers Told Their Role in Financing War.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Great Britain must borrow 40,000,000 pounds weekly [about $160,000,000] out of the people's savings to finance the war, Capt. H. F. C. Crookshank, financial secretary to the treasury, told a Grimsby audience today.

"It must be genuine new savings: money put week by week out of our earnings," Crookshank said. He urged everyone to "give up luxuries" and reduce themselves to "rock-bottom living." Only if this is done, he asserted, can Britain "get the finance necessary to pay for the war and on the other hand keep at bay the grim, horrid specter of inflation."

Other Developments.

Other news on the home front today was the introduction of income tax deductions from the checks of wage earners; "help your neighbor" transport service; demands by postoffice workers for a limitation on telephone, telegraph, and postal services, and an appeal of the auxiliary fire services for an increase in compensation in case of injury.

According to the newspapers, many employés protested that deductions in their first income tax deducted pay envelopes were excessive.

Hit "Luxury Services."

Postoffice workers saw the directors of the general postoffice to demand immediate abolition of "luxury services," including person to person calls, all greetings and telegrams of a nonessential character, and night collections and deliveries of mail and telegrams.

The ministry of transport declared 15,000 people rode to their offices today as passengers of 5,000 motorists who received extra gasoline allowances for giving lifts.

Auxiliary firemen demanded the same compensation for injuries as regular firemen. It was believed the request would be met.

NAZIS HINT ROLE FOR REDS IN NEW DIPLOMATIC PLAY

Balkan Situation May Be Discussed.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—Hints were dropped in Berlin political circles tonight that the curtain will rise again next week on a new diplomatic drama in which soviet Russia will have a prominent rôle.

Presumably the Reds are interested in the Balkan situation, altho the trend the talks will take was not disclosed.

It was assumed here that Marshal Henri Petain's statement that France will "collaborate" with Germany indicated that the way is now clear for a resumption of conversations between the two countries.

Meet with French Soon.

Representatives of the various governmental departments of the totalitarian powers which will be concerned in the "readjustment" of France will likely meet Pierre Laval, French vice premier, or other French officials soon.

However, informed quarters were inclined to believe the axis parleys in the offing will be unable to include other countries besides France.

Hear Nazis Take Initiative.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 1 (AP).—Nazis in Rumania said tonight that Germany was initiating negotiations with soviet Russia for an understanding on the Balkans and Near East.

Fuehrer Hitler was reported to be using his veteran trouble shooter, Franz von Papen, now ambassador to Turkey. Von Papen left here today en route to Berlin and it was reported that his return is in connection with the proposed understanding.

Germany was represented as anxious to eliminate any possibility of conflict with Russia over both the Dardanelles, which Turkey guards, or over oil-rich Iran [Persia] and other areas where the interests of the two great powers may overlap.

Fail to Reach Danube Agreement.

Until an accord is reached certain German-Russian questions will remain in a state of suspension, it was indicated. These include the matter of which group of powers will control the mouth of the Danube. After nearly a week of conferences here German, Russian, Italian, and Rumanian specialists have not announced any definite settlement of this issue. In the last two days there has been no formal session of the new Danube commission. What caused the suspension of negotiations has not been announced officially, but [the remainder of the sentence was censored].

Jugo-Slavs Remain Neutral.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Nov. 1 (AP).—The Jugo-Slav government declared tonight its "hope that further developments in the Balkans will not threaten Jugo-Slav interests from any side" as it restated its position of neutrality in the Italian-Greek conflict.

Spanish Air Mission Flies to Britain to Study Raids

SAYRE OUTLINES HIS VIEW OF U. S. FAR EAST POLICY

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 1.—High Commissioner Francis B. Sayre today enunciated his conception of the United States' far east policies, which have come to the fore as a result of the recent strained relations with Japan.

He said the American policy has three main aspects: First, insistence on the open door, which means the maintenance of free trade channels both on land and sea; second, the sanctity of written agreements and obligations of governments; and third, the observance and maintenance of law and order as opposed to unbridled use of power by "certain nations."

Sayre emphasized that America's policy in Asia was not directed against any nation, but his reference to "certain nations" was regarded as a reference to Japan.

Discussing the Philippine defense, Sayre said it was being considered both here and in Washington, D. C., as "part and parcel" of the whole problem of national defense.

COLOMBIAN ARMY PLANES LOCATE GERMAN VESSEL

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Nov. 1.—The German merchantman Helgoland, which sailed secretly from Barranquilla, Colombia, the night of Oct. 28, has been located by Colombian army airplanes, it was reported here today. The ship was said to be outside Colombian territorial waters, but still within the 300 mile neutral safety zone adopted by the Panama conference.

It is believed that the Helgoland is supplying a German raider operating in these waters. The Helgoland, a 3,664 ton freighter, put in at Barranquilla when the war started. It sailed without the usual clearance formalities.

Hundreds in Palestine Seek to Join Greek Army

JERUSALEM, Nov. 1.—The great wave of enthusiasm in favor of Greece in the near east has reached the Holy Land. The Greek consulate general here is besieged with hundreds of applications from Greeks wishing to join the Greek army. Altogether 2,200 Greek nationals and 8,000 Greek Jews live in Palestine.

The skeletons were identified as those of Aubrey Dodds, 21 years old, and his brother, Duwayne, 19, from numbers on their hunting licenses.

BRITISH STEP UP WAR ON ITALY BY BOMBING NAPLES

Greece's Appeal for Help Again Answered.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Britain is intensifying its war on Italy. That is the answer to the Greek appeal for fulfilment of London's guarantee of all the aid in its power should Greece be attacked.

The aerial bombardment of Naples was officially reported by the air ministry today following an Italian announcement of this raid. It was the third British military action as a result of the Italian invasion of Greece. The bombing of Naples followed an aerial attack on the Dodecanese Islands and mine laying to protect key Greek ports.

Reuters [British news agency] reported that British naval officers have arrived at Athens and a number of Greek islands and are working at full speed in preparing coöperation with the Greeks.

Anticipate Naval Battle.

It was generally conceded this is only the beginning of the battle for the Mediterranean and large scale operations, including a decisive naval battle, are anticipated.

Admiral of the Fleet Lord Chatfield's radio broadcast yesterday stating "Italy is the enemy's weak spot" echoed the estimates of British military writers. But Italian tactics were regarded as puzzling. No agreement was reached whether their "timidity" was due to weakness or design. Greece is regarded as a pawn and the general feeling here is that Turkey is the key point.

If that country allows the passage of German troops, the British hold on the rich oil fields of Iraq and the Persian gulf is admittedly precarious.

Hail Turkey's Promise.

For this reason the promise of President Ismet Inonu that Turkey will be faithful in her obligations to her allies created great satisfaction in government circles.

The slowness of Italian operations in Greece was the subject of considerable speculation, but tonight not only the newspapers but authoritative circles warned against attributing this to Germany's supposed efforts to mediate the Italian-Greek conflict.

The London Evening News ridiculed the "self confessed experts in diplomacy who are busy playing their favorite game of discerning rifts within the axis."

CAROL, 'TERRIBLY BORED,' BEGINS TO WRITE MEMOIRS

SEVILLE, Spain, Nov. 1 (AP).—Dethroned Carol II. of Rumania, "terribly bored" at his enforced sojourn here, got out his pencil today and began writing his memoirs to while the time away.

As a starter he ordered up 1,000 sheets of paper—indicating he didn't have much hope of getting out soon from under the polite form of arrest in which he and Mme. Magda Lupescu and Ernst Urdareanu, one time minister of the palace in Bucharest, have been held for more than a week.

Earlier in the day he had sought a personal interview with Ramon Serrano Suner, Spanish foreign minister, to seek permission to continue his interrupted trip to Portugal, but no immediate reply was forthcoming.

Costa Rica to Experiment in Cultivation of Rubber

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Nov. 1.—Experimental growing of rubber will be started in Costa Rica in a zone chosen by members of the United States department of agriculture who had been designated to select a suitable tract for the experiment. They chose a region on the Atlantic slopes known as Turrialba, approximately 40 miles from the capital. Some 40,000 rubber trees are being planted in the region.

Greece, Italy Swap Blows in Air

Foe Repulsed—Athens.

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 1 (AP).—Greece's tiny air force swapped blows with the vastly more numerous warplanes of Italy today while Greek ground forces in the northwest declared they had pushed one segment of the Italian invasion back to the Albanian frontier.

Greek planes flew back and forth over the wild, mountainous border area, cutting loose with bombs and bullets at the Italians wherever they could find them. The Fascist air arm itself blasted at the islands of Crete and Corfu, the city of Larisa on the rail line running north from Athens, Piraeus, Athens' big port, and the port of Salonika.

[Reuters, British news agency, reported from Athens the Greeks stormed and captured an important mountain and seized an Albanian area embracing several villages. This advance apparently was near Koritza, Albania, where Greeks captured a height after hand to hand fighting, Exchange Telegraph, another British news agency, reported. It said Greek flyers dropped three tons of bombs on two Italian airdromes at Koritza, destroying one and badly damaging the other.]

90 Killed in Raids.

A Greek announcement said 88 persons were killed and 209 injured in Italian raids on 13 Greek towns during the day. Twenty-five of the casualties were reported at Corfu. Fifty-nine persons were said to have been killed in Salonika, where two of the Italian raiders were shot down into the sea. A hospital, a church, and several other buildings were hit. Residents estimated that more than 50 bombs were dropped.

Fascist warplanes, apparently coming from the nearby Dodecanese Islands, dumped bombs on Canea, Crete Island, but the damage was said to have been slight.

Believe Italian Drive Snagged.

The Greeks claimed that in addition to throwing the Italians back in the northwest they were holding firm everywhere else along the rugged frontier in five days of fighting.

In Greek eyes the reported success in the northwest snagged one of the Italians' two main drives—the one on Janina, northern key to Athens.

The other drive is directed at Phlorina, northwest key to Salonika, and messages from the border indicated the Italians were using heavy mountain artillery and planes in an attempt to force Pisoderia Pass and reach Phlorina.

Line Is Pierced—Rome.

ROME, Nov. 1 (AP).—Italian armored motorized units were officially declared tonight to have made apparent breaches in Greece's Metaxas line at some points, pushing forward over rugged terrain heavy with three or four inches of mud.

For other and larger Fascist forces was claimed the capture of a populous area extending 35 miles within the invaded country in the region of Janina, the strategically important Greek city which is the main immediate objective of the Italian campaign.

[The Italian radio in a broadcast picked up in New York asserted that Janina itself "has been reached."]

This area, said the official Italian news agency Stefani, has 35,000 inhabitants and contains 79 villages. Its precise geographic limits were not given.

Claim Highway Reached.

The assertion that advance groups of Italian armored cars were now operating behnd the Metaxas line—an irregular series of pill box and other fortifications roughly following the contours of the Greek Albanian frontier—was based upon a report to the Italian high command that the Greek highway junction of Kalibaki had been reached.

Officials here, unable to locate a town of such spelling, suggested instead that Kalikabi was meant—a town above Zitsa on the road northwest of Janina. Zitsa itself lies scarcely more than 10 miles from Janina.

British Bomb Naples.

Italy itself felt British bombs during the early morning. Planes presumably operating from Greek air bases bombed Naples and two important outlying steel mill and manufacturing areas—Bagnoli and Pompigliano d'Arco. One Neapolitan was reported killed and five injured.

[The British air ministry announced that three waves of British planes kept Naples under attack for 45 minutes and dropped explosives on a railroad station and junction, on oil storage tanks, and refineries.]

Raid Alarm in Berne.

BERNE, Switzerland, Nov. 2, Saturday (AP).—An air raid alarm sounded at 4:30 a. m. today in this Swiss capital. It was the first alarm since Oct. 20. Several alarms in the past resulted from British planes flying over the Alps to and from Italy.

SINGLE PLANE FLIES OVER GIBRALTAR; HEAR HEAVY EXPLOSIONS

CUETA, Spanish Morocco, Nov. 1 (AP).—A single airplane from the direction of French Morocco flew over Gibraltar this noon and several heavy explosions, like those of bombs, were heard on this side of the strait. Anti-aircraft fire followed. The plane escaped. Earlier, another plane had flown twice over Gibraltar but had dropped no bombs.

Costa Rican Papers Insult Italian Army, Envoy Claims

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Nov. 1 (AP).—Enrico Menzinger di Preisentohal, Italian minister to Costa Rica, today complained orally to the foreign office that several newspapers had insulted the Italian government and army. Official circles declined comment.

CROATS LAY HAND OF GOVERNMENT ON BIG BUSINESS

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Nov. 1 (AP).—The government of Croatia, semi-autonomous province of Jugo-Slavia, enacted a decree today making the sale of business enterprises and industries subject to government approval. Business interests complained that this introduced state socialism into Jugo-Slavia.

At the same time the government of Banat, another Jugo-Slav province, created a state corporation with a capital of 100,000,000 dinar [about $2,250,000] for the purchase of private concerns placed on the market.

The action in Croatia was taken, officials said, because many manufacturers and large commercial enterprises have been moving out of Croatia to escape higher taxes, wages, and pensions than are paid in other parts of Jugo-Slavia.

TURKS TO REMAIN NEUTRAL; KEEP REDS' FRIENDSHIP

President Gives Balkan Policy to Nation.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Nov. 1.—Turkey will remain neutral unless attacked and meanwhile will not allow the British or other foreigners to operate from or across her territory to aid Greece or to attack anybody.

That is the substance of President Ismet Inonu's address today at the opening of the national assembly at Ankara. It confirms the impression that Turkey will continue to cling to her nonbelligerent state.

The president brushed over the desperate plight of Greece with only a brief allusion in the speech, which has been eagerly awaited as the keynote of Turkey's policy after the invasion of Greece.

Studies Situation.

"Our neighbor has been pulled into war," said Inonu. "We are studying the situation with our ally, England."

"Our relations with Russia, which underwent a critical period, now have taken a friendly turn," he declared. Turkey, he said, has managed to preserve the "rights and liberty" of its people, and added:

"Turkey in this dark world is the only country where the rights of its citizens hold good. Our country has decided to defend our independence, security, and land. This is our greatest pride. No change has been made in our foreign policy. We have no external ambitions."

Later, the official Turkish radio reported that Turkey will continue relations with Russia "despite all other occurrences."

Will Fight if Attacked.

He told the nation that Turkey will fight if attacked and declared that "we remain loyal to our friendships and our obligations and our ties of collaboration are unshakeable."

Meanwhile, communications with Greece are completely cut and even Greeks trying to return for military service are unable to reach their homeland, altho a special train is expected to be run for them next Monday.

Turkish police will not allow foreigners to board trains bound for the frontier or permit foreigners to pass thru the Dardanelles. The only ways to leave Turkey now are by the Bagdad railway, the Black sea, or thru the Mediterranean from Mersin.

UNCOVER SECRET DICTATOR PARTY IN SWEDISH CITY

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 1 (AP).—An organization for fostering closer coöperation between Sweden and totalitarian nations in political and social fields has been discovered in Goeteborg, police asserted today.

The organization, intended to be nationwide, is called the "Society for Cultural and Social Enlightenment," the newspaper Aftonbladed said, and the society's membership cards carry a swastika stamp.

All political parties are legal in Sweden, but action could be brought against any secret society considered harmful to the state.

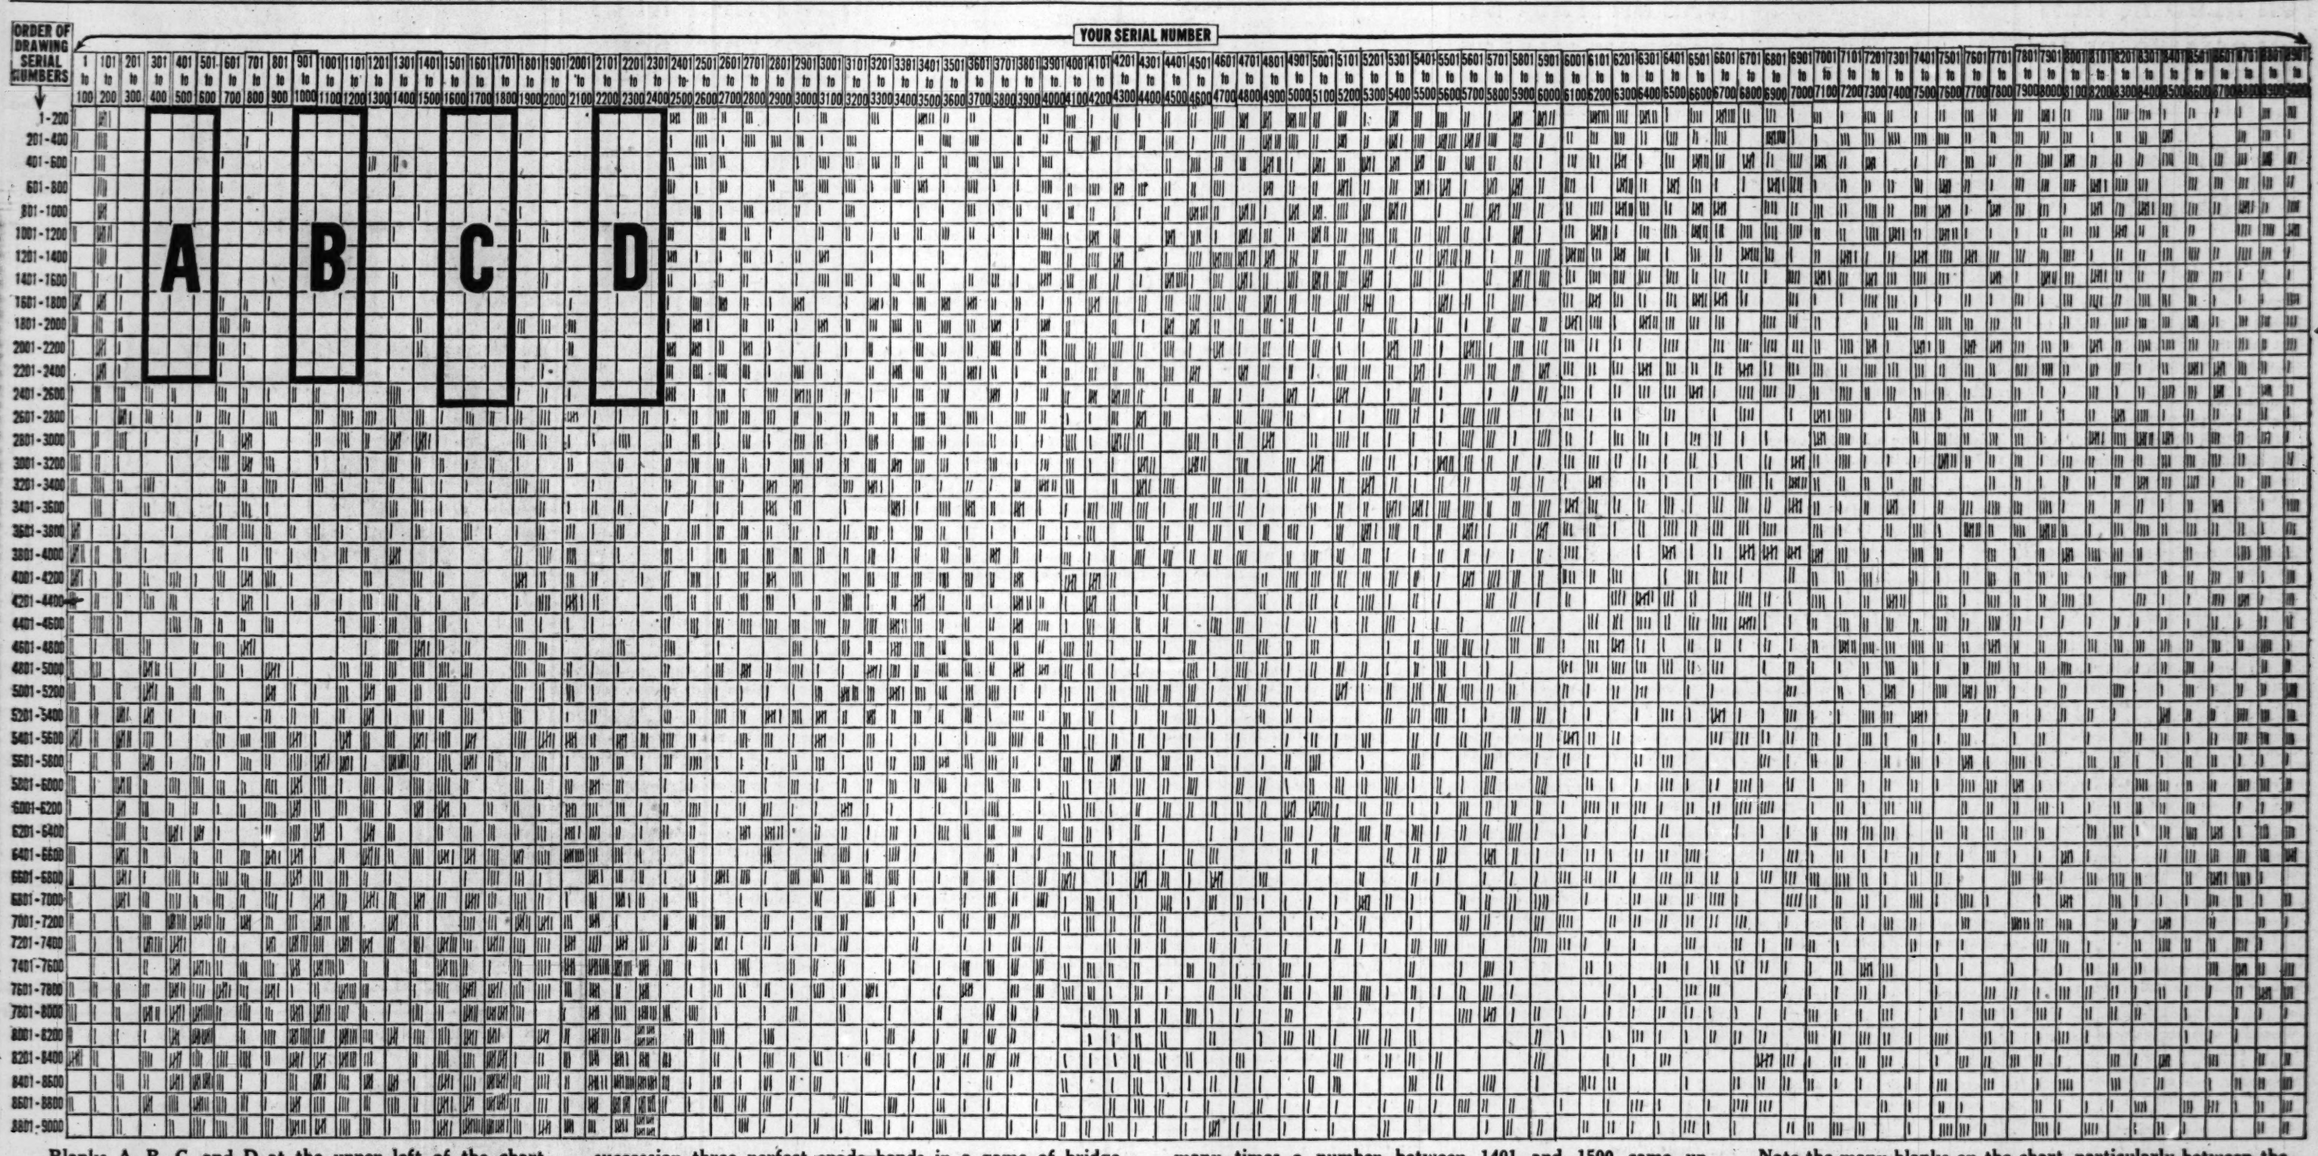
Mathematicians Chart National Draft Lottery and Find Discrepancies in Drawing of Numbers



Blanks A, B, C, and D at the upper left of the chart indicate, respectively, the absence of serial numbers from 301 to 600, 901 to 1200, 1501 to 1800, and 2101 to 2400. Eminent mathematicians say that the probability of this happening by pure chance is less than that of drawing in succession three perfect spade hands in a game of bridge. The perpendicular lines in the small squares indicate the frequency with which numbers in a given series (as from 101 to 200 or 201 to 300) appeared during each 100 draws in the lottery. For example, suppose you want to learn how many times a number between 1401 and 1500 came up between the 4000th and 4200th draws. Follow down the line from 1401 at the top of the chart to the point where it intersects the horizontal line from 4000 at the left. It will be found that numbers from this series appeared three times. Note the many blanks on the chart, particularly between the sections A, B, C, and D, and the heavy increase in the occurrence of high serial numbers—roughly the center of the chart, as well as the late drawing of low serial numbers—lower left corner.

INDICATE FLAW IN DRAWING OF DRAFT LOTTERY

Study Shows Failure to Mix Capsules.

and Samuel A. Stouffer, professor of statistics, department of sociology, at the University of Chicago.

They were assisted by a statistical staff that put in 185 man hours in studying, charting, and applying formulæ of mathematical probabilities to the data presented by the lottery.

Student Notices High Numbers.

Their attention was first directed to the strange order in which the numbers were drawn by P. H. Benson, 26 years old, a graduate student in statistics. Scanning the list for his own number he was struck by the preponderance of high serial numbers in the early hours of the drawing.

Dean Bartky and Prof. Stouffer were amazed by their findings in a preliminary examination of the lottery list. Assembling a staff, they charted the entire list and its 9,000 numbers.

Their completed work showed four great blanks on the chart [reproduced on this page] where the serial numbers 301 to 600, 901 to 1,200, 1,501 to 1,800, and 2,101 to 2,400 should have been drawn from time to time but were not.

Numbers in Nests.

Upon this the mathematicians commented:

"It is, of course, impossible to reconstruct a picture of the distribution of numbers within the bowl at the time the drawing began.

"Evidently, however, the numbers did cluster in nests in such a way that the serial numbers in the groups from 1 to 2,400 tended to escape drawing in the first 2,000 or so draws, with the curious exception of too frequent drawings of serial numbers in the group from 101 to 200."

It will be recalled that 158 was the first number drawn and that it was followed by much higher numbers. Then 105 came up, again followed by high numbers.

Higher Numbers Out Earlier.

"If the mixing had been more thoro," they concluded, "more men holding numbers between 0 and 3,000 would have received earlier order numbers. The higher serial numbers tended to appear earlier. If, as is said, few people actually hold high serial numbers, a man with a high order number is closer to being called than his number indicates."

Dean Bartky and Prof. Stouffer emphasized that as scientists they could only demonstrate the discrepancies in the drawing and could not attempt to say why they occurred.

What actually occurred before and during the drawing—the method of mixing the capsules and the way in which they were drawn from the bowl was reviewed yesterday. Numerous news accounts were studied and witnesses were interviewed in Washington.

News Photos Studied.

News photographs also were studied. Every available source of information was utilized and the various versions were checked against one another. Here, in brief, is what occurred:

The numbers were inserted into the capsules by shifts of girls, working under guard. The capsules were placed in small paper boxes, containing about 900 each. It is considered probable that the capsules were roughly in consecutive order as they were put into the boxes.

These cartons were emptied into the historic glass bowl Tuesday morning by Capt. Richard P. Davidson, of the manpower division of selective service headquarters, in the presence of witnesses in the interdepartmental auditorium.

Capsules Stirred with Paddle.

The capsules were stirred by Col. Charles R. Morris, retired. He used a small wooden paddle, made from a fragment of wooden rafter taken from Independence Hall, Philadelphia.

The paddle, as compared with the bowl and its 9,000 capsules, appeared to some witnesses to be too small to reach deep enough into the bowl to get efficient results.

Some witnesses said that if the numbers were permitted to be roughly in the order in which they were poured into the bowl, Col. Morris' stirring did not disturb this order to any great extent. Thus, if the capsules containing the numbers from 1 to 2,400 were emptied into the bowl early, the stirring might well have failed to redistribute them, permitting them to remain in a cluster at the bottom.

Picked from Top of Bowl.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, who drew the first capsule, and those who followed him immediately, plucked capsules from the top of the bowl. It was not until several hundred capsules had been drawn that some one—identity not known—plunged his hand deep down to select one.

With this and a few other exceptions, capsules were taken off the top during the more than 17 hours of drawing. During the first half hour Colonel Morris stirred the capsules in a perfunctory fashion, disturbing only a few hundred near the surface.

As the hours wore on, however, the paddle was forgotten and there was no more stirring.

A Contrast with 1917.

This was in sharp contrast with the selective service lottery of July 20, 1917. At the instant Secretary of War Newton D. Baker stepped up to draw, a young man wearing a blindfold began stirring the bowl of capsules. The capsules were smaller, and the container was correspondingly smaller. [A plastic extension was placed on the top of the bowl for last Tuesday's lottery.]

The young man stirred while Secretary Baker picked up his capsule. And he continued to churn up the capsules at intervals thruout the day and night—as long as there was anything left to be moved with his paddle.

The mixing of Tuesday's capsules is in sharp contrast with the mixing of numbers drawn in the celebrated Irish Sweepstakes—where only money is at stake.

Tickets in Revolving Drum.

There the ticket stubs go into a revolving drum 20 feet long and 6 feet in diameter, which turns for many hours before the drawing so that the numbers are mixed completely. The bottom of the heap becomes the top countless times over.

Spokesmen at selective service headquarters in Washington were unable to supply figures covering the number of men affected by the drawing of numbers between 0 and 2,400, the highely important numbers, many of which turned up so late in the draw. They said they have not yet been told the top numbers in most draft districts.

Davidson poured in more sealed slips. 2—Clarence A. Dykstra, director of selective service, inspecting the bowl. 3—Secretary of War Stimson, blindfolded, drawing first number. Col. Morris held blindfold. 4—Sergt. Irving McConnell of Washington, D. C., reaching for a number slip (arrow) which had fallen out of its capsule.

SCIENTISTS TELL STUDY OF DRAFT LOTTERY DRAWS

Probabilities Applied to Numbers.

Following is the statement of Dean Walter Bartky and Prof. Samuel A. Stouffer of the University of Chicago on their statistical study of the draft lottery drawings:

Dean Walter Bartky.

"We have been asked to apply the mathematics of probability to the drawings in the selective service lottery.

"The question is: Were the numbers thoroly mixed in the goldfish bowl in Washington, permitting a random drawing? Or were groups of numbers clustered in nests within the bowl, preventing a random drawing?

"The answer must be: The odds were astronomically high against the theory that the selection was conducted at random.

Numbers Apparently in Clusters.

"It is, of course, impossible to reconstruct a picture of the distribution of numbers within the bowl at the time the drawing began. Evidently, however, the numbers did cluster in nests in such a way that the serial numbers in the groups from 1 to 2,400 tended to escape drawing the first 2,000 or so draws, with the curious exception of too frequent drawing of serial numbers in the group 101 to 200.

"For example, no serial number between 300 and 600 was drawn in the first 2,400 draws. [Note Blank A on chart on this page.] By pure chance this would occur less than once in 150,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 times.

"Such an improbability can be translated into everyday experience in terms of a bridge game. It is even more than the chances of drawing a hand of 13 spades three times in succession in a bridge game. The same improbability applies to the serial numbers from 901 to 1,200 [note Blank B on chart] and an even greater improbability to the numbers 1,501 to 1,800 [Blank C on chart. The fourth blank, D, represents the absence of numbers from 2,101 to 2,400]. Considering the early drawings as a whole the improbability of the results happening by chance is so great that it would be absurd even to attempt a numerical calculation.

Numbers 1,001 to 2,000 Worst.

"It may be of interest to holders of various serial numbers to know which groups of numbers were clustered in nests most badly. The numbers 1,001 to 2,000 were worst, and next worst were the numbers 1 to 1,000. The serial numbers most nearly drawn at random thruout the lottery were those from 8,001 to 9,000. We can rank groups numbers according to the degree to which their drawing differed from chance as follows:

	Serial numbers.
Worst	1001 to 2000
2d	1 to 1000
3d	2001 to 3000
4th	5001 to 6000
5th	6001 to 7000
6th	4001 to 5000
7th	3001 to 4000
8th	7001 to 8000
9th [best]	8001 to 9000

"Examining the large table, we can compare the distribution of the actual numbers as a whole with the numbers expected by chance. By the probability theory, only 439 entries in this table would have been expected to be blank. Actually, 747 of the entries are blank. Theoretically, only 109 of the entries should have been higher than 5. Actually, 195 of the entries are higher than 5. There should not have been more than one or two cases in the entire table in which as many as four successive blanks occurred in succession, going down a column.

Odds Too Enormous.

"The actual occurrence of four blanks is so frequent that the odds against this happening are obviously too enormous to justify an attempt at exact calculation.

"An expert making an analysis such as this, based solely on the theory of probability, can only demonstrate the discrepancies and cannot say why they occurred.

"If the mixing had been more thoro, men holding numbers between 0 and 3,000 would have received earlier order numbers. The high serial numbers tended to appear earlier. If, as it is said, a few people actually hold the high serial numbers, a man with a high number is closer to being called than his number indicates.

"Signed: W. Bartky.

He's Caught in Draft—by Family He Deserted

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 1 [Special].—Mrs. George De Lespine, who says her husband "just up and left" 18 months ago, used the draft registration list to discover he is living in Los Angeles. She is demanding financial aid for their three children, aged 8, 5, and 3 years, now on relief.

Brothers in Racine Draw Same Number in Draft

Racine, Wis., Nov. 1 [Special].—Two brothers, living under different draft boards, were assigned the same number, it was revealed here today. Mercerau Steenson, 33 years old, received No. 1,535 from draft board No. 4. He is an employé of the county home. He telephoned his brother, Johnny Steenson, 23 years old, to find out what his number was, and discovered that draft board No. 3 had assigned Johnny No. 1,535 also. The boys haven't figured out the mathematical chances of such an occurrence yet.

MEET THE TWO CANDIDATES IN GOVERNOR RACE!

Sketches of Dwight Green and Harry Hershey.

This article is the last in a series on candidates for state and county offices.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Two gray haired lawyers confront each other at a critical turning point in their careers. Both are mild mannered, but each has shown driving force as a prosecutor. They are the candidates for governor of Illinois: Dwight H. Green, Republican, and Harry B. Hershey, Democrat.

Dwight H. Green [top] and H. B. Hershey.

They have been told that the stakes in their battle are even higher than the governorship. Mayor Kelly has claimed publicly that as governor Hershey would blazon a path to the White House. Green also is regarded as Presidential timber by his supporters.

Both Veteran Public Servants.

Hershey has been in politics for 29 years. Altho as a candidate Green's name zoomed before the voters only last year, he was well known as prosecutor prior to that. The Democratic nominee has spent 16 years in city, county, and state offices. Green's public service of not quite 10 years has been for the federal government.

These candidates have met three times during the campaign. Like opposing lawyers in front of a jury, they observed traditional courtroom amenities, and never a glare was seen as they voiced their conflicting views on government.

Both nominees were born and reared in small midwestern towns and learned the habits of work and study early. And both took law degrees at the University of Chicago. Hershey returned to his old home town, whereas Green stayed on in the big city.

Green Is 43, Hershey 55.

Green's unlined cheeks and clear eyes are a better index of his age—43—than his smooth gray hair. Two decades behind office desks have not robbed him of a trim build—5 feet 8 inches, 165 pounds—developed on the gridiron and diamond. Hershey is 55 years old, just under 6 feet, and, tho big boned, is of spare build. His iron gray hair is curly.

Green's career has been highlighted by his rout of Chicago gangsters as United States district attorney and by his feat of rolling up 637,000 votes against the Kelly-Nash machine last year as Republican candidate for mayor. He received more votes than had any G. O. P. nominee in 10 years.

CAREER OF GREEN

Dwight Herbert Green was born in Ligonier, Ind., a town of 2,000. Reared in this farming community, he earned most of the money that took him to Wabash college.

America entered the war in Green's second college year, and he joined the aviation service. His flying was so good that he was not spared for combat. He was detailed as an instructor for the rest of the war.

Green came to Chicago where jobs as a newspaper reporter and law clerk saw him thru the University of Chicago law school. Three years of private practice were followed by his appointment, late in 1925, as assistant to the solicitor of the bureau of internal revenue at Washington.

There he obtained the groundwork of experience for his part in the prosecution of Al Capone and other leaders in the politico-criminal alliance. He also learned of the problems of business in analyzing tax returns.

In 1927 he was transferred to the penal division of the internal revenue bureau and was assigned to Chicago. He brought with him the bride he won in Washington—pretty Mabel Kingston, now the mother of their two children, Nancy and Gloria.

George E. Q. Johnson was United States district attorney, and he turned over to Green many of the income tax matters coming into his hands. Green aided Johnson and a number of the latter's regular assistants in trial of most of the important tax fraud indictments.

Terry Druggan and Frank Lake, the beer barons, felt the new government weapon first. Six Capone gangsters were hit: Ralph Capone, Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, who now is being prosecuted by the state; Jack and Sam Guzik, Murray Humphreys, and Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin.

Politicians Are Not Spared.

Politicians also were hit—Gene G. Oliver and his crony in Chicago Heights gambling rackets, Oliver J. Ellis; Building Commissioner Christian P. Paschen, and State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien.

District Attorney Johnson was elevated to the federal bench, and Green was appointed his successor. He continued in office until June 3, 1935. This was by action of the four district judges in Chicago, because the senate had pigeon-holed a number of Presidential appointments for the district attorneyship, including Green's.

Green returned to private practice, handling civil cases exclusively, until Republican leaders induced him to run for mayor. He won easily in the primary, and his showing against the party in power in the election aroused great enthusiasm over his candidacy.

Fight on Machine Aids Him.

Thru his fight against the Nash-Kelly machine, he had achieved wide popularity downstate before he appeared before the voters there. When he threw his primary drive for governor into high gear in February he already had traveled more than 20,000 miles and spoken to 250,000 people. He added another 40,000 miles before the votes were counted acclaiming him the nominee.

Keeping everlastingly at it, Green continued to pile up mileage, and has traveled an estimated 50,000 miles since the primary. He suffered minor injuries when his car overturned in a ditch near La Salle. When there was no other way to keep speaking engagements at widely separated towns, he chartered a small airplane.

In state affairs, Green believes that food should be exempted from the sales tax. More than enough sales tax revenue [$90,818,210 in the last fiscal year] is wasted thru pay roll padding than is needed to provide adequate old age assistance and relief, he contends. He promises to reduce state pay rolls by 15 to 25 per cent.

Personal experience has proved to him that the combination of crime and politics can be broken, he declares, and the existence of the alliance now is shown by the parole evil, court manipulations, and ex-convicts on the state police force.

Green was chairman of the Illinois delegation to the Republican convention in Philadelphia and there fought for inclusion of the state plank calling for peace and preparedness.

HERSHEY'S LIFE STORY

Harry Bryant Hershey was born near Mansfield, O., and was taken to Taylorville at the age of 8. His father, a grocer, sent him to the elementary and high schools in this central Illinois city of 8,000.

At the University of Illinois he was on the debating team for three years and was graduated from the liberal arts college in 1909. He was awarded his law degree at the University of Chicago and then considered whether to remain here.

But Hershey likes to be able to say hello to everybody he meets, as he does in Taylorville. And there was a girl—Leah Stapleton of Assumption, who had attended his high school in nearby Taylorville.

So he returned to the home town where the grateful citizenry elected him city attorney in 1911 before he had time to qualify for the bar. The next year he ran for state's attorney and a bride and won both.

In his eight years as prosecutor Hershey achieved a record of 96 per cent convictions in major cases. In 1920 he joined a Decatur law firm but returned to Taylorville and served two terms as mayor.

Hershey was elected to the Democratic state central committee in 1932 and every two years thereafter. In 1938, when Gov. Horner was still at odds with the Kelly-Nash organization, Hershey was elected chairman at a rump meeting. Later the Chicago group conceded his election.

Proud He's Organization Man.

While G. O. P. leaders recently charged that a report was being whispered to independent voters that Hershey would dump the Nash-Kelly organization if he is elected, his words in the primary were recalled:

"I'm proud to be an organization man. There is nothing incompatible between good organization and good government."

In addition to his good law practice in Taylorville, Hershey until his resignation last month held for seven years the post of counsel for the liquidation, conservation, and rehabilitation division of the state insurance department.

Some of his acquaintances recall that he declined to make a race for Circuit court judge, preferring to retain the more lucrative legal post in the state government.

Despite the patronage organization behind him, Hershey has done even more traveling since the primary than Green.

On economy in government, one of Green's main points, Hershey says:

"I believe in practical economy—that is, keeping the cost of government at a minimum, yet giving to the people every essential service which a commonwealth should render to its citizens."

Tells Views on Vote Thefts.

As to Green's demands for drastic laws to cut down vote thefts, Hershey states: "I want no vote counted for me that is not honestly counted."

He pledges support of a program for complete electrification of rural communities and says that "the voice of labor will continue to be heard and heeded in Springfield when I am governor."

The Hersheys have two boys, August and Richard. August is 25, holds degrees in chemical engineering, and is employed by the Standard Oil company in Baton Rouge, La. Richard was graduated from the Harvard law school in June at the age of 23.

Decree Made Final

DOROTHY POYNTON HILL.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. - [Special].—Dorothy Poynton Hill, 1932 Olympic games champion, today had her divorce from Nelson L. Hill, manufacturer's agent, made final. Charging mental cruelty, the 25 year old swimmer obtained an interlocutory decree a year ago. Attorney Frederick L. Howard, who filed her final decree, today said that efforts toward a reconciliation had failed. They were married in May, 1934, and separated Sept. 25, 1939. A property settlement providing for 24 monthly payments of $100 each previously had been approved in Superior court.

EARLY DESERTS CAMPAIGN; HEARS VICTIM WILL SUE

Incident Has New Dealers Greatly Worried.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Roosevelt Special Train en Route to Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 1.—White House Secretary Stephen Early, a grand nephew of Jubal Early, confederate cavalry leader, today deserted President Roosevelt's third term campaign special in the face of the enemy.

Under fire of the Republican opposition for kneeing a Negro policeman in an altercation near the end of President Roosevelt's campaign visit to New York last Monday, Secretary Early chose to remain in Washington, D. C., rather than accompany his chief to Brooklyn, where the President delivered his fourth admitted campaign speech tonight.

Report He Faces Suit.

Reports that he would be served with processes for a civil suit in behalf of the policeman, James Sloan, who was taken to a hospital as a result of his injuries, were believed to have prompted Early's decision.

He deserted the campaign after Bruce Barton of New York, Republican candidate for the United States senate, issued a challenge for Early to appear at a party rally in New York City tonight and try his tactics on Joe Louis, world's heavyweight boxing champion, who was to be at the rally. Louis has described Early's attack on the policeman as "the foulest blow of the campaign."

During the day, Policeman Sloan was supposed to have received a message of apology from Early, but he denied receiving one. In the message Early said he was sorry for the attack on the officer and at the same time denied that he had injured him. Early expressed regret that political capital is being made out of the incident.

New Dealers Worried.

The matter has given New Dealers more concern than anything that has happened in the campaign since the second son of the President, Elliott Roosevelt, was commissioned a captain in the air corps.

It is felt that the incident might well cost the New Deal the state of New York and possibly the election, altho impartial observers say that New York already had been lost to the administration.

Early's duties aboard the campaign special are being performed by William D. Hassett, his assistant.

STATE WPA LISTS UP DESPITE GAIN IN PRIVATE JOBS

The number of WPA workers in Illinois has been increasing steadily in recent months in spite of gains in private employment, WPA reports showed yesterday. The latest report shows 116,203 workers on WPA rolls in Illinois on Oct. 23, compared with 115,757 a week earlier and 111,947 on Sept. 25. In Chicago there were 40,819 WPA employés on Oct. 23, compared with 39,545 on Sept. 25.

Charles Miner, state WPA administrator, said the state is simply filling its quota of 117,000 employés and that 54,000 others are eligible but are not being taken because the quota is nearly filled.

The statewide figure of 116,203 represents a steady increase since mid-July when 108,207 WPA workers were employed in Illinois. In Chicago 2,974 workers have been added to the rolls since the middle of July. The state department of labor reports a steady increase in private employment during these months.

The rise in WPA rolls recalled the charge made by the Republican Presidential nominee, Wendell L. Willkie in August, that the New Deal has stepped up WPA employment in the summer and early fall in election years, but has reduced the rolls in nonelection years.

EX-LEGION CHIEF HITS DEMOCRATIC MACHINE TIEUPS

Independent Democrats who once fought Kelly-Nash rule in primary campaigns have developed a liking for dictatorship, Edward A. Hayes, past state and national commander of the American Legion, charged last night in a radio address. He spoke in behalf of Dwight H. Green's candidacy for governor.

Harry B. Hershey, Democratic candidate for governor, Senator Scott Lucas, Gov. John Stelle, and State Treasurer Louie E. Lewis, Hershey's running mate, were the targets of Hayes' charges. He accused Lucas, Stelle, and Lewis of aiding the same machine that they had once denounced in spreading its domination beyond Chicago and over the entire state.

He termed Hershey a "figurehead set up to confuse the voters" and conceal the boss rule which would follow if he were elected.

REVEAL U. S. LETS BRITAIN IN ON ALL ITS SECRET ARMS

Guarded Bomb Sight Is Reported Included.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—All military secrets of the United States are at the disposal of Great Britain. This was revealed today when Senator Rush Holt [D., W. Va.] made public copies of a letter sent by the British purchasing commission to a Chicago manufacturer.

W. E. Leigh.

For several weeks it has been said in government circles that the army's bomb sight, its most cherished secret, has been made available to the British. Today's disclosure supplied evidence for this report and made known also that other American inventions are being turned over to Great Britain as soon as their military value becomes apparent.

Asked today whether it is true that the bomb sights are being manufactured here for the use of Great Britain, President Roosevelt made an evasive reply. He said he hadn't any idea whether the story is true.

The letter made public by Senator Holt was written to Howard D. Salins, managing director of the Flax and Fiber Publishing company, 6423 Newgard avenue, Chicago. Signed by W. E. Leigh, purchasing agent for munitions of the British purchasing commission, it was in reply to letters written by Salins in which he outlined details of a new explosive with which he was experimenting.

"It is not my purpose to pass judgment on technical matters, but an idea occurs to me which will be helpful to you," Leigh wrote.

"Why not submit your ideas to the United States government? We are working very closely with the authorities in Washington, and you may be sure that anything of value which may be developed by you with them will be made available to the British cause. You have been so earnest in your desire to help us that I am confident this suggestion will appeal to you."

This flat statement by the British representatives in this country is convincing proof that the bomb sight and other military secrets have been made available to Great Britain, Senator Holt asserted.

ELECT WILLIS, CIVIC SOCIETY URGES INDIANA

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 [Special].—The Good Government National committee today called upon the citizens of Indiana to elect Republican Nominee Raymond E. Willis to the United States senate next Tuesday in the place of the Democratic incumbent, Sherman Minton.

The committee is the national civic body of independent voters which supports candidates from each major political party on the basis of their personal fitness for the office sought.

In making the announcement of this nonpartisan support for Willis, the committee chairman, Richard A. Staderman, said that Minton, in addition to his rubber stamp efforts to bring about concentration of power in the hands of government burocrats, had been a leader in the fight against the Logan-Walter bill designed to protect the average citizen from being arbitrarily ordered around by officials "drunk with power."

WILLKIE BLAMES ROOSEVELT FOR LACK OF PLANES

Let's Not Fool Ourselves, Nominee Urges.

Aboard Willkie Train in New Jersey, Nov. 1(AP).—Following are excerpts from a talk by Wendell Willkie, Republican Presidential candidate, from his special train tonight:

"The third term candidate, in his speech at Boston, finally ate his own words, and admitted that expanding production is essential. In that speech he discussed, among other things, the question of military airplanes. And this is what he said:

"'What counts most in sustained air power is the productive capacity of our airplane factories.'

"And he went on to say that the productive capacity of the United States 'will make us the strongest air power in the world.'

Arrives "Fearfully Late."

"It is good that the third term candidate finally has come to this conclusion. Better late than never.

"But he has come to it fearfully late. And even now he does not seem to know the difference between production on hand and production that is just on order. The third term candidate in that speech repeated his promise to attain a production capacity of 50,000 planes a year in the United States, and he said:

"'Day and night we are working and making rapid progress toward that goal.' That sounds good. But let's look into the record to see just when we began to make this rapid progress and see how far we are getting.

"In June, 1937, Secretary of War Woodring, in his annual report to the President, warned us of the need for strengthening our air forces. He said:

"'It should be borne in mind that modern aircraft cannot be quickly improvised. The construction of airplanes necessarily takes considerable time. Hence our peace time strength should approximate rather closely our requirements in war.'

Said We Didn't Need It.

"That was more than three years ago. Yet, the third term candidate in a special message to congress in January, 1939, had this to say:

"'No responsible officer advocates the building up of an air force to the total of planes on hand or of productive capacity equal to the forces of certain other nations.'

"Note that he said not merely that we didn't need the planes on hand, but that we did not need the productive capacity.

"That was four months after Munich. Nine months later, Poland was blasted into surrender by Hitler's air force. Yet it was not until May 16, 1940, almost 8 months after the surrender of Poland, that the New Deal administration woke up to the fact that the United States had only a few hundred fighting planes.

Calls for 50,000 Planes.

"At that late date the third term candidate made a speech to congress in which he pictured the possible bombing of our great middle wetern cities, and called for a program of 50,000 military and naval airplanes, plus capacity to produce that number each year.

"This was the first real indication that the third term candidate gave of his interest in airplanes and airplane production. Behind it lay a history of neglect and abuse.

"Let's run back over that history. It helps to explain the perilous position in which we now find ourselves.

"In 1933, when the New Deal first took office, the United States was the acknowledged leader of the world in aviation. When the third term candidate first took office, we had assistant secretaries of air in the war and navy departments. These offices became vacant. Mr. Roosevelt never filled them, and they are vacant to this very day. And listen to the reason he gave. It was said to be for purposes of economy.

'A Cinder in Path to Moon.'

That was the third term candidate's shining tribute to governmental economy. He haved a few thousand dollars a year at the expense of our aviation. But since that time he has spent more than 60 billion dollars. These few thousand saved in relation to 60 billion dollars spent looks like a cinder in a path to the moon.

"But that wasn't all. Less than a year after he had first taken office, the third term candidate gave a tremendous setback to the development of our civil aviation by canceling arbitrarily and without warning, all domestic air mail contracts.

"Every one remembers that tragic episode. Without instruments, without preparation, and without the specialized training required, the army was ordered to fly the mail. It obeyed orders. And 12 young army aviators crashed to their deaths before an aroused public opinion compelled the New Deal to beat a hasty retreat from this disastrous political raid upon our aviation companies.

Asks a Question.

"In Boston on Wednesday night the third term candidate related with pride the efforts at rapid expansion that are being made by our private airplane manufacturers.

"But I should like to ask him this:

"Mr. Third Term Candidate, what have you ever done to encourage the expansion of our private airplane factories?

"The recent expansion in our airplane production has been due almost entirely to orders placed by commercial airlines and foreign governments. Much of the expansion of our airplane industry is due to the orders of the British government. Until the last few months, our major aircraft factories were starved for orders, as far as this administration was concerned.

Credit to Britain, Too.

"The credit for increased production belongs to the airplane industry and to the orders that have been placed here by Great Britain. The credit or discredit for our lack of greater productive capacity belongs elsewhere. And the third term candidate knows where it belongs.

"And now, with deceptive optimism, he tells us we are making 'very rapid progress toward the goal' of a production capacity of 50,000 planes a year. He tells us proudly that he has asked for sympathetic consideration for orders that the British government seeks to place with American manufacturers for 12,000 additional planes.

"This will bring Britain's present orders for military planes from the United States to more than 26,000 planes.

"But he does not tell us when Britain will get those 26,000 planes, nor when our military forces will get the 50,000 planes he talks about.

What Knudsen Said.

"For that information, however, we have reliable sources.

"William S. Knudsen made a statement about airplane production on Oct. 8 last. This is what he said:

"'We are scheduled to turn out 1,133 planes in October. I think we will get around 900 to 950.'

"In other words, Mr. Knudsen tells us that this month we are scheduled to turn out only 1,133 planes. And yet, we know that Germany is currently turning out at least twice that number each month.

"But more than that. According to Mr. Knudsen's figures, our actual production will fall about 200 planes below the schedule; and remember, I am talking in terms of actual planes and not in terms of percentage of undisclosed figures.

3,000 by 1942, He Hopes.

"In October, we will only get from 900 to 950 planes. At that rate, how long will it take to make these 26,000 planes for Great Britain plus 50,000 planes for our own armed forces?

"Well, Mr. Knudsen had something further to say on that. He said:

"'We hope to reach 1,250 planes by January 1, and 1,500 planes by July 1. After that we should do better up to the spring of 1942, when we hope to reach 3,000 planes.'

"That means that it will be another 18 months before we are scheduled to produce as many as 3,000 planes a month or 36,000 a year. And if we succeed in fulfilling the schedule, which we are not doing at this time, we will still be far short of the goal of 50,000 planes toward which the third term candidate says we are making such progress.

Stop Fooling Ourselves.

"Now, in pointing this out, I do not imply any criticism whatever of our airplane manufacturers. They are doing an amazing job in keeping with the finest traditions of American industry. I merely want to say that we should stop fooling ourselves with talk about rapidly reaching 50,000 planes annually.

"Anybody who knows anything about production will understand that after years of neglect and abuse of industry by the New Deal that goal cannot be reached short of a period of years. Mere talk won't bring us closer.

"We have an administration, which for more than seven years has not, and does not have the capacity or the training to understand the facts of production, and has not believed in the need for productive capacity.

"All over this country in the last several weeks I have been preaching production, production. Only by production, only by the outpouring of more and more goods which we need can we make our people strong. Only the strong can be free, and only the productive are strong.

"Deep Rooted Conviction."

"That is the road which America has always advanced toward a higher standard of living. For us this is no 11th hour conversion, this is no political expediency, this is a deep-rooted conviction.

"People of America, it is the time to turn our backs on the wasted years of stifled enterprise, neglected industry, and chronic unemployment. People of America, time to put an administration in office that is sympathetic with and understands the necessity of America again becoming the greatest productive nation in the world. An administration that can bring unity between labor and industry and agriculture to make America strong and to keep America free.

"That is our goal. Elect the Republican ticket this fall and that goal will be achieved."

G. O. P. IS SEEKING A DICTATORSHIP, SAYS ROOSEVELT

Alleges Tieup of Radicals and Reactionaries.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 1 (AP).—Following is the text in part of President Roosevelt's address here tonight:

"This is a strange campaign. Here it is almost the day of election, and it is still impossible to determine what are the principles of the opposition party. What is it that the Republican leaders would do during the next four years if given a chance?

"They have made campaign speeches on all sides of all questions.

"That is the way they seek to catch a vote here and a vote there and pick one out of the air.

"There is, however, one explanation for these contradictions, rather a sad explanation. That explanation is found in the strange, the very strange, assortment of political bedfellows who have been brought together in the Republican political dormitory.

"Many conflicting interests, many irreconcilable social outlooks, many fundamentally opposite economic attitudes have been thrown together under one political roof.

"The only common philosophy and the only common purpose they have is to get wholly rid of all the New Deal—lock, stock, and barrel—and to get control of government in their own hands for their own purposes.

Won't Succeed, He Says.

"I am certain that the rank and file of patriotic Republicans do not foist their falsifications on the American people, they will never be able to foist this only common purpose of theirs upon the American people.

"We will all see to that next Tuesday.

"There is something very ominous in this combination which has been forming within the Republican party between the extreme reactionary and the extreme radical elements of this country.

"There is no common ground upon which they can unite, unless it be their common will to power, and their impatience with the normal democratic processes to produce overnight the inconsistent dictatorial ends they each seek.

"No elements in American public life have made such vicious attacks upon each other in recent years as have the members of this new unholy alliance against each other.

"I do not think that some of the men, even some of the leaders, who have been drawn into this unholy alliance realize what a threat that sort of an alliance may bring to the future of democracy in this country.

Senses "Something Evil."

"Just as they have not been able to realize the nature of this threat.

"They should remember, and we must remember, what the collaborative understanding between communism and Naziism has done to the progresses of democracy abroad.

"Something evil is happening in this country when a full page advertisment against this administration, paid for by Republican supporters, appears—where of all places?—in the Daily Worker, the newspaper of the communist party.

"Something evil is happening in this country when vast quantities of Republican literature are distributed by organizations which make no secret of their admiration for the dictatorship form of government.

"These forces hate democracy and Christianity as two phases of the same civilization. They oppose democracy because it is Christian. They oppose Christianity because it preaches democracy.

"Their objective is to prevent democracy from becoming strong and purposeful. We are strong and purposeful now and intend to remain so.

Cites Recovery Since 1933.

"You all know the history of recovery, beginning in 1933, and progressing ever since.

"Our economic system began again to function. Then came the suggestion from monopolistic finance that while the government had done a good rescue job, the best thing it could do at that point was to forget all about it, and to turn the whole economic system back to Wall street to run it again.

"They little knew the temper of the American people. The New Deal was no mere rescue party, to restore to a chosen few their old power over the people's savings, the people's labor, the people's lives.

"We all remember how negligible was the opposition this administration met in the early days, when it was cleaning up the wreckage which had come from the era of speculation.

"The bitter opposition from Republican leaders did not come until a little later. It came when this administration made it clear that we were not merely salvaging a few things from the past, but that we were determined to make our system of private enterprise and private profit work more efficiently and democratically, to fill the demands and needs of all the people of America.

Alleges G. O. P. Obstruction.

"Most Republican leaders in our own country for the last seven years have bitterly fought and blocked that forward surge of average men and women in the pursuit of happiness.

And let us not be deluded that overnight those leaders have become the real friends of these average men and women.

"Do you believe that the bulk of the money to finance this vast Republican campaign is being provided by people who have the interests of the common man at heart? Very few of us are so gullible.

"Oh, they may say at election time that they approve the social gains and social objectives of the last seven years. But I say that these men have not yet proven that they even understand what these social gains or social objectives have been.

"The American people know how many and how difficult were the battles we have fought and won in the last seven years.

"Our program in the past, our program for the future, is equality of economic opportunity. Such a program calls for many things. It requires an orderly settlement of industrial disputes not by those devoted to company unions, but by agencies alert to the requirements of labor and mindful of the responsibilities of industry.

"This program entails old age insurance and unemployment insurance, operating on an increasingly wider base so that eventually it will include every man and woman in this country.

"It makes available cheap credit to impoverished tenants, consumers, and small business. In fact, our program starts with small business, so that it may grow and flourish.

"It curbs the old predatory activities of high finance and monopoly practices.

"It guarantees that our national resources are used for the benefit of the whole people—not exploited for the benefit of a few.

Asserts Business Flourishes.

"It provides for the resettlement of farmers from marginal lands to richer lands, and for farm ownership for enslaved tenants.

"Monopoly does not like this program. Certain types of high finance do not like it. Most of the American plutocracy does not like it.

"But the vast majority of American business, the backbone of American business, continues to grow and flourish under it.

"We are a nation of many nationalities, many races, many religions—bound together by a single unity, the unity of freedom and equality.

"Whoever seeks to set one nationality against another, seeks to degrade all nationalities.

"Whoever seeks to set one race against another seeks to enslave all races.

"Whoever seeks to set one religion against another, seeks to destroy all religions.

Promises to Keep Up Fight.

"I am fighting for a free America—for a country in which all men and women have equal right to liberty and justice.

"I am fighting against the revival of government by special privilege—government by lobbyists—government vested in the hands of those who favor and who would have us imitate the foreign dictatorships.

"I am fighting, as I have always fought, for the rights of the little man as well as the big man, for the weak as well as the strong, for those who are helpless as well as for those who can help themselves.

"I am fighting to keep this nation prosperous and at peace. I am fighting to keep our people out of foreign wars, and to keep foreign conceptions of government out of our own United States.

"I am fighting for these great and good causes. I am fighting to defend them against the power and might of those who now rise up to challenge them.

"And I shall not stop fighting!"

WILLKIE TELLS JERSEY CROWDS OF NEW GAINS

He Is 'Surer and Surer' of Victory.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Willkie Special Train, Nov. 1.—Wendell Willkie, nearing the end of a seven week, 18,000 mile train ride, made campaign speeches today at New Brunswick, N. J., and Elizabeth, N. J.

Willkie is confident of victory in the election, altho he thinks it might be close, and he told his listeners so.

"I wish you could be with me on my train and get the constantly encouraging reports from all over the country that I am receiving," Willkie told his New Brunswick audience of 10,000 this morning. "Already this morning I have heard from responsible people that Missouri is now over the line and that we are going to carry it.

"Also, in Kentucky, the swing is coming more rapidly every hour. I feel very confident that we are going to carry West Virginia, and I know from the crowds I have seen in New Jersey in the last few days that there is no question about what is going to happen in this state, despite Frank Hague.

"Surer and Surer."

"Every day I feel surer and surer. We are on the march, and we are going to vote on Nov. 5 and put into office people who don't speak of foreign ambassadors as 'my ambassador.'

"I have conducted the campaign, so far as I am concerned, upon the assumption that the American people are intelligent people; that they love their country; that they are really concerned about it and want to hear about the real issues of the campaign.

"There is no man in the United States who appreciates more than I do the critical situation abroad. But, after all, the primary issues of this campaign are American issues. I expect to be elected President of the United States. That is the job I am interested in."

Willkie talked of the budget issue and the "road to bankruptcy" which he sees the New Deal pursuing.

Speech at Elizabeth.

By the time Willkie had reached Elizabeth, N. J., at noon he had new reports to encourage him.

"From California east the surge is on," he told a crowd of 30,000. "The free people of America are resolved that they are going to make a change in the White House on next Jan. 20.

"I listened to the third term candidate talk in Boston. He said it was the 'third inning.' Well, I don't know what he intended to imply, whether he thought he was going to have nine innings or not, but I will tell you something. There is not going to be any third inning. As far as he is concerned the game has been called at the end of the second inning on account of darkness."

"Doctrine of Stagnation."

The third term doctrine, Willkie declared, is "the doctrine of stagnation, a doctrine without merit, a violation of any experience of your own life and certainly contrary to the basic principles of a free government.

"Here," he added, "is a man seeking a third term, in violation of tradition. Up to this moment he has never said a word as to why he should be permitted that violation. At first he started out on the theory of a draft. The draft rapidly passed into make-believe military inspection trips. Now he is out beating the bushes, apparently, running against Joe Martin for congress."

In a statement issued from his train Willkie said that the policies of the third term candidate are "leading us straight to a war for which we are totally unready."

IRVIN COBB HAILS 'ONLY DEMOCRAT IN RACE'—WILLKIE

Sees Rebirth of Party if New Deal Is Ousted.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 1 (AP).—Irvin S. Cobb said tonight, "We may be very sure—as sure as the sun shines—that President Roosevelt, if reelected, will carry us into war as swiftly as he can take us there."

In a nation-wide broadcast Cobb asked: "What's wrong with the horse swapping idea?"

Regarding President Roosevelt's reference to Joseph Kennedy as "my ambassador," Cobb said:

"We may be very sure that if we give him [Roosevelt] an unlimited tenure of office by electing him to a third term it shortly will not be 'our' or 'your,' but 'my army,' 'my navy,' 'my government,' and 'my war.'"

Perpetuation Opposed.

Cobb asserted he had "countless" reasons for opposing the "perpetuation of the political theories of the double deal, most of them having accumulated since the beginning of 1937.

"In fact, I counted up to the first half million and then I got tired and stopped.

"I always have been a Democrat and I always shall be a Democrat—and in that statement is my reason and my boast and my pride that this year I shall vote a straight Democratic ticket.

"I shall vote for every Democrat running for state or local office . . . and for President I shall vote for the only Democrat running for President this year under any party emblem whatsoever.

No Third Term.

"I shall vote for the one candidate for President who has pledged himself to support the oldest democratic doctrine, the truest and most sacred unwritten law of America, . . . the rule that in this free country . . . there shall be no third term for any mortal man among us—or even for a member of the Roosevelt family!

"Where would this union have been had not Lincoln, in the darkest hour of the civil war, swapped horses midway of the stream—a Grant for a McClellan?

"Where in this very year would Britain now be had she not swapped horses in the middle of the stream and traded off a Chamberlain for Churchill?"

A Democratic Cabinet.

"I favor Wendell Willkie," Cobb said, "because—and maybe coming from a Democrat this is selfish—if he is elected, he will have more Democrats in his cabinet than the New Deal outfit ever did.

"I mean sure-enough, straight out Democrats, not political halfwits and freaks, nor partyless political adventurers, nor social revolutionists like President Roosevelt's present running mate, Henry Wallace, nor yet camouflaged renegades from both camps.

"And the Republicans in that coalition cabinet of his will be real Republicans, not visionaries, not Meddlesome Matties, not professional grudge-tofers and warmongers and sword rattlers of the school headed by Grandpaw Knox and Great-Grandpaw Stimson, both of whom are so anxious to rush us, unprepared as we are, into actual hostilities with Japan and Germany and a few other nations; both so ready and pantingly eager to send our boys forth to fight on foreign waters and perhaps in foreign lands.

"Those two venerable fire-breathing, bloodthirsty gentlemen—did you ever notice how generous they are with other peoples' boys?"

VETERAN EDITOR IN NEW ORLEANS OUT FOR WILLKIE

New Orleans, La., Nov. 1 (AP).—James M. Thomson, veteran publisher of the New Orleans Item and Tribune, announced in a front page editorial today he would scratch the Democratic ticket for the first time in his life next Tuesday to vote for Wendell L. Willkie, the Republican Presidential nominee.

In his statement Thomson said:

"I look upon the no third term tradition as a part of the unwritten law of our republic. As a practical matter I believe that 12 continuous years in office of President would establish a precedent dangerous to our liberties and the American way of life. I believe that any one who advises others in imporant matters should declare himself. So on Tuesday next, I shall cast my vote for the Louisiana electors committed to Wendell Willkie.

"I shall do this believing that Mr. Willkie is an unusually able and competent man, well equipped to make the United States a good President. For 40 years I have voted a straight Democratic ticket in our national elections. My vote for Willkie will represent my first vote against a national Democratic nominee. I shall vote for our Democratic nominees for congress and for local offices."

The Item, published by Thomson, is one of the south's oldest afternoon newspapers and has been Democratic for 63 years. It supported Franklin D. Roosevelt for President in 1932.

XII. UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Not least among the gifts of fortune to Roosevelt was that he should be misunderstood by both his followers and his enemies. His followers glorified him as a superman, a great, wise, powerful, benevolent friend of the people. His enemies glorified him as a would-be dictator, contriving with demoniac cleverness the destruction of our liberties and the socialization of their factories and countinghouses. In both cases they glorified him.

A democratic people will never yield despotic powers to a dictator. First some benevolent person whose good intentions they respect must come along and, for perfectly good reasons, ask them to weaken those safeguards that free men have set up thru the centuries to protect them from the political tyrant. Having broken them down for their benevolent friend, the breach remains for the dictator to march thru when he appears.

If he comes he will be far more assertive, self-assured, ruthless man than Franklin Roosevelt. But he will find his way made easier if not wholly possible thru these breaks and cracks in the Democratic processes which Roosevelt made with good intentions.

Won People's Gratitude.

He did lose his head. And that is somewhat understandable. Roosevelt is a vain man, but not truculently vain. He made some very commendable concessions about his understanding of the grave problems of the economic world when he began. But then came the episode of the crash—that utterly astonishing collapse of everything, with all the pageantry of the inauguration, the acclaim of the people, a whole nation turning to this smiling, happy new chief; the many orders and commands he gave, most of them worked out for him behind the scenes while he was busy with the details of the inaugural parade; and then the sudden recovery of the nation's morale.

He stood like a hero in the center of that historic scene. Then came the billions. Senators, officials, leaders from everywhere flocked to him to ask for money and sing his praises. I dare say a man—even tho a quite ordinary one—sitting alone in his room at night, may be forgiven if he thinks to himself: "By golly! Maybe I'm pretty good after all."

Victory Ended Usefulness.

The greatest disservice to Franklin Roosevelt was the 1936 election, when he carried every state save two small ones. After that the man's usefulness to the country was ended.

It was this that sent him off on that fatal adventure of the court plan. There again he proceeded as he did about the airplanes. Men had been talking about naming an extra judge or two. When some one—Attorney General Cummings—gave him a plan for six new judges it fired him at once, just as the suggestion of 50,000 airplanes, however impossible, fired his imagination.

It was audacious. It was spectacular. He would conquer the court utterly. He notified the Democratic leaders in congress like a monarch issuing orders to his ministers in his cabinet. He announced it to one of his field generals thus: "Well," he said, "I have decided to pack the court." He had lost his bearings.

Lost Party's Confidence.

The crushing defeat he suffered split his party and embittered him. The extent to which he has lost the confidence of his own party in congress is not even suspected by the public.

Men quite generally speak of the President's great program of social reform. This is a field where the President feels quite comfortable. The squire in him—the kind gentleman in the big mansion in the midst of the village—the rich man who is resolved to treat the village folk generously—this is the school to which he belongs.

It is a little difficult to define what this program has been. It is obviously those measures for mitigating the condition of the "forgotten man" that we think about—those things which men generally agree they do not want to see go. What are these measures?

Resisted Social Security.

They do not include, of course, things like the WPA, the PWA, the payment of subsidies to farmers, business men, home owners, etc.—all of those numerous bureaus that pay out to the people billions of funds borrowed by the government. These are looked upon as crisis or emergency devices. These are things everybody wants to get rid of. Every one, including the President, hopes to bring about a sound recovery when these things will disappear.

What, then, are the President's great measures of social reform? Perhaps we might include the SEC and the Securities act for the regulation of security markets. More important are the Social security act, the Minimum Wage act, and the National Labor Relations board. It is not possible to think of any others.

Now there is something about the most important of these that is but little remembered—the Social Security act, the act providing old age pensions and unemployment insurance. I now wish to make three or four statements about this. I know before I write them that no one will believe them. I hope that the reader will read them twice.

Held Up Social Security.

It is generally supposed that President Roosevelt put thru the Social Security act. No one will believe that he actually held it up. The Social Security act was demanded by the people as a result of the depression. And the demand was universal. No President would have dared to postpone it. Roosevelt tried to.

The first act, introduced by Senator Wagner, he refused to support. In 1934, almost 15 months after he took office, a committee called on him to urge action. He temporized with them. Then the Townsend movement began to roll up powerful support. The Republicans denounced the President for doing nothing about social security, and the campaign of 1934 was approaching. Then he named a committee to study the subject.

After the election he again did nothing. Then another group of men called on him and he told them, "The time is not ripe for old age pensions yet." What he could have meant it is difficult to say. There was not only no opposition; there was a clamorous and universal demand for this.

A Fiscal Monstrosity.

When the President was finally forced to act and the committee of experts he named reported their plan, he junked the whole plan and sent in a half-baked and immature bill written by an inexperienced young man that was so bad that congressmen said they didn't know what it meant. In the end a bill was passed, but not until 1935. And then it had in it one of the most amazing fiscal monstrosities in the history of government finance.

It made the rates charged the working people and their employers twice as high as they should be. Why? In order to bring in enough to pay for the benefits to the workers and, in addition, provide billions of dollars to pay the ordinary costs of the government. This was done under the guise of an old age reserve fund which was to accumulate until it reached the fantastic total of 47 billion dollars. This was one of those plausible ideas which the President, in his more or less immature conception of finance, imagined was quite an invention.

"This Weird Idea."

A few days before the act was approved this weird idea was sold to him in a few brief conversations very much as the Warren money scheme, the undivided profits tax, and the automatic vending machine to emancipate the clerks from drudgery in a clerkless world were sold him. This amazing reserve idea was so bad, indeed, that the President and his secretary of the treasury, when confronted with a movement against it last year, had to admit it was wrong and agree to end it.

Yet the President gets credit for this social security act. Honest but ill-informed people say that if he were to lose power this might be imperiled. They talk as if he had put this over in the face of tremendous opposition. The President had to be driven to this great reform.

But in the midst of all this nothing was done about the subject of making our economic system work. It is today as completely foundered as it was in 1933. Nothing was done about the railroads—save to continue what the President had denounced, lending more money, increasing the debts, putting off the evil day.

Collapse of Building.

The building industry was crushed under the weight of labor racketeering and material dealer and manufacturer combinations to keep up prices. Instead of breaking these up the President thru the NRA suspended the antitrust laws under which they could be prosecuted and actually summoned them to Washington to make bigger and tighter combinations. The building industry is as completely in collapse today as it was in 1932.

He introduced uncertainty and fear into the minds of investors first by his incredible money tinkering and his inveterate borrowing policy and second by his big talk—speeches to please the liberals and progressives, threatening things he never had any intention of doing.

He Frightened Investors.

He called Moley at the beginning of a session of congress and told him to get up for him a "fighting speech." When Moley asked what he wanted to fight, he said: "I want to please the liberals." While no important action injurious to business followed these fiery proclamations, they did serve to send investors into the storm cellar.

Politics, vacillation, the eternal straining after cleverness, a mind, as H. G. Wells observed of the President, "appallingly open," open indeed at both ends, thru which all sorts of half baked ideas flow, love of the spectacular, preoccupation with war problems and the affairs of Europe, and only a dim perception of the profound problems of economics and finance that dominate our scene, good intentions mixed with confused ethical concepts—these have brought the President to the tragic point where the only thing that can save his régime is to take the country off into a war hysteria.

Is He Indispensable?

Seven years since he took office there are 11 million unemployed, private investment is dead, the farm problem is precisely where he found it. He put thru some social reforms that the country was yelling for. But these social reforms have to be almost completely overhauled. As for recovery—the President has not one plan. The cost of all this has been 22 billion dollars, all yet to be paid.

If it has all happened that way, it is because Franklin D. Roosevelt is that way.

What has been written here I believe to be an honest account of Mr. Roosevelt. After reading it you may well say that in spite of it there is on the other side much to be said for the President. But whatever may be said for him, in the light of what I have outlined here, is it possible to say that among 130,000,000 men and women he is the indispensable man?

THE END.

YOUNGEST QUADS IN U. S. NEARING SECOND BIRTHDAY

Galveston, Tex., Nov. 1 [Special].—The Badgett quadruplets—America's youngest—are nearing their second birthday in perfect trim despite the absence of any unusual precautions to safeguard their health.

The four girls—Joan, Joyce, Jeraldine, and Jeanette, are being reared in simple fashion, their mother, Mrs. W. Ellis Badgett, 38 years old, explained. She takes care of them herself without help from any nurse or governess.

The blonde little girls are housed in one light, airy room of the Badgetts' modest bungalow. The city of Galveston, appreciative of the publicity they have attracted, is endeavoring to raise $10,000 to buy a home for them.

LUCAS PLEADS FOR ROOSEVELT: 'U. S. NEEDS UNITY'

Belleville, Ill., Nov. 1 (AP).—Senator Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] said tonight that the Roosevelt administration was seeking to prepare the nation so adequately that "no new antidemocratic or antirepublican theory of government would dare to disturb" American ideals.

Lucas, who is chairman of Democratic midwestern headquarters, urged the reëlection of President Roosevelt and the return to congress of a Democratic majority "because the United States needs the unity in thought and action and the experienced guidance which Mr. Roosevelt and a Democratic administration can give."

He praised what he said was the "true patriotism" of Americans of German descent.

REPORT KENNEDY IS BUSY TALKING UP A WAR CRISIS

New York, Nov. 1 [Special].—Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to Great Britain, who rushed home from his London post by Clipper plane just in time to take an active part in the Presidential campaign, today was reported to be strenuously continuing his rôle of promoting a "war crisis," reputedly his prime "campaign assignment."

Kennedy, it was widely reported yesterday and today, is as busy as any Democratic stump campaigner, but is confining himself to a long series of calls to business leaders—warning them that England is "washed up," that her "credit is gone," and that she is "doomed."

Ever since his radio speech of Tuesday night Kennedy, to whom President Roosevelt referred in his Boston speech as "my ambassador," has been systematically talking to various persons and repeating his "England-is-doomed" talk, it was reported today.

Gen. Hugh Johnson, in a radio address last night, accused Kennedy of being a "warmonger." Others have branded the ambassador's utterance as "the worst kind of warmongering and propaganda" put out for political purposes.

STANDINGS HOLD IN NEW ILLINOIS STRAW BALLOTS

Willkie Gains in Indiana and Wisconsin.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Little change in the relative standing of President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie in Illinois is shown in a recanvass last Thursday of areas polled in The Tribune straw vote two weeks before. Willkie has 50.8 per cent of the 128,055 straw ballots now tabulated in the state, which is what he had last Wednesday.

In Chicago, the canvassers on Thursday covered street corners in 18 wards which had been polled before. These street corners gave the President 1.3 percentage points more than a fortnight before. Of the 18 places, about 65 per cent were in strong Democratic wards. The effect was to raise the Roosevelt cumulative share of a total 59,939 Chicago straws now tabulated by .1 of a point from the day before. His total in Chicago for twelve days of polling is 57.1 per cent. It was at that mark last Wednesday.

Willkie Gains Downstate.

In 23 downstate cities in which new canvasses were taken, Willkie got .6 of a point more than two weeks ago. In 155 cities so far in the tables he has 56.9 per cent of the straw votes.

The table remains somewhat top heavy with straws from Chicago, where Roosevelt is strongest. Of the total 128,055 Illinois straws, 47 per cent are from Chicago. Four years ago, Chicago cast 42.6 per cent of all the Republican-Democratic votes in the state.

When the table is weighted to rectify this overproportion, and the straw percentages given Roosevelt and Willkie in Chicago, the Cook county town and downstate, are applied to the 1936 presidential election figures, they give a projected percentage in all Illinois as follows: Roosevelt, 48.1; Willkie, 51.9.

WILLKIE UP IN WISCONSIN

Canvasses in 14 Wisconsin cities which supplied 4,763 ballots served to increase Willkie's percentage one-fifth of a point. In 42 cities so far tabulated Willkie has 53.4 per cent of 22,037 straws gathered. Four years ago in the same cities Roosevelt had 64 per cent of the vote.

In Madison last Thursday a poll scattered over the city including downtown streets and industrial workers, the President got 65.3 per cent. In a poll on Oct. 19 of the business section he was given 56.6, and a factory vote gave him 77.8. Another canvass Thursday in the downtown shopping district in Milwaukee, gave the President 50.4 per cent. A similar poll in the downtown district two weeks ago gave Roosevelt 49.9.

Of the 14 cities in which today's new vote was taken, Roosevelt led in 4; Willkie led in 10. Six of the cities were in southwest Wisconsin, an important farming and dairying region. Some of the other towns are in the Fox River valley and the Lake Winnebago area.

Monroe, a great cheese center, gave Willkie 61.3 per cent where four years ago Alf Landon had 47 per cent of the vote.

Returns from Waukesha.

Waukesha gave Willkie 54.5, where Landon in 1936 got 40 per cent. Platteville's straws ran 68.6 for Willkie. In 1936 Landon carried this city with a 60 per cent vote. Historic Prairie du Chien, on the Mississippi river, gave 68.2 per cent of its straws to Willkie. Landon's vote four years ago was 38 per cent. In Kaukauna, a paper mill town on the Fox river, Roosevelt got 54 per cent in the business district and 65 per cent in a factory poll. Fond du Lac on Lake Winnebago gave Willkie 65.3 per cent. Landon in 1936 had a 37 per cent vote.

For governor, Gov. Julius P. Heil continued to hold a majority of the straws cast on this office, getting 53 per cent in the 42 cities. Francis E. McGovern [D.], runs second with 27 per cent; Orland S. Loomis [Prog.], third with 20 per cent.

Senator La Follette is in second place in the three way contest over the senatorship. Fred H. Clausen [R.], has 48 per cent of the straws; La Follette 33, and James E. Finnegan [D.], 19 per cent.

NEW INDIANA RETURNS

Straw results from 17 more Indiana cities increased Willkie's percentage half a point. In 55 cities, in which 23,039 straws have been collected and tabulated, the tally stands, Willkie, 54.3; Roosevelt, 45.7. In the same cities four years ago the vote stood Roosevelt, 60 per cent; Landon, 40 per cent.

In the latest tabulation Roosevelt leads in two cities; Willkie is ahead in 15. Willkie's home town, where he delivered his acceptance speech, gave him 57.1 per cent of its straws. Alf Landon had a 37 per cent vote here in 1936.

Two polls in South Bend went in opposite directions. Roosevelt led in the industrial section with 63.7 per cent; Willkie was in front in the downtown area with 54.8. Roosevelt four years ago carried the city with a 64 per cent vote. Michigan City cast it straws almost 50-50. Roosevelt in 1936 had a 62 per cent vote here. In Gary a factory poll gave Roosevelt 75.8 per cent. A former poll of factory workers in the straw canvass gave him 73 per cent. Roosevelt carried Gary with a 70 per cent vote in 1936.

WOMEN VOTERS EXPLAIN HOW TO MARK BALLOTS

Information Booths Do Rushing Business.

Do you know how to mark your ballot properly If you don't you can find out quickly and get nonpartisan advice on all election procedure at 25 election booths now being maintained in Cook county by the League of Women Voters.

The league opened booths in four downtown stores and in 21 outlying districts and suburbs yesterday and found itself doing a landoffice business. All booths reported an unprecedented interest among women—one booth gave out 123 specimen sample ballots before noon—and a surprising confusion on election procedure.

How to Split a Ticket.

Women asked such questions as "How do you split a ticket?" The league's answer is: Stay out of your party circle, and place a cross in the square in front of the name of each candidates of your choice in the various party columns.

Or, "How can I register?" The answer is: You can't. It is too late. If unregistered you cannot vote Tuesday.

Or, "What do you do in voting for trustees of the University of Illinois, where the ballot says 'Three to be elected' and 'One to fill vacancy'?" The answer: You have four votes, one for each trustee, one for the vacancy.

Don't Sign Your Name.

Or, "May I sign my name to my ballot, if I want to?" The answer: Not if you want your vote to be counted. Any signature or identifying mark invalidates it.

One young couple, who were married Tuesday, approached Mrs. L. C. Ayres of Wilmette at the league booth in Carson Pirie Scott & Co. in desperation. The bride lives in her original precinct, but is registered under her maiden name. What of that? The answer: She may vote by affidavit.

"It's a hot campaign," commented Mrs. Ayres, as her stack of pink and green specimen ballots dwindled.

STRAW POLL IN N. Y. ON PRESIDENT RACE REMAINS UNCHANGED

New York, Nov. 1 [Special].—The standing in the New York News straw poll remained unchanged today at 50.7 for President Roosevelt and 49.3 for Wendell Willkie. A heavy vote for the President from the heart of the Harlem district was neutralized by a Willkie wave from Westchester county, which gave him 70.8 per cent.

The following are the state-wide results of the straw poll to date:

Location—	—Roosevelt— Total straws.	Total pct.	—Willkie— Total straws.	Total pct.
Upstate [including Long Island]	8,956	38.3	14,430	61.7
City	15,816	62.0	9,681	38.0
State-wide totals	24,772	50.7	24,111	49.3

The 18th assembly district gave Roosevelt 56.7 per cent and the 20th plumped 60.5 per cent for him. Both districts are sprinkled with Italian-Americans.

Further upstate final straws swept three more counties into the Willkie column—Rensselaer with 57.9 per cent, Steuben with 67.3 per cent, and Chemung with 65.3 per cent.

WILLKIE BETTER DEMOCRAT THAN F.D.R., SAYS REED

Hits President's Failure in Public, Private Life.

James A. Reed.

The American electorate has a Presidential choice Tuesday between a man who has been a conspicuous failure in both public and private life and a man who has been a marked success at everything he attempted, James A. Reed, former Democratic senator from Missouri, asserted last night. He spoke in the Civic Opera house under sponsorship of the Democrats for Willkie of Illinois.

President Roosevelt, Reed said, failed to build up a defense for America, just as he was unable to make a go of law and business in years when he was not in office. On the other hand, he said, Wendell L. Willkie was "wonderfully successful" in great business ventures.

A Better Democrat.

"By every yardstick," he continued, "Willkie is a better Democrat than Roosevelt. At Chicago, Roosevelt, having already betrayed and submarined the Democratic party, nominated himself. At Philadelphia, a convention called Republican nominated a dyed-in-the-wool Jeffersonian Democrat, who refused to follow the New Dealers into the quagmire of socialistic and bolshevistic boondoggling."

Reed assailed the Roosevelt tenet of the "indispensable man." He said that Roosevelt manufactured crises and is an "organized, moving, breathing crisis." He accused the President of spending billions of dollars on boondoggling and leaving the nation with not enough powder on hand "to fight a first class battle for a single hour."

Their Records as Lawyers.

"Willkie was a Wall street lawyer," Reed said. "Roosevelt tried to be a Wall street lawyer. Their offices were within a stone's throw of each other and Roosevelt never, to this day, has been admitted to practice in the Supreme court.

"Roosevelt has called in as his chief assistant Senator Byrnes of South Carolina. Byrnes tells us that unless we reëlect Roosevelt, there will be 60 days when nothing will be done, and that all the preparation for war will stand still.

"That is equivalent to saying that the President will refuse to perform his duties; that this indispensable man will sabotage the work of preparation and that, like Achilles, he will sulk in his tent even tho the country goes to destruction."

St. Charles School Fills Fence Gaps to End Escapes

The gaps under the 9,200 foot wire fence surrounding the St. Charles Training School for Boys have been filled in to make the barrier more nearly escape proof, school officials announced yesterday. The fence was constructed on the recommendation of a legislative committee last summer after wholesale escapes of inmates, but several boys still managed to get away thru the holes. In the last week the institution grounds have been graded to bring earth up to the bottom of the fence.

TELL TERRORISM BY WPA TO FORCE 3D TERM VOTES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—A group of 100 suspended WPA workers from New York City picketed the White House today after presenting a protest to President Roosevelt charging that "systematic terrorism" had been employed by the Work Projects administration to make them vote the Democratic ticket.

The senate committee investigating campaign expenditures was also appealed to by the group. There was no promise of action either from the President or the committee.

A letter sent into the President's study by William Levner of the WPA Teachers' union, leader of the group, stated that the workers believed the pressure was being applied to them without the knowledge or consent of the President and asked him to take steps to stop it.

Grilled on Politics.

"Within the last few months," Levner declared, "the New York WPA has been calling its workers in to headquarters and putting them thru a grilling about their political affiliations.

"Each one of those here today can testify that he has been asked how he registered and was about to register, how he had voted in the past and how he was about to vote. Spies have been sent to our homes, information about our family lives supplied by the recertification division has been used as a club over our heads, attempts have been made to force us to turn informer against our fellow WPA workers.

"In the end, each of us and over three hundred more have been suspended from WPA. This course of action has had the effect it was meant to have on other WPA workers, among whom there is a feeling that they are about to lose their jobs unless they vote Democratic.

Charge Evasion by Officials.

"We have presented our case to the national WPA officials and have been met with evasiveness and inaction. The attorney general has our complaint, but has done nothing about it. We have, thru our representatives, informed the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures. The terror still goes on.

"Time is getting short. If this wrong is to be righted before election day, Mr. President, we are convinced that only you can do it and we have come to present our case to you in person."

A free election cannot be held in New York City, Levner said, unless the President directs the WPA to cease interfering with the rights of citizens on its rolls.

Harry Bridges Opposes Roosevelt's Re-election

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 1 (AP).—Harry Bridges, California C. I. O. chief recently back from a conference in Washington with John L. Lewis, declared tonight he was convinced that "support of President Roosevelt is one of the most foolish things a working man or woman can contemplate."

"Wages, hours, and working conditions—we didn't get them thru the New Deal—we got them against the attempted betrayals and sellouts of the New Deal, Bridges said.

Today Is 'Dollar Day' for Republican Party

Today has been designated "Republican Dollar day," and each contributor who donates to the campaign will receive a pin showing he is a Willkie helper. The dollars should be sent to Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, Illinois Republican finance chairman, 80 East Jackson boulevard. Yesterday Gen. Hammond said there had already been an "amazing response" to the appeal for small donations, and that the surest way for Republicans to be sure their votes are counted is to contribute.

Roosevelt Aids Slur Foreign Born

(Provided by the National Committee of Democrats-for-Willkie.)

If you, Mr. and Mrs. American, or your parents, or your grandparents were born in other lands, you should note that Mr. Roosevelt's national committee has now started to smear YOU.

It has been smearing Mr. Willkie ever since he was nominated—on the ground that his grandparents were foreign born.

It now takes a slap at the millions of Americans whose ancestors did

NOT come over on the Mayflower, or did NOT fight in the revolutionary war, but who DID land here in later years as immigrants, at Castle Garden or at Ellis Island.

In a broadside authorized by the Democratic national committee and published in scores of newspapers this statement is made:

"We all know that dictators are made of men like Willkie and Huey Long, not made from the early American blood, like Roosevelt's."

Not Like Ordinary Citizens.

The majority of the people of New York City, of Chicago, Boston, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh—of all our great cities—are certainly "NOT MADE FROM THE EARLY AMERICAN BLOOD, LIKE ROOSEVELT'S."

Mr. Willkie is "NOT MADE FROM THE EARLY AMERICAN BLOOD, LIKE ROOSEVELT'S."

In common with millions of the rest of us, his grandparents were Americans BY CHOICE, not because they happened to be born here.

So our land, to which millions of us, or our parents, or our grandparents, came in search of liberty, is in danger of dictatorship only from "new" Americans like us, not from "THE EARLY AMERICAN BLOOD, LIKE ROOSEVELT'S!"

Mr. Roosevelt's national committee has authorized and is now circulating that UN-democratic insult to millions of our citizens.

A Contemptible Slur.

It is a false, cruel, contemptible slur, and Mr. Roosevelt and the little group of ambitious men around him know it.

Why is it that people everywhere are perplexed and worried by Mr. Roosevelt's grab for a third term? Why is it that the shadow of things to come, if he is continued in power, disturbs or frightens so many men and women?

It is because—

The people know his impulsive nature, know he loves to play with fire. They fear he is leading us into war.

They know that his gas pipe machine guns and stove pipe cannons and dummy tanks and planes "on order" cannot defend our homes.

They hear him refer—as he did on the radio Wednesday—to Ambassador Kennedy as "MY ambassador." They thought Mr. Kennedy was "THEIR" ambassador, not Mr. Roosevelt's.

They see a photograph of Mr. Roosevelt laughing gaily as he signs the draft act—the act which affects the lives of millions of our sons. They cannot understand how any one—least of all a President of the United States, could laugh at such a solemn moment as that.

And they are realizing that however well intentioned Mr. Roosevelt may be, he is not the man to guide us safely thru this critical time when our democracy is at stake and the lives of our young men may be imperiled. They can't leave the fate of these in his hands to play with.

DEMOCRATIC.

Which Is Your Man?

(Provided by the Democratic National Committee.)

Wendell Willkie's supporters have failed to advance a SINGLE reason why he should be elevated to the exalted office of the Presidency.

Public record? He has none. When President Roosevelt was saving the nation from disaster in 1933 he was fighting TVA.

Business ability? He was never a business man. He was a lawyer and lobbyist most of his adult life. Then he became president of a utility holding company to handle FINANCES.

A good organizer and leader? One of the worst. The Republican campaign has been chaotic under his management and the Republicans in congress have spurned his leadership completely.

Is he sound, stable, and of statesmanslike vision? He is none of those things.

In three months of campaigning he has made more errors and mistakes than President Roosevelt has made in seven years in the White House. He has contradicted himself on every vital issue of the campaign. He is the first candidate in history who has had to retract his own "misspoken" words.

Do you believe that such a man, inexperienced, irresponsible, careless in words and attitude, should be elected President at one of the most critical times in the life of the United States.

A Great Record.

Against him the Democratic party offers President Roosevelt. What is his record?

He saved capitalism from the folly of its own leaders and he rescued the United States from economic chaos and the brink of revolution.

With the Greatest of Ease.

He sponsored the finest program of social reform ever placed upon the statute books.

He built up the finest navy in the world for YOUR protection.

Before others were awake to the danger, he warned his countrymen to prepare for defense against a world thrust against democracy.

He has made the army, the air force, and the navy stronger than they ever were before in peace time.

This, in brief, is the record of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Which man is better fitted to lead America during the next four years?

Some Men Swell.

Woodrow Wilson said that in the fiery glow of public eminence "some men grow and some men swell."

For three months now the public has had a chance to gauge the merit and measure of Wendell Willkie. Has he grown? Has he left you with the deep impress of a great man?

When he talked down to "you guys" and referred to the President as "that fellow" do you think he talked as Lincoln would have talked, or Washington, or Jefferson, in times of stress and trouble?

In this hour of trouble and crisis the nation needs Roosevelt's leadership more than it ever needed it before.

Prison Guard Discharged for Rowdyism at Parade

Malcolm Brown, a Joliet prison guard for three years, who was arrested Thursday after he tore off several posters from a float in a parade of Joliet Young Republicans, was discharged yesterday by Warden Joseph Ragen. Brown also paid a fine of $3 when he pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct before Police Judge William Meade.

Sidelights
Death at Manteno! Story of Bowen

BY OBSERVER.

In Manteno State Hospital for the Insane there are about 5,000 inmates.

A. L. Bowen.

The state has undertaken the responsibility for their safety and well being. The governor appoints officials to carry out this responsibility.

In the summer of 1939, reports began to come from Manteno of the serious illness of scores of inmates. Then came reports of deaths. Both deaths and illness multiplied, until finally 60 persons were dead and 384 were stricken with dreaded typhoid fever. Hundreds of workmen, employed on new buildings at Manteno, went on strike. They refused to work near such general contamination. But the inmates could not leave. They waited helpless before the plague.

Scandal Rages Over Epidemic.

The scandal of the epidemic at Manteno raged thru Illinois. Demands were made upon the Democratic state administration to oust the officers responsible and to take proper precaution against a further outbreak. A. L. Bowen, state director of 18 Illinois public institutions, was under fire for failing to safeguard the Manteno water supply. But the Democratic administration merely expressed its faith in Bowen.

Finally, after months of ineffectual protests to the state administration, Bowen and several Manteno officials were indicted in Kankakee county on charges of malfeasance and gross omission of duty.

During the trial, State's Attorney Samuel H. Shapiro presented witness after witness who testified that the state department of health repeatedly had warned Bowen and the Manteno officials that the wells of the institution were contaminated. The state showed that Bowen and his co-defendants ignored the warnings.

Bowen Reverses Himself.

The defense sought to prove that typhoid was brought to Manteno by a woman carrier. Bowen, who had told a grand jury that he believed the water supply responsible for the epidemic, reversed himself on the witness stand. Be blamed it on the woman carrier.

"When did you first hear of this carrier?" asked Shapiro.

"When I was in trouble and looking for an out," Bowen replied.

The jury failed to agree and preparations were made for a new trial. Still Bowen was kept in office by the Democratic administration. The inmates of all the state institutions were still in his care, and their welfare dependent upon how he discharged his duties.

Found Guilty in 2d Trial.

In a second trial, before Judge James V. Bartley of Joliet, Bowen was found guilty of gross omission of duty.

"The evidence in this case shows beyond all reasonable doubt that the defendant [Bowen] paid no attention whatever to the reports of the department of health," Judge Bartley commented.

But, despite his conviction, Bowen stayed on as state director of public welfare!

He was not tossed out of office until John Stelle took office as governor following the death of Gov. Horner.

Hugh S. Johnson Cancels Speech on Doctor's Order

New York, Nov. 1 (AP).—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, on the advice of his physician, canceled tonight an engagement to speak in Philadelphia in behalf of the candidacy of Wendell L. Willkie. Miss Frances Robinson, Johnson's secretary, said he planned to make a scheduled speech in St. Louis tomorrow night if his voice strengthened sufficiently.

LISTS NEW DEAL BROKEN PLEDGES TO AGRICULTURE
Peek, Former AAA Head, Assails Wallace.

George N. Peek, farm leader, former administrator of the AAA and foreign trade adviser to President Roosevelt, charged yesterday that Henry A. Wallace is asking the farmer "to pay him and Mr. Roosevelt in votes for the cash benefits that agriculture has received from the United States treasury — benefits which admittedly are insufficient to bring equality to agriculture."

George N. Peek.

Peek spoke before the Agricultural club in the Morrison hotel. His talk was in answer to one before the club by Wallace on Oct. 19, in which the Vice Presidential candidate praised the New Deal farm program.

Declaring that Roosevelt and Wallace had failed farmers and regimented agriculture in violation of campaign pledges, Peek said "it was Henry Wallace more than any one else who sabotaged President Roosevelt's 1932 pledges to agriculture."

Recalls List of Promises.

"Candidate Roosevelt promised that there would be no reduction of agricultural tariffs," Peek said. "He promised an expansion of markets to remove surpluses thru a policy of Yankee trading. He promised a tariff benefit on export crops the price of which was determined by world markets. Farmers relied on these promises with the added promise that the Roosevelt farm policy would be a policy run by farmers.

"Every single one of Candidate Roosevelt's promises went out the window in favor of a system of free trade, acreage reduction, and farm regimentation, directed from Washington by an enormous, constantly increasing, and highly paid federal burocracy."

Peek said it was in the belief that 1932 pledges would be fulfilled that he took the job of AAA administrator in 1933 and became special adviser to the President on foreign trade in 1934.

Why He Quit the New Deal.

"In 1935 I withdrew from the administration on account of continued repudiation by Mr. Roosevelt of his 1932 pledges," he asserted. "I was in politics for agriculture, not in agriculture for politics."

Peek said that Wallace, both while secretary of agriculture and now as candidate for Vice President, has told farmers that the main reason this country lost its export markets was because foreigners could get no dollar exchange to buy American farm products.

"This is false," Peek said. "The administration's policy of buying gold and silver abroad at fancy prices has furnished to foreigners, during the last six years, 10 billion dollars more than they have needed to settle all their current accounts with this country. In 1940 this trend continues at an accelerated rate."

FREE ENTERPRISE WILLKIE POLICY, M'NARY ASSERTS

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 1 (AP).—Senator Charles L. McNary pleaded today for revival of the "spirit of enterprise" as typified by the pioneer Mormon settlers and urged rejection of "the New Deal creed that we are an ageing people, ready to give up the struggle."

"The Republican party and the next administration take direct issue with the concept of a shrinking economy," McNary said in a speech here. "We propose to create greater abundance; not to strive for scarcity, and how to distribute that scarcity.

"In addition, the next administration will not be bound by the free trade dogmas of Secretary of State Hull. The next administration undoubtedly will deal with foreign countries realistically. At the least it will reserve to the American farm producer first access to his own market. It will further, by every means, seek to enlarge the American market for farm products."

Declares New Army Plane Flies 520 Miles an Hour

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 1 (AP).—Jack Knight, veteran United Air Lines official, said today the Bell Airacobra, one of the army's new fighting planes, attained a speed of 520 miles an hour during a recent test flight. He added that the plane could outdistance a bullet, the muzzle velocity of a .38 caliber bullet being about 400 miles an hour. More than 1,600 of the planes have been ordered by the United States and Great Britain.

BROOKS CHARGES NEW DEAL PERILS PENSION SYSTEM

Green Hits Machine Plan to Boss State.

The two headliners on the Republican state ticket—Wayland Brooks, nominee for United States senator, and Dwight H. Green, the party's choice for governor—spoke on the radio last night, as well as before several west side and suburban meetings.

Brooks charged the New Deal is attempting to use a socialized government program to further centralize its power by taking control of municipal pension systems thruout the country. He said he would use every effort to prevent any interference with these pension funds.

Tells of Perils to Pensions.

"In Illinois there are a great many groups of public employés who now enjoy the protection of sound and well managed pension systems," Brooks said. "The Wagner bill sponsored by the New Deal administration jeopardizes these pension systems."

Brooks said he believed that social security or pension benefits should be made available to every American worker who does not now have protection for his declining years.

"I am also convinced that any public employé," he said, "already participating in a pension system where the benefits equal or exceed those of the government social security program, should be exempted from federal control."

Green Blasts Machine.

Green lashed out at the Kelly-Nash machine. He said the defeat of the machine concerns the farmers as deeply as could any problem of agriculture.

"Chicago and Cook county pay rolls were loaded to overflowing," he said, "and the plunderbund had to reach out for control of state government to get more jobs and more graft. Taxes have mounted each year to meet the machine's demands."

Green again pledged that one of his first acts as governor will be to open a thoro investigation into the use by the Democratic machine of state supplies and property for political uses and the coercion of state civil service employés.

HITS CAR, INJURES 2 WHILE CHASING STOLEN MACHINE

Leslie Voight of Janesville, Wis., was unloading four new automobiles from a transport truck in front of the Chevrolet agency at 15 Chicago avenue, Oak Park, early yesterday, when two men stepped into one of the cars and sped away. Voight started in pursuit, knowing the new car contained only a gallon of gasoline.

At Chicago and Austin avenues Voight's machine collided with another car, injuring two women passengers slightly. He was arrested and charged with reckless driving. The last seen of the thieves was by a filling station attendant at 901 South Cicero avenue who said they left without paying him for 10 gallons of fuel he placed in the car.

William Jennings, 42 years old, 520 West 37th street, a watchman, was killed last night when an auto in which he was riding crashed into a viaduct support in Avenue L near 99th street. The driver, Michael J. Flynn, 34, of 3831 Wallace street, was taken to South Chicago hospital with a possible skull fracture and other injuries.

Mrs. Mary Dombrowski, 60 years old, 3316 East 91st street, was killed when the automobile driven by her son, Harry, 17, skidded into a culvert on U. S. route 12, two miles north of Lake Zurich. Her daughter-in-law, Sophia Dombrowski, 28, was injured seriously, while the latter's daughter, Loretta, 4, escaped unhurt.

Leroy Pearson, 16, of Hampshire, Kane county, was killed on highway 47 six miles southeast of Burlington, when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a motor transport driven by Harry Knopes of Janesville, Wis. Knopes was injured.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 727 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 530 were killed in Chicago, where 19,717 were injured in the same period.

Builds Transparent Boat of Plastic Resin Sheets

Watertown, Mass., Nov. 1 (AP).—A transparent nine foot boat, fashioned of molded sheets of acrylic resin plastic, was given trial runs on Charles river today by 17 year old Richard Boerstler, its builder. Powered by a 4½ horsepower outboard motor, the craft attained a speed of 24½ miles an hour. Its materials cost about $30, Boerstler said. Use of the flexible plastic sheets, bent over bow to stern ribs of selected woods and cross-members of aluminum, made caulking and painting unnecessary, he added. The idea originated with his father, Edward W. Boerstler, a research physicist associated with Miami university.

The statute, Section 15, Article II. of the city election law, follows:

". . . said board of election commissioners may demand of the chief of police or the sheriff to furnish officers of the law to attend the progress of any registration, revision, or election, at any place or places of registration or any polling place or places designated by said commissioners, or to attend at any meeting of said commissioners.

"Said officers of the law so furnished by said chief of police or sheriff shall be stationed in the place or places of registration and polling place or places in such manner as said commissioners shall direct, and during said assignments shall be under the direction and control of the election commissioners."

The last paragraph of the letter read:

"In view of the foregoing provisions of the statute, you are hereby requested to assign police officers for duty at the polls on election day, but said officers are not to be assigned to duty in their home voting precincts, or to any polling place to which they have been assigned at previous elections, nor to any polling place within the police district in which they are usually employed."

The notification was signed by John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the election commissioners. Attorney Robert L. Taylor who for 47 years has been the chief legal advisor for the election board, said the law invoked by the judge is clear, concise, and binding and that Commissioner Allman can have no alternative but to obey in detail the election commissioner's instructions.

Says Drastic Step Necessary.

"I am taking this drastic step," said Judge Jarecki last evening, "because I believe it is necessary to prevent wholesale frauds. There has been evidence in abundance that preparations are being made to circumvent the law by a systematic registration of persons not entitled to vote. This is a most important election and I am endeavoring to make it Chicago's most peaceful and honest.

"The police, properly allowed to do their duty, can be a most important element in keeping the peace and sanctity of the ballot box. I am merely trying to make it possible for the individual policeman to do his job as I know he wants to do it.

"Every policeman must sign an affidavit that comes to my office after the polls are closed. In this affidavit he swears that only the judges of election have handled the ballots in the polling place during the day and that to his knowledge there has been no violations of the election laws in the precinct polling place. This makes him directly responsible to me."

Meets Citizens' Group.

An aftermath of the council attack on the civic organizations who are fighting vote thieves and preparing an army of challengers and observers to man the polls on election day, came yesterday when Alderman Paul H. Douglas [5th] interviewed Kendall Lingle and Guy Reed, members of the executive committee of the Joint Civic committee.

With a group of other machine aldermen Douglas charged on Thursday that the civic committee and other volunteer citizens had broken the election laws by taking certain records of the election commissioners from the commission's city hall offices.

Douglas, who is a professor at the University of Chicago and who was elected on a reform platform from the university area, said the senate vote fraud investigation committee that met here briefly two weeks ago should be recalled to make an inquiry into the backers, motives, and accomplishments of the Joint Civic committee.

"I did meet with Mr. Lingle and Mr. Reed," said Douglas last night, "and I've come to the conclusion that they are fine men personally. I am not at all ashamed, however, of my performance in the council yesterday.

Still Wants Investigation.

"There are certain aspects of the civic committee that should be investigated and I am running down certain leads myself. This whole thing may be brought out in court later.

"There is no truth to reports that I have become a machine alderman, however. I am independent and my actions in the council have always shown me to be independent. I never talked to Mayor Kelly and he did not needle me into making the charges against the vote fraud fighters from the council floor."

PITTSBURGH ACTS TO PUT AN END TO ELECTION FRAUDS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 1 [Special].—This city and Allegheny county have long been known as a center of wholesale election frauds, but preventive measures this year are expected to make the Nov. 5 voting one of the least irregular in history.

These measures are threefold:

1. A bipartisan registration commission and a bipartisan board of county commissioners are in charge of the election machinery.
2. "Foolproof" voting machines have been installed.
3. Frank J. Harris, Republican county chairman, is an expert in detecting and halting election frauds and is assisted by a group of volunteer workers.

Voting machines have been installed thruout the 415 Pittsburgh districts and the districts of McKeesport and Clairton.

Hershey Asks Re-election of Roosevelt.

Harry B. Hershey, Democratic candidate for governor, said last night in a radio talk that "a Roosevelt victory Tuesday will mean a victory for the democracy of the world."

"The people know that a Roosevelt victory will inspire England to do more than merely defend herself," Hershey told his listeners. "A Roosevelt victory will inspire England to take the offensive against those who would destroy, not only England, but America."

Discusses Military Training.

Speaking of the state campaign, Hershey asked "if our boys are called for military training—and remember that training is for peace, not for war—shall corporations escape patriotic coöperation also?"

"The utility candidate is now silent on that issue," he continued. "He keeps up the hoax of 'machine-machine.' But he says nothing about the issue of boys against wealth. Perhaps this utility candidate plans to redeem himself. Perhaps he plans at the 11th hour, or even the 12th hour, to come out with a second guess on whether boys shall serve their country but corporations shall be free of any obligation."

Senator James M. Slattery, speaking in various wards, decried the injection of the war issue into the final phases of the Republican campaign.

McAndrews Hits G. O. P.

In Chicago ward meetings, James McAndrews, Democratic candidate for congress in the 9th district, said that President Roosevelt" is being grossly libeled by Republican speakers, who virtually declare that he lies when he says he has no intention of permitting this country to be pushed into a foreign war."

Louie E. Lewis, candidate for lieutenant governor, said that the Democratic state administration has sponsored reforms for labor "which Republican administrations had refused to touch."

A release from the Thomas J. Courtney Union Labor club said yesterday that 74 officers of labor organizations in Cook county had announced their indorsement of the state's attorney for reëlection. Among those whose indorsements were listed was Joseph D. Keenan, secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

USES DEMOCRATS' 1916 PEACE VOWS TO MAKE POINT

Richard J. Lyons, former state representative, used the Democratic party's campaign literature of 1916 last night to support his charge, made at a massmeeting in Lemont, that the New Deal cannot be trusted to keep America out of war.

Lyons displayed a leaflet circulated in 1916 by the Democratic party, which attacked the Republican party as the "war party," and said: "If you want war, vote for Hughes. If you want peace, elect Wilson."

"If the New Deal this year does not keep its pledge any better than Woodrow Wilson kept his pledge in 1916, the reëlection of Franklin Roosevelt will mean war," Lyons charged.

Dorothy Morrow, a brown haired, blue eyed sophomore beauty, was chosen homecoming queen yesterday at Wright Junior college to reign over the festivities of junior college week. She will receive her crown next Friday from Dean William H. Conley at a campus ceremony. That evening a beauty trophy will be awarded her at a dance in the Stevens hotel.

Miss Morrow will appear at the Wright-Wilson homecoming football game at Stagg field, University of Chicago, the following day and will preside that evening at an alumni homecoming dance in the Lake Shore club.

The jury of three faculty members and two alumni who selected Miss Morrow named Miss Betty Bliven maid of honor and Miss Peggy Condan, Miss Marcene Idle, and Miss Marion Fonner as maids in waiting.

ISSUE WARRANT FOR SECRETARY PERKINS' DRIVER

Bath, Me., Nov. 1 (AP).—A warrant was issued in Municipal court today charging William J. Delaney of Arlington, Va., chauffeur for Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, with reckless driving.

The automobile operated by Delaney collided at Woolwich last night with one driven by Edward Clark of East Brunswick. Miss Perkins was shaken up, but, like the others involved, was not injured.

Miss Perkins said she was very much surprised at the turn of events and asserted she had told Delaney to report to Bath authorities at once.

The warrant was issued at the request of State Highway Patrolman Harry L. Thompson.

The labor secretary, who was en route to her summer home at Newcastle, said she had engaged an attorney for Delaney.

IT HAPPENED IN 1896.

Mr. Willkie says that private enterprise in this country can create jobs and thus solve the problem of unemployment. He says that once the New Dealers are on their way out, the country will at last have the sustained recovery it has not enjoyed since the New Deal came to power eight years ago.

The New Dealers say Mr. Willkie is raising false hopes. They ask the country to believe nothing like that has ever happened.

A panic swept over this country in 1893. Business went from bad to worse. We were still on the toboggan in 1896. Factories were closed. Misery was widespread. The farmers were in distress. The jobless in the cities were being fed from soup kitchens. William J. Bryan won the Democratic nomination for the Presidency on a platform of monetary tinkering and business hating and his nostrums won immense popular support. The threat served, as the New Deal measures in recent years have served, to discourage investment and all other forms of forward commitments.

Then came the election. The votes were cast on Tuesday, Nov. 3. On Wednesday, Nov. 4, the country knew that the danger had been averted by the Republican victory. The following items are quoted from THE TRIBUNE of Thursday, Nov. 5, 1896:

"Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 4 [Special].—The election of Maj. William McKinley has revived the industries of the country sooner than was expected and the effect is already perceptible in Pittsburgh and vicinity. . . .

"J. Painter Sons & Co., iron manufacturers, ordered another hoop mill on, and fully 250 additional men and boys started to work. They had been idle for nearly four months. . . . The orders are sufficient to keep the men at work and more are expected.

"Jones & Laughlin, as soon as the result was known, ordered their continuous mill in operation. This put the American Iron works on full time at the Amalgamated rate of wages.

"Bryce, Higbee & Co. said they would start another flint glass factory this week or next Monday morning. . . .

"The shop employés of the Pennsylvania railroad at Wall Station had reason to be happy. . . . The wages of the 600 men were advanced 10 per cent. The shop men at Altoona will go on full time tomorrow.

"The western railroad companies will be heavy purchasers of steel rails. They have suspended improvement in this line for the last three years and have plans laid out for relaying their roads next summer with heavier rails. . . ."

"New York, Nov. 4 [Special].—Confidence has already been restored. Business houses have started their travelers on the road. Millions of dollars' worth of orders which have been placed subject to cancellation in the event of Mr. Bryan's election are being filled. . . .

"R. D. Douglas of Dun's commercial agency said: 'The result of the election will start business generally. I don't anticipate a boom right away, but I know of many industries which are going to start up now. . . .'"

"Marquette, Mich., Nov. 4 [Special].—Negotiations for important business enterprises which last spring were abruptly broken off . . . have already been resumed. One is a timber deal here that involves an exchange of $250,000. The election of McKinley has already given a perceptible impetus to local trade."

"Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 4 [Special].—The Pettingill Manufacturing company expects soon to start two factories here that have been idle for some time past. The arrangement for the necessary capital was contingent on McKinley's success."

"Joliet, Ill., Nov. 4 [Special].—One of the first effects of McKinley's election in Joliet was felt tonight at 6 o'clock when the 700 men employed in the steel and billet departments of the Illinois Steel company were called back to work. . . ."

"Springfield, Ill., Nov. 4 [Special].—The Wabash Railroad company will arrange at once to order 30 new locomotives to handle the increased business which it is expected will result from McKinley's election."

Hope was high after the election in November, 1896, of an administration which had faith in business, but the hopes were not exaggerated. The recovery which began at that time was real and it was sustained. You can read about it in the history books. The curse of unemployment was lifted and the nation enjoyed a long period of growing prosperity. It happened in 1896; it will happen again in 1940 if the voters of today have the sense which their fathers possessed.

THE MEN WHO QUIT HIM—AND THOSE WHO DIDN'T.

You can judge a man by the company he keeps. You can also judge him by the company that avoids him, the friends who by close personal contact have uncovered flaws in his character and so repudiated him. Here are some of the men who have repudiated Mr. Roosevelt:

John L. Lewis of the C. I. O.; John W. Hanes, former securities commissioner and treasury official; Al Smith; George N. Peek, former AAA administrator; Dr. Arthur E. Morgan of Antioch college and the TVA; Gen. Hugh Johnson; Raymond Moley, head of the original brain trust; Senator James A. Reed of Missouri; Lewis Douglas; Prof. O. M. W. Sprague of Harvard, and Thomas Jefferson Coolidge, all of whom threw up financial posts under Mr. Roosevelt because of his wild spending and wilder economic theories; Senator Hiram Johnson of California; Senators Burke of Nebraska and Holt of West Virginia; Representative Pettengill of Indiana. This list omits such former journalistic supporters as John T. Flynn, Westbrook Pegler, and Irvin S. Cobb, as well as scores of others not in official or political life.

And here are some of the friends Mr. Roosevelt still has. He still has Boss Kelly, Boss Nash, and Strongbox Slattery; Boss Hague of Jersey City; Boss Ed Crump of Memphis, and the O'Connells of Albany, whose machines could show Jake Arvey's boys tricks about stealing votes. He still has the No. 1 Tammany farmer, Boss Flynn of the Bronx. His parole board let Boss Pendergast out of Leavenworth in time to get back to work in Kansas City. He still has the Stentor of the Sewers, Thomas D. Garry. He'd still have these men even if the federal treasury, which is their principal interest, ran dry, because right beside the treasury sits Mr. Roosevelt's political attorney general, Robert H. Jackson, who binds or looses the sword of federal justice.

Mr. Roosevelt also still has the little flower [spathyema foetida] and the Ick, who plays fauna to Fiorello's flora. He has Corcoran and Cohen, the collectivist twins, and Hopkins and Howard Hunter, the racetrack and relief twins. He has Fanny Perkins, and Madden and Smith of the labor board. He has Kluxer Black, safe on the Supreme court, and Rubber Stamp Minton, who hopes to go there when the voters of Indiana get thru with him Tuesday. He has these people because he is still going in the direction they want to go.

Mr. Roosevelt also has on his side Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who a few months ago stood before a Democratic convention to hear Chicago hoodlums in the galleries boo him and the founder of his party; and Senator Walter George of Georgia, whom Mr. Roosevelt sought to purge two years ago; and such other honest, common sense, patriotic Americans as Pat Harrison of Mississippi and Vice President Garner. These men are the real tragic figures of the 1940 campaign. They are the victims of their and their states' lifelong devotion to a Democratic party that lives today in name only. They have no place else to go.

YOU CAN VOTE AWAY PEACE AND LIBERTY.

The demand for the third term is the most extraordinary and most formidable ever made in American politics. It has no precedent. It has tremendous meaning. It presents a record of eight years and asks not only an indorsement of that record but authority to continue along the same line and to do more of the things which have been done.

If the unwritten law of the country—what Mr. Willkie calls its common law, established by long usage—is violated and broken down, certain conclusions inevitably follow. The authority granted the third term will be taken for granted. It has been exercised arbitrarily and without restraint in the second term. Reëlection will be an indorsement of that.

Mr. Roosevelt has taken, as he has said, all the steps short of war. Some of the steps already have gone over the threshold. A government which opens its arsenals and gives its ships to a belligerent has gone to war. Mr. Roosevelt will assert that reëlection authorizes him to wage it with his new army.

Consent to the demand for the third term will approve the war policies and it also will approve the domestic policies. It will give Mr. Roosevelt authority to continue increasing the national debt. It will be construed as indorsement of the deficit spending. It will be regarded as the condoning of a program which has prolonged the depression, which has made unemployment a permanent social condition, and which has established low subsistence relief as a national institution.

The success of the third term candidacy will give a green light for the whole scheme of state socialism, with or without a war. The third term with a war would bring it immediately. The third term without a war would bring it soon.

If the people consent to this demand for a third term they have departed from the foundations where they were safe and have blindly followed a man who is leading them far from their principles, their usages, and their protections. It was Mr. Roosevelt's intention that this should seem to be done in spite of himself. It was to seem that he did not ask for it, that he tried to avoid it, and that he did nothing to influence the event. That dissembling was exposed, first, when his conspiring New Deal office holders were found killing off all other candidates for the nomination and consorting with the metropolitan machine politicians to force the third term nomination; and, second, when the candidate, fearing that he was losing the election, came down off his tower and took to the stump in an effort to put himself over.

The third term candidacy is unprecedented, unparalleled, and heretofore has been unthinkable. The third term candidate has broken thru all the restraints of law and usage which have protected the people from dictatorship. He has, as he himself has said, forged instruments of power which could shackle the people. The third term candidacy seeks to return those instruments of power to his hands and to obtain the consent of the people for their use.

The reëlection will mean consent. It will mean consent to autocracy, consent to the disappearance of the old America, and it will mean consent to war.

Editorial of the Day

"I, FOR ONE, SHALL REMEMBER."
[Cleveland News.]

Franklin D. Roosevelt looked down from the platform at Madison Square Garden on thousands of cheering adherents, on the night of November 5, 1932.

Al Smith, just reconciled, sat on one side of him.

James A. Farley sat on the other.

And Candidate Roosevelt said:

"The greatness of America is stronger than any candidate or any party.

"I still know that the fate of America cannot depend on any one man.

"The greatness of America is grounded in principles, and not in any single personality.

"I for one shall remember that—even as President."

Gone from him now all three—Smith, Farley, his pledge.

MR. PEPYS AT THE WEEK-END.

2d Nov.—Now I come to the end of my week, when I shall not go to my office for two days but shall rest and divert myself with such trifling matters as football games and playing with my dog and admiring the fine weather and reading detective stories. Many men do spend these days of rest by going far afield to a place where they can play the game of golf, and I have done that, too, in my time, but I found this sport takes hours and hours, and its devotees spend more hours and hours talking about it after they have finished; and so I have decided there are better ways to spend my free time.

In looking back over the last seven days I find that in addition to reading hundreds of letters, and writing my daily stint, I have attended a banquet of press veterans, and read Master Hemingway's exceedingly long book about slaughter in Spain, and seen a play, and had several merry dinners with my fellows at the club, and chattered a good deal about the election so close at hand. I have set down these trivial things in my logbook so that years hence I can turn to it and say, "I did thus and thus on such and such a day."

The play I saw was so crazy that I will not speak of it, but it has caused me to feel that the world has come into an age of craziness, and that anything daft is praised by silly folk while anything of common sense is jeered at as old fashioned. This reflection caused me to become somewhat low of spirit, but the football game today will cure all that, even if my side loses.

OUTRIDER OF WINTER.

November rides on the wind tonight,
The page of Winter, audacious, cold;
He snips the leaves in his frigid might,
Despoiling purple and red and gold.

Away and far on the painted hills
He flings, full billowed, his leathern cloak;
He grays the blue of the summer rills,
Besets the limbs of the sturdy oak.

Away, away to the marshlands, where
The wild duck spires to the scudded sky;
He madly races the fleetest hare
Or routs the weed from the field near by.

Away and up, past the huddled town,
He plucks the goose in its wedging flight;
All softly, thickly the snow drifts down . . .
November rides on the wind tonight.

Roberta Robertson.

And Also, "No Third Term."

No March winds blowing; no April showers
No bees a-buzzing in the flowers
No breeze with scent of lilac borne
No summer suns a-ripening the corn
No thump of bat on ball in baseball lot
No bathing beach o'ercrowded 'cause it's hot
No feathered chorus singing in the trees
No dog-weed with its long autumnal sneeze
No sound above the stadium's football roar
No headlines, save election and the war
No goodwill unto man
No peace
November.

When Chicago Had a Marine Band.

Since you're recalling the old bandmasters why not speak of Thomas Preston Brooke and his Chicago Marine band? His men were picked musicians, and all Americans. Some of them are now playing with symphony orchestras.

Brooke toured the country. His season at the Coliseum in 1904 and 1905 drew great crowds. Then he promoted the Brooke Casino, now the Eighth Street theater, and went broke. In the heyday of "royal" Italian bands, he had a drummer who burlesqued the acrobatics of Creatore et al. under the name of Count Spronotti.

"In the Days of Old Rameses."

The theme of the verses, "Rejected" [Oct. 24], antedates President Roosevelt by many years. It used to be told in England that when Gladstone appeared at the gates of hell the devil handed him a piece of sulphur and a box of matches, saying:

"You can't come in here. Go somewhere else and make a little hell of your own."

TREASURE ISLAND.

It lies far out from any lands that are—
How far from that drab realm we call Today!
A star that lures more hearts than one can say.
That lovely isle is swathed in cloud and mist—
But fiery tempests cannot mar its calm:
It dwells serene, by Heaven's magic kissed.
That I today might know its healing balm!
Alas, so far away that summer isle;
Vast leagues of stormy waters separate.
And still its haunting memories beguile—
And shall beguile, tho evening cometh late.
There, in that isle, are joy and hope and truth—
That far and luring realm of dreams—my youth.

When Chicago Produced Plays.

By the time I became acquainted with the Dearborn stock company playing at the theater of that name [now the Garrick; prior to 1900 the Schiller] it had a well established reputation as a producing center, giving even old Gotham a bit of competition. We salvaged a few of the programs of their outstanding successes in 1902: "A King and a Few Dukes," by Theodore Kremer; "Children of Satan," by Henry Raeder; "The Starbucks" and "The Harkriders," by our fellow citizen, Opie Read.

Openings were on Sunday matinées, when after the second act, we called our favorites, Emmett Corrigan, Howell Hansell, Julia Stewart, Valerie Bergere, Mamie Ryan, Grace Reals, Louise Rial, and others before the curtain. We coaxed the genial Opie Read to make a curtain speech, and he, in an ill-fitting seersucker suit, told us one or two of his inimitable anecdotes befitting the occasion. Those were the days! VITAMIN B IN ST. VITUS' DANCE.

MANY of us have seen youngsters with chorea [St. Vitus' dance] who display numerous uncontroled, jerky movements and grimaces. The malady is relatively common between the ages of five and fifteen. It is sometimes associated with rheumatic fever and the same cause may be responsible for both conditions—a "strep" organism playing the leading rôle.

While some bouts are mild—good health returning within a few weeks—others will be prolonged greatly, with possible injury to the heart. Unfortunately, one attack does not mean immunity. A second and third seizure may appear at intervals of several months. Much, however, depends upon the skilfulness of the nursing and the rate of convalescence. While the ailment is more likely to be encountered among those who are undernourished, it may afflict children who are reared in ideal environments.

Some years ago it was observed that the high fever accompanying infectious diseases proved beneficial in these cases. Later, typhoid injections to raise the temperature artificially were utilized with excellent results. Now, by means of diathermy, the body heat can be held at around 104 degrees Fahrenheit for eight hours at a time. Four or five treatments of this sort have been recommended at two week intervals. At any rate, relapses are less frequent and recovery seems to come sooner.

Simon Stone believes that vitamin B will also be of value, particularly when combined with heat. He thought that there might be a deficiency of this food essential related to the development of heart symptoms and the increased irritability of the nervous system. B complex was, therefore, given by mouth and 20 patients are reported on—seven of whom exhibited the malady in severe form. In this latter group motions of the face and extremities were more or less continuous. The victims were unable to feed or dress themselves and there was marked muscular weakness. He employed six or seven heat exposures—one every three or four days—but the duration of the ordeal was cut to two hours. At the same time the patients were receiving adequate quantities of B.

Striking results ensued. In one instance, incoördination vanished entirely after four injections of B-1 [thiamin chloride] combined with B complex by mouth. He found it unnecessary to take mild cases to the hospital, altho some of the children were kept from school for a few weeks. One of his subjects, a boy of 13, was admitted to the hospital with chorea plus heart involvement. Two months earlier he had developed a sore throat with painful joints. He was pale, and manifested facial grimaces and twitching hands and feet. His speech was so mumbling that he could scarcely be understood. Unable to feed himself, or sit up without support, he required extra nursing.

Eleven hours of fever between 104 and 105 degrees Fahrenheit—plus vitamin B—were prescribed. One month later he went home symptom free, with the cardiac condition improved markedly.

In his report Stone calls attention particularly to the psychic disturbances exhibited by some of his patients. Perhaps we should add irritable behavior to our signs of this depressing disorder.

If we would save the hearts of these youngsters, early and proper care is indispensable. The suggestion that there may be a vitamin B shortage deserves thoro study. Certainly, in the examples cited, the addition of this product was helpful.

WHAT'S A "LESION?"

V. V. writes: Does "a lesion in the lung" mean tuberculosis?

REPLY.

Yes, as a rule. The word, however, covers a multitude of sins—from a pimple on the nose to an abscess.

PUFFY LIDS.

Mrs. D. A. writes: What causes swelling of the eyelids?

REPLY.

Retention of fluid within the tissues. Investigate allergy or sensitivity to some substance in your vicinity as well as the functioning power of the heart and kidneys.

NO DANGER.

A. E. H. writes: Does sleeping on the left side affect the heart?

REPLY.

No—not unless the organ is diseased and is unduly sensitive to pressure.

FOREIGN POLICY FAILS.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—The President hates war; so do all of us. So do Stalin, Hitler, and Mussolini. It is the last recourse with all.

The President says he strove to prevent this war. Did he succeed?

The President says he tried to localize this war. Did he succeed?

The President says he plans to keep our country out of war. Will he succeed?

It is not a question of what he wishes or intends. It is a question of the success or failure of his present foreign policy. So far it has failed to accomplish its purposes. In the opinion of most who favor war against the dictator nations the present policy leads to war. Most of those opposed to our becoming embroiled in any war except for actual defense believe his policy leads to war.

To avoid war we must have a change of policy and of administration. Remember Switzerland, the only true democracy in Europe. She avoids war, keeps peace, and remains democratic, with a free people. FRED L. ADAIR, University of Chicago.

ALSO "NONPOLITICAL."

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Mayor Kelly made a dedication speech at the housing project at 37th street and Cottage Grove avenue yesterday. The project will not be finished until December if then.

Why so early? Like the inspection tours of the other politician, all these tours are merely political. Kelly wanted to dedicate this $9,000,000 project before election so he could tell the colored people how wonderful this administration has been to them.

But I think these people are quite fed up on the New Deal and are going to use their own judgment at this election regardless of the easy money and pressure the machine is putting on them.

GEORGE E. WEST.

AT HINES; CAN'T VOTE.

Hines Hospital, Oct. 29.—I am one of the veteran patients here who cannot leave their beds, because back in 1917-'18 we were in there pitching for Uncle Sam's team, and some of us were knocked out of the box.

I see in your paper that my buddies and I who are residents of Cook county will not be allowed to vote in the coming election.

I have voted in every election since I was old enough, and surely think I am being taken for a ride on this proposition, because I have been taught that the first duty of the American citizen is to exercise his franchise. A. E. F. VET.

TAKE A FOUNTAIN PEN.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—To the voter who wants his vote honestly counted I suggest that you take a fountain pen with you to the voting booth. I understand booths are to be equipped with pen and ink, but just in case you don't find your booth so equipped, your fountain pen will prove helpful in voting a ballot that will be counted as voted.

JOHN DOUGHTY.

HE IS "MY" AMBASSADOR.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—I just heard Roosevelt refer to Kennedy as "my ambassador to England." What has become of the United States ambassador? And why isn't he at his post at this critical time?

R. W. SPINDLER.

HEMISPHERICAL LINES.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—President Roosevelt says our soldiers will not be sent to fight outside the western hemisphere "unless we are attacked." What does that mean? And now, just to keep the records straight, where—or what—comprises the western hemisphere? "The hemispherical divisions are based upon a longitudinal system which defines all positions as east or west of an imaginary line drawn thru Greenwich, England."

So all of England west of London, part of France, Ireland, Spain, Portugal, and a big part of West Africa are in the western hemisphere.

You don't believe it? Check your geography. Where does the surprise come in? Why, you thought the western hemisphere meant South America, Mexico, Cuba, Puerto Rico, and thereabouts. You didn't think it meant England and France, eh?

C. J. KENNEDY.

IN SPITE OF HATCH ACT.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—The Hatch act is supposed to operate to keep federal postmasters out of politics. Still Ernest J. Kruetgen, Chicago's postmaster, is president of the Roosevelt German Democratic club headquarters in the Morrison hotel. If you ask him for a job he tells you that on account of the Hatch act he cannot mix in politics and gives you back your letter from a Republican friend. Reverse this if you bring one from a Democratic congressman or ward committeeman.

CLEMENT.

TEACHERS' PENSIONS IN PERIL.

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 30.—In connection with the Roosevelt idea of merging the Chicago public school teachers' pension with social security insurance:

What will become of the county teachers' smaller pensions if they, too, all merged? Are we to become serfs and paupers? A COUNTY TEACHER.

PREFER HUSBANDS TO JOBS.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—The only good thing about the draft is that several married women that I know are giving up their jobs. It looks as if they would rather lose their jobs than their husbands, and when necessary they can manage to get along on what their husbands earn.

P. K.

SOME GOOD OLD PALS.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—A man is known by the company he keeps, namely: Flynn, Hines, Hanky Panky Hague; the humanity twins, Kelly and Nash; Prendergast, the rubber stamps, Minton, Barkley, Guffey, Strong Box Slattery, We Want War Pepper, and the about face troopers, Lucas et al. ENOUGH SAID.

PERIL TO PENSIONERS?

Chicago, Oct. 30.—I heard yesterday from a man who claims to know that if Mr. Roosevelt is elected all pensions of railroad employés, etc., will be canceled in favor of the $30 a month government pensions. If this is true, why don't you headline it? MRS. F. H. S.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—The police, firemen, school teachers, etc., are howling because there is a possibility that their pension plans will be taken over by the Social Security board and the benefits to those public employés radically reduced.

Several banks and the untility companies in Chicago were forced to dispense with their generous pension plans when it developed that they would have to pay for social security in addition to paying for their own plans.

Howling won't help—votes will. Vote for continuation of present policies or vote against them. But if private pension plans are best off in government hands then so are the police, firemen, etc.

SAM LEVIN.

BUT WE FAVOR DEFENSE.

Marquette, Mich., Oct. 30.—You say "that as long as England is fighting Hitler there is no emergency for us to arm for defense." You know the reason England is able to fight is because our country is helping her with everything short of war. But if Willkie is elected and he takes your and Lindbergh's advice not to help England and China, then they will have to give in to Hitler and Japan; then Hitler will control the Atlantic and Japan the Pacific. Do you think we will ever have a chance to defend ourselves—let alone the Monroe Doctrine? A. N. S.

PORCH REPAIRS.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—[Friend of the People.]—Our landlord was told so many times about the porches and it does not do any good. The place is in bad shape. The neighbors told them but that did not make any difference. Some day some one will get hurt. The porch fence is tied with a rope. They say they have relief people, and that is a lie. I pay my rent and don't owe them a cent. Please see what you can do. J. K.

The owner of the above mentioned premises has been notified to make all necessary repairs to rear porches.

If this work is not done at the expiration of time allotted in our notice, we will proceed according to law.

RICHARD E. SCHMIDT,
Commissioner of Buildings.

HULL DECLARES ROOSEVELT WILL GUARD U. S. PEACE

Denounces Attacks on President's Good Faith.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP).—Secretary of State Cordell Hull declared tonight that the reëlection of President Roosevelt could "in the fullest possible measure assure the security and safeguard the peace of this country."

Hull urged a "continuity of national leadership" and asserted that "President Roosevelt's record of unremitting labor for peace, of ceaseless efforts to keep war away from this country and this hemisphere can not be blacked out by any attacks on his sincerity and good faith."

Secretary Hull spoke over the Red and Blue networks of the National Broadcasting company and the Mutual Broadcasting System.

Entrenched Against War.

Vigorously defending Roosevelt foreign policy, he declared it would "be a tragedy" for the election to "turn on spurious and counterfeit issues . . . artificially created to mislead the voters."

"Outstanding is the wholly unwarranted and utterly vicious charge that the President is 'leading us into war,'" he said.

"On the contrary," he asserted, "this country is being entrenched against war."

"We are creating the weapons and the organization needed, first, to discourage would-be assailants and, second, should we be assailed, to repel assaults," he continued.

Warn People of Danger.

"We are warning our people of danger to this country should other nations which are under assault go down. We are making available access to the resources and the products of this country to countries under assault whose survival is important to our own security."

The secretary of state declared that the "conquering nations" had "fixed no limits for their program of conquest" and were "desperately struggling to seize control of the oceans as an essential means of achieving and maintaining their conquest of the other continents."

"This country," he continued, "and the other American countries are in no way different in the eyes of the would-be conquerers from those which they have already overrun and are daily overrunning—except that we would offer, were they to conquer us, a richer prize.

Those Colonial Possessions.

"Already they have conquered countries which have colonial possessions in this hemisphere. Should they attempt to exercise jurisdiction or control over these possessions, or any of them, the menace to the United States and to every American country would be too obvious."

"This country," he said, "must have a government which clearly recognizes the dangers and difficulties which confront us; which dares to tell the country that they exist and what they are; which makes adequate provision to meet them; which is steadfast in purpose and persistent in action; which has the invaluable asset of experience."

"Under the leadership of President Roosevelt, this country has such a government," he asserted.

Dog Campaigns for G. O. P.

Nancy Green, daughter of the Republican nominee for governor, with Brownie, blooded cocker spaniel that is seeking votes for her dad.

Brownie, a Republican cocker spaniel, opened his campaign for Willkie and Dwight Green yesterday by dropping in to see Green's daughters, Nancy, 12 years old, and Gloria, 9. Brownie, a grandson of an international champion, My Own Brucie, will wear his white campaign coat until all votes are counted.

LYLE TURNS HIS G. O. P. FIGHT TO OWN CANDIDACY

Seeks to Be Returned to Municipal Bench.

Former Municipal Judge John H. Lyle, who issued warrants for the arrest of 28 public enemies and set $100,000 bonds for criminals in gun robbery cases, when he sat on the bench, has been pointed to this fall as one of the most active campaigners working for the Republican party as a whole.

For three months Lyle has maintained an active campaign among foreign and labor groups. He has made seven or eight talks every night under the direction of the Republican speakers bureau.

Helps Finance Drive.

As part of his fight for the Republican ticket he has helped finance a group of 36 persons who used telephones to contact new registrants and tell them of the Republican cause.

Because of his active work for the party as a whole, according to Lyle, it was not until the last few days that he started an active campaign in behalf of his own candidacy for the Municipal court judgeship.

First Public Office in 1914.

Lyle, who is 57 years old, was first elected to public office in 1914. From 1914 to 1918 he served in the state legislature and was an alderman from 1918 to 1924. He was elected to the Municipal court in 1924 and was reelected in 1930, serving until 1936.

In 1931 he sought the Republican nomination for mayor and lost by a small margin. In 1932 he failed to get the nomination for state's attorney.

GIRL STUDENTS FLEE FIRE.

Danville, Va., Nov. 1 (AP).—Fire starting in the basement of Averett college sent 122 lightly clad girl students to the street at 1:40 a. m. today. Firemen extinguished the blaze after it had destroyed the laundry and storage room. Curtis Bishop, college president, who directed evacuation of the building, said there was no panic.

LYONS CHARGES KELLY DELAYED TRANSIT PENSION

Plans Dumped 4 Years Ago, He Says.

The Kelly-Nash machine delayed a retirement pension plan for the transit lines' 20,000 employés for at least four years by throwing overboard transportation plans just as they were nearing completion in 1936, Richard J. Lyons, former state representative, charged in a radio address last night.

The surface lines in 1936 offered, in return for a city franchise, to pay employé pensions and to work out a plan for taking over the elevated lines, Lyons said. Mayor Kelly turned down this plan after going along with it for more than two years, he asserted.

Lays Blame on Kelly.

"Mayor Kelly has kept the companies in court for years and has forced them to lose business because their equipment has deteriorated," Lyons said. "Because of this there is not enough money to pay pensions now even if they get out of court unless street car fares are boosted from 7 to 8 cents. This would not be the picture if Mayor Kelly had helped the street car lines to get out of court and let them spend their 30 million dollars of still idle cash for new cars and buses."

Lyons said that 1,750 employés of the surface and elevated lines are 65 years of age or older and deserve retirement pensions.

The provision for a 7 cent street car fare, contained in the city's proposed traction ordinance, is meaningless, Lyons charged. He said the limitation only holds until the end of 1941 and that the necessary funds to put thru Chicago's proposed 100 million dollar transit program can be borrowed only if the fare is boosted to 8 cents, under terms laid down by Jesse H. Jones, Federal Loan administrator.

Fare Can Hold 14 Months Only.

"Kelly and the city council, keeping their eyes as usual on a vote-catching device rather than service to car riders, can now point proudly to a traction ordinance that calls for a 7 cent fare," he continued. "They can avoid mentioning that this holds for less than 14 months.

"Then, after the election, when the 8 cent fare comes, as Jesse Jones says it must if improvements are to be made, the machine will say: Unfortunately our city council has no power to control the rates of fare and it isn't our fault that an 8 cent fare was ordered by the Utilities commission.

"Mr. Kelly has tried to fool the riders and employés by promising things instead of producing them. The promises haven't made any new jobs, or paid any pensions, or bought any new equipment."

The Borrowed Cottage

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright: 1940: By Alice Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

Rowan Wilde, an American girl, goes to the isolated cottage of Hazel Fordyce, in England, to do some studying. Arriving alone at night, she opens a closet door and a dead man falls out, getting blood on her skirt. As she rushes from the house, she runs into 32 year old Stephen Smedley, a young publisher, who has come to the country for a rest. He is living in an old chapel near by. He goes off for help, but when he fails to return Rowan gets suspicious and starts out searching for him. She stumbles upon him prostrate and helps him into the house, where he collapses on the sofa. She lets him sleep while she goes upstairs to bed. She is awakened during the night by Stephen entering her room holding a butcher knife, but a sharp command makes him drop the knife and retreat. She finds Stephen's brief case containing a foreign manuscript, and, suspicioning him, she hides it with her bloody skirt. The next morning Stephen seems to remember nothing of the knife incident and the body has disappeared. Stephen advises Rowan not to mention finding the body as its disappearance will get them both into trouble. The dead man turns out to be Bertram Bogge, no-good brother of the vicar, who lives next door. Lord Romrych and his secretary, Forbes, also neighbors, help in the search for the missing man, and they find the body down a well. Egbert, the caretaker, is arrested after the coroner's jury, in which Rowan and Stephen keep back evidence that might prove him innocent. Egbert seems to be the only one with a motive for the murder, as Bertram had attempted assault of his fiancée, but Egbert is afterward released, as he produces a good alibi. Rowan's bedroom has been locked by the police for investigation and Rowan is afraid they will find Stephen's brief case and her bloody skirt. Rowan is particularly worried, as the night before she heard some one in the house typewriting and notes were slipped under her door demanding the return of the brief case. Rowan is afraid to tell the police about the notes, as it might get her into trouble, but she feels that Lord Romrych is her friend and so confesses to him, and he promises to help her recover the brief case. Stephen disappears and Rowan's suspicions of him mount, tho she likes him so much she hates to believe him guilty. Scotland Yard is called in on the case.

INSTALMENT XLII.

ROWAN QUESTIONED.

The Chippendale chair faced the windows. And Inspector Headcoin placed himself opposite, back to the light, so that Rowan could make very little of his expression. A small maneuver? It sent queasy tremors along her spine, as did his phlegmatic deliberation. She thought of what this pleasant room had witnessed and wondered if he could read the memory of it in her strained pupils.

"Scotland Yard! This is certainly quick work. Did you fly down, or what?"

He moved some papers on the long table. "By luck," he explained, "I was on a short holiday in Lyme Regis. Instructions reaching me by telephone, I caught a Lydport bus, went over the case with Inspector Moody, and was driven straight here. Now, then! With regard to your statement——"

"O, that! I'm afraid I've nothing at all to add."

"No?" The new inspector lifted a glass paperweight, studied its imprisoned flowers as tho they were anatomical specimens, and clamped it down on a typed sheet. "Well, our business is to make sure. First, tho——" He trained his gaze on the Sheraton bookcase. "Do you happen to know what has becomes of Mr. Stephen Smedley?"

Stephen!

"Mr. Smedley? No. I saw him last night, but—well, I've been out myself most of the afternoon, and——"

"You're aware, are you, that he appears to have taken himself off either last night or very early this morning, objective unmentioned?"

"Why, no. Has he done that?"

"You concluded it, I imagine. You were seen just now in the valley, trying the chapel door. Sure you didn't expect him to be gone?"

"Of course not. He'd said nothing to me. I did mean to pay him a call," Rowan defended. "Mr. Smedley hasn't been well. I thought I'd better see if he needed anything."

"And you found the place locked, the car missing, and a fresh milk bottle outside. Quite. Well, Budworth?"

A new sergeant had come into the room. Relieved by the interruption, Rowan found him a tall, dazzlingly blond young man, rather downy, like a young duckling. Not uninterested in her but conscientiously on the job.

"Not at the Pall Mall office, sir," Sergeant Budworth announced. "Nor yet at the little flat in New Square. In fact, no word at all of him in London, so far as I can learn. If he's crossed by any of the channel ports he hasn't managed it under his own passport."

Some strangling emotion, whether rage or fear she hardly knew, made Rowan cry out. "You can't be talking about Stephen Smedley? Nonsense! And if he did suddenly decide to go abroad, since when have the passport officers started noticing passengers' names?"

"They'd notice his," said the inspector calmly. "Yours, too, it may be well to add."

She gaped at him. The young sergeant seemed to be eyeing her with a different interest—as tho setting her down as Suspect B. Unconvincingly, she laughed.

"Go on, inspector! Haven't they told you Mr. Smedley and I are the two complete nonstarters? He wouldn't have had to furnish evidence at all if he hadn't found me in a faint. He's told all he knows. I can't think why you want him."

Without the slightest answering levity the inspector said, "If you have the least knowledge of his movements, I strongly advise you to help us locate him at once."

"But I haven't the haziest notion. I swear I haven't."

"O, indeed?"

No pity in that cold, discrediting eye. Contempt, was it? Seeing her as a poor mutt, tricked and let down by a partner she had trusted. The sergeant fiddled uncomfortably with his cuffs, and at a signal left the room.

Her courage stiffened.

"Well, I'm here, anyhow," she said easily. "Entirely at your disposal. I don't think I forgot anything in my statement. In case I did, what about asking a few questions?"

"Where," fired the inspector out of the blue, "did you first make Mr. Smedley's acquaintance?"

One shot, and it had blown her confidence to atoms!

"Where?" she managed another laugh. "Believe it or not, inspector, neither of us can possibly remember. A cocktail party, we're agreed on that; but whose? We've never tracked it down."

"Think again, Miss Wilde. In four months you can't have collected a great number of friends."

"Haven't I, tho? More than you might suppose. I've been to dozens of these parties."

He referred to his notes. "From March 6th to 17th Mr. Smedley was in Tunis. On May 18th he came here. Was it before Tunis or after?"

"I—I can't be sure."

"Spring or winter? Perhaps you can recall the sort of clothes you were wearing?"

That was sharp of him. Her uneasiness made her squirm.

"I might, only your climate is so funny. I've worn winter things right up to last week. But, see here, is it so frightfully important?"

He put this aside. "I should like," he said, "a complete list, with addresses, of all the friends to whose homes you have been invited. This, I take it, is your address book?" He held up a slim green book which had been in her new room upstairs.

She accepted it from him, feeling trapped. "Right, here goes: Miss Beryl Armstrong, 6, Upper Cheyne row, S. W. 3. Mrs. Gerald Bonney, Grosvenor House. Peter Deering, 320, Hamilton terrace—no, he's moved. I think it's 16, Upham place. . . ."

She wondered, as she reeled off some score of names, if by any remote chance one of them was known to Stephen. She doubted it. Altho he was definitely of her world, in all their talk they had discovered no actual social link. For the moment, she thanked heaven, Stephen wasn't here to have his list compared with hers. As it was, a little investigation would probably reveal her lie—and why any lie unless there was a damaging secret to hide?

She closed the book. "This doesn't represent all the parties, you know. Quite often I'm taken to one where I never remember the host or hostess' name."

This sardonic glance said that this was clever of her. In words he suggested that a little simple routine work might clear up the mystery.

"Budworth!" he called, and when the sergeant had reappeared continued, "Get thru to headquarters and have the persons on this list canvassed as to whether or not they know Mr. Stephen Smedley. Yes, now." The sergeant quitted the house.

The inspector began methodically to question her about nerself, her occupation, her connections.

"My family? O, just a father! No, I've rather hoped he wouldn't get to know about this. When you're miles away you get all sorts of exaggerated ideas, don't you? I did cable Mrs. Fordyce, to Crete, and I believe her husband was wirelessed by the chief constable, but I can't say if either message has reached them. They never knew the victim. It doesn't touch them at all."

Air Liner Makes Landing in Field Near Yorkville

A TWA plane en route to Chicago from Kansas City, Mo., made a landing yesterday in a farm field four miles south of Yorkville, Kendall county. Capt. William Campbell, pilot, said the landing was made as a precautionary measure after the plane developed motor trauble. The 14 passengers and crew members were brought to Chicago by automobile.

STATE EMPLOYES DRIVEN TO FINAL PLEAS FOR VOTES

Many Ordered Home for Last Minute Push.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 1.—Big bosses and straw bosses are pushing the 30,000 state employés to a final effort for Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry B. Hershey. The machine appears to be bogged a bit, in places stalling, and in other places skidding.

In the state house, there are vacant desks of employés, some of them under civil service, who have been ordered to their home counties for a week-end of house to house canvassing, passing out Democratic buttons and pasting windshield stickers on friends' automobiles. That's their orders, but quite a few are just resting at home.

Others Clogging Mails.

At other desks, stenographers and clerks are mailing campaign letters to almost every one who ever transacted any business with the state, however trivial. The department of agriculture has a standardized plea for the straight Democratic ticket being mailed to farmers. The secretary of state has the names of every one who ever inquired about a license number or certificate of title or driver's license. The department of finance has the old age pension lists.

Back in the counties, a few of the Democratic committeemen have not asked for the help of state employés and their "M" licensed state-owned automobiles to electioneer. They have reported to the campaign headquarters here that there is a public resentment to a conspicuous activity by the pay rollers.

At the St. Nicholas hotel here, four floors are filled with state house employés issuing placards, buttons, and literature to the field workers, rushing supplies to the front in the final bombardment against the advancing Republicanism.

Expect Lieberman to Go.

In the lobby of the hotel this morning were 20 or 30 highway contractors and associates, here for an opening of bids on downstate road contracts. Some said their bids were lower than in the past because they didn't have to include a hidden item for a campaign donation to the Democratic party. They believe Ernst Lieberman, chief of the highway department, won't be there after Jan. 1 and that he may be fired by Gov. John Stelle a few days after the Tuesday election.

Persons receiving mailed dividend checks thru the liquidation of closed state banks by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett's office reported receiving in the same envelopes printed cards from Barrett boosting John C. Martin, Democratic nominee for the office. Republican leaders said this was another instance of the use of public office by the Democratic machine.

HARRY FUNK DIES IN PRISON; RAIDED BANK THRU RUSE

Harry Funk died yesterday, Harry Funk who robbed a bank of $184,000 by posing as a bank examiner. He died in Stateville penitentiary.

It was in 1925 that he and William Evans told President James Kelly they had come to examine the books of the Farmers' Bank of Chenoa, McLean county. The robbers counted up the $184,000 liquid assets and walked out with them after binding Kelly and his bookkeeper. The bank failed. Kelly died, broken in health by his loss.

Funk was tracked down and sent to Joliet penitentiary. Garbed as a priest and carrying enough nitroglycerin to blow up the prison, Evans came in 1929 to free him. The ruse failed and Evans was seized. Funk was transferred to Stateville, where he had been bedridden six years. He was 55 years old.

The money? It never was found.

CONFESSES FATAL BEATING.

Curtis Swanberg, 24 years old, 6147 Ebernart avenue, was arrested yesterday, and confessed that he beat to death James Miller, 32, colored, 3106 Cottage Grove avenue, early in the morning when the latter attacked him with a knife during a quarrel at 6226 Michigan avenue.

Federal Court Trustee Indicted for Embezzlement

A federal District court trustee was named in two indictments returned by a federal grand jury yesterday charging him with embezzling a total of $15,321 out of trust funds which he was supposed to be guarding. He is John P. Metz, 837 Sunnyside avenue, who was sentenced several weeks ago by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe to six months in the Wheaton county jail on a contempt citation growing out of shortages in one of the funds. Both funds are included in the trust estate of Axel Lonquist, for many years a well known realty dealer on the northwest side.

"Roosevelt should run for a third term"

Willkie, "Look" Magazine, June 4, 1940.

"The unwritten law against the third term is a sacred compact of the living with our honored dead, and with our unborn children."

Louisville, Oct. 28, 1940.

But, just five months ago, before Mr. Willkie was nominated, he admitted that the third term is not a real issue. He said in "Look" magazine, in an article titled

"ROOSEVELT SHOULD RUN FOR THIRD TERM"

"Like almost everything else in the Constitution, the arrangement by which a president serves four years and may be re-elected an indefinite number of times was the result of a compromise.

"But the fathers knew, as we know, that the actual number of years was of no importance. Had they made the president's term two, six, or twelve years, it would have made little difference. They knew that the democracy that they built would stand or fall primarily on the attitude of the men who held office for whatever number of years." Is it not increasingly obvious that Mr. Willkie seeks to obscure the real campaign issues by trying to make something unholy out of the third term?

If you are in the market for a late model used car, you will be far more likely to get the most for your money if you make your selection in the largest market.

The easy way to make sure you have overlooked no worthwhile value is to follow the offerings in the Used Automobiles for Sale columns in the Tribune want ad section, which prints more used automobiles want advertising than any other Chicago newspaper.

Turn to the want ad section for a review of today's outstanding used car values.

Because they get better results, want ad users place more total want advertising in the Tribune than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

Opera Opening, Ballet Theater Premiere Hold City's Interest

BY JUDITH CASS.

REPORTERS of social activities in Chicago should install typewriters and cots in the Civic Opera house today for they will spend most of their time for at least the next three nights there. Tonight brings the opening of the opera season; tomorrow night the prémiere of the Ballet Theater that will be the resident ballet with the opera this year, and Monday night the first subscription performance, always THE gala night from a social standpoint. Tomorrow night's audience will be as fashionable a one as it is possible to assemble in Chicago, too, for the performance is a benefit for the British War Relief fund.

In the audience tonight will be Marion Claire of the world of music; the president of the company, Walter R. Kirk, and Mrs. Kirk; the chairman of the board of governors, Chauncey McCormick, and Mrs. McCormick, the chairman of the woman's board; Mrs. John Alden Carpenter and Mr. Carpenter; Mrs. Howard W. Fenton and Mrs. Jacob Baur, who, with Mrs. Kirk and Mrs. Carpenter, have headed the committee that disposed of the boxes; Mr. Fenton, Mayor and Mrs. Kelly, Robert Hall McCormick, chairman of the board of trustees; Mrs. James G. McMillan, president of the Illinois Opera guild, and Mr. McMillan; Jason F. Whitney, vice president, and Mrs. Whitney, and 3,488 others, for every one of the 3,505 seats in the great theater will be occupied.

List of Boxholders Like Social Register.

The list of boxholders for the benefit reads like Chicago's Social Register. Many of those who will have boxes will give dinners before the performance in the Electric club, high in the Civic Opera building. Among these hosts will be the John Carpenters, the Arthur Cables, the Adlai Stevensons, and the Lawrence Howes. Mrs. Carpenter has been one of the many working for the success of the benefit, of which Mrs. Clarence Prentice and Mrs. Howard Linn have been in charge.

The Prentices, the Carpenters, the Linns, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glore, the John D. Allens, the Charles Reckitts, Mrs. George Nichols Jr., the Charles Y. Freemans, the Robert J. Dunhams, Mrs. Clive Runnells, the Donald McPhersons, the Solomon A. Smiths, the Edward L. Ryersons, the Irving Florsheims, the Lester Armours, the Gerhard Foremans, the George Woodruffs, the Conway Olmsteds, the John Simpsons, the Robert A. Gardners, the Fowler McCormicks, Mrs. George B. Dryden, Mrs. Robert Wheeler, the Howard Fentons, the Ira Nelson Morrises, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Cummings, the Stanley Fields, the Frank Hibbards, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, and Mr. and Mrs. James Hopkins are boxholders for tomorrow night.

Franklyn Bliss Snyders Cancel After Football Tea.

President Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern university and Mrs. Snyder will not give their usual after the game tea following the Minnesota-Northwestern game this afternoon because of the homecoming reception that will be held. The Snyders will have a luncheon for their box guests and the trustees of the university, though. Some of those who will sit with the Snyders are the Lester Armours, the James C. Cathcarts, the Kent Clows, the Justin Darts, Dr. and Mrs. Vernon David, the Robert A. Gardners, Mayor and Mrs. Henry Penfield of Evanston, and President Emeritus Walter Dill Scott and Mrs. Scott.

Tonight the Lake Shore club will have an informal dinner-dance to celebrate the Northwestern-Minnesota game.

The barn on the R. Dougles Stuarts' farm near Millburn will be filled with sounds of laughter and country music tonight, for Miss Margaret Stuart is entertaining her friends with a barn dance. Miss Stuart chose this type of party rather than a conventional début.

Dinner will be served at 7:30 before the old-fashioned caller begins calling square dance figures and the like. The Stuart barn has been decorated in true rustic style and informal country clothes will be in order.

Ruth Elizabeth Owen Making Debut Tomorrow.

The pink of Miss Ruth Elizabeth Owen's tulle frock will be echoed by the shade of her bouquet of pink camellias when she mades her debut tomorrow afternoon. Miss Owen, the second daughter of Mrs. Donald H. McGibeny of Lake Forest, has chosen to wear the bouffant frock trimmed with ermine which she designed and entered in the Tribune American fashion contest this fall. Mr. and Mrs. McGibeny will receive with Miss Owen at a tea to be given in her home.

Miss Florence Louise Owen, who passed up a debut two years ago in favor of continuance of her studies at Northwestern, will be among her sister's assistants. Miss Ruth Burrows, Miss Adrienne Ely, Miss Priscilla Armstrong, Miss Beverly Roach, and Miss Martha Stevens, all debutantes of this year, will also assist Miss Owen.

Mrs. John R. Thompson will give a dinner at her Lake Forest home after the tea for Miss Owen, who is her granddaughter.

Miss Josephine Castle and Edmund J. Doering III., whose marriage is to take place next Saturday, will be the especial guests at a dinner dance the latter's parents are giving tonight at their Lake Forest home. On Thursday Miss Castle's twin sister, Miss Josephine, who will serve as maid of honor, and Philip Pool, the best man, will give a dinner dance at the Racquet club.

Wayne-Du Page Hunter Trials Scheduled for Tomorrow.

Regardless of the weather tomorrow, the Wayne-Du Page Hunter Trials will go off according to schedule. At 10 o'clock in the morning working hunters will be shown by members of the Wayne-Du Page and neighboring hunts; the hunt class, for members only, will be held at 1 o'clock, and the hunter teams from all hunts will be shown at 3 o'clock.

Ballet Theater Benefit Aids

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Sally Perry and Mrs. Bartle Bull (right) will be among the young women assisting at the British War Relief fund benefit tomorrow night at the Civic Opera house. The Ballet theater will present four ballets.

Story of Tonight's Opera

Here is a synopsis of the opera "Aida," to be presented tonight by the Chicago Opera company. It is suggested that persons unfamiliar with the story, who are planning to attend the performance, clip it out and take it with them to the Civic Opera house. It will greatly increase their enjoyment.

"AIDA."

Opera in four acts. Music by Giuseppe Verdi. Libretto by Mariette Bey, Camille du Locle, and Antonio Ghislanzoni. The action takes place in ancient Egypt, in and around Memphis and Thebes.

Act 1, Scene 1—Rhadames, an Egyptian officer, loves Aïda, an Ethiopian princess who is now a slave at the Egyptian court. He is himself loved by Amneris, daughter of the king of Egypt. He learns that he has been selected to lead the Egyptian forces against the invading Ethiopians, who are led by Amonasro, Aïda's father. Aïda is torn between love for her father and love for Rhadames.

Act 1, Scene 2—In the temple of Pthah there are solemn services, and Rhadames receives the consecrated veil and a consecrated sword.

Act 2, Scene 1—Amneris summons her slave Aïda to her sumptuous apartment and by telling her falsely that Rhadames has been slain in battle traps her into an admission of her love for him. Now the festal music of the triumphant returning armies is heard outside, and Amneris decides that Aïda shall witness the homage which the conqueror Rhadames will pay to her, Amneris.

Act 2, Scene 2—The procession approaches, and Rhadames is borne in in triumph. The prisoners are summoned, among them Amonasro. With the help of the magnanimous Rhadames he pleads successfully for the life of the captives. The king gives Rhadames the hand of Amneris as a reward for his successful campaign.

Act 3—To the temple of Isis on the banks of the Nile there come by moonlight Amneris and the high priest. As they enter, Aïda appears at the river bank. Her father, Amonasro, comes and persuades her to try to obtain from Rhadames certain military secrets. When he comes, and is swept away by his love for Aïda, Rhadames inadvertently gives away these secrets. Amonasro emerges from his hiding place, and insists that all three of them shall make their way to Ethiopia. Amneris, coming from the temple, overhears the colloquy. She denounces the trio. Aïda and Amonasro escape, but Rhadames yields himself up to the high priest.

Act 4, Scene 1—In a room in the palace Amneris offers to save Rhadames' life if he will love her. He refuses to give up Aïda, even tho it is scarcely possible that he will ever see her again. Rhadames is led away, and the priests who are to pass judgment on him file thru the room. In an adjoining chamber the trial is held. His punishment is to be burial alive.

Act 4, Scene 2—The scene is a double one. Above, in the temple, the priests intone their prayers. Below, in the tomb, Rhadames broods on his terrible fate. Suddenly he is aware of another human form in the vault. It is Aïda, who has stolen back to rejoin her lover. Together they await death.

New Operatic Era in Chicago Opens Tonight

BY EDWARD BARRY.

When the Civic Opera conductor signals the orchestra for the first notes of the "Aida" prelude Chicago will be witnessing not merely the beginning of another opera season but the inauguration of a new operatic era. In order to make this era the most brilliant in the city's musical history the resident opera company has been completely renovated.

Chauncey McCormick. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

It has a new name—the Chicago Opera company. It has a new chairman of the board [Chauncey McCormick], a new president [Walter R. Kirk], a new general director [Henry Weber], a new stage director [William Wymetal]. The chorus and ballet are new. Scenery has been refurbished and the orchestra overhauled.

It is appropriate that Verdi's brilliant "Aïda" should open this new era of Chicago opera, for it has been used twice in the past for a similar purpose. Thirty years ago almost to the day—on Nov. 3, 1910—this very opera was presented in the Auditorium as the first performance of the first resident company's first season. Nineteen years later [Nov. 4, 1929] "Aïda" opened the magnificent new Civic Opera house. It is interesting to note that two of the singers in tonight's cast—Virgilio Lazzari as Ramfis and Giuseppe Cavadore as the Messenger—had these same rôles in the 1929 performance.

Zinka Milanov, Jugo-Slavian soprano will make her Chicago operatic debut tonight in the part of "Aïda." Rhadames will be sung by Giovanni Martinelli, probably the best loved Italian tenor of the day. The part of Amneris will go to Karin Branzell, distinguished Swedish contralto who made her Chicago debut a year ago in the same rôle. John Charles Thomas, the great American baritone, will sing the noble music allotted to Amonasro. Douglas Beattie is cast as the King of Egypt. Henry Weber will conduct.

The company's new ballet—the renowned Ballet theater—will make its first Chicago appearance tonight in the course of the performance. The Ballet theater is to coöperate with the Chicago Opera company this season in all performances requiring dancing. In addition, it will present 12 all-ballet programs, the first of which—a British war relief benefit—is scheduled for tomorrow night.

The opera season will last six weeks. Among the great musical personalities scheduled to take part in it are [in addition to those already mentioned] Kirsten Flagstad, Dusolina Giannini, Helen Jepson, Grace Moore, Marjorie Lawrence, Rose Bampton, Lauritz Melchior, Jussi Bjoerling, Tito Schipa, James Melton, Ezio Pinza, Maurice Abravanel, Artur Rodzinski, and Italo Montemezzi.

Front Views and Profiles

1940 Notebook Notes.

The scarlet covered 1940 Notebook of Front Views and Profiles is on the newsstands, in the leading bookstores and piled on the counters of the Tribune Public Service offices. This afternoon Snow White, of the raven locks and gentle voice, she who answers your queries over the wire and knows more about the workings of this department than we ourselves, is behind a table in Carson's book department, selling the Notebooks herself. It was her idea. She thought it would be fun to personally accelerate the sale. She thinks the Observations of a Boy Scout the best thing in the book, with the Kreplech story and the piece called Saturday Night and Sandburg runners-up. But you can ask her about it yourself.

The tall, quiet woman with the shadowy look of a poet you might have seen in the vicinity of the opera house the last few days is Mrs. Carleton Palmer, whose poetry is published under her maiden name, Winthrop Bushnell. She got together the fine collection of ballet art on display in the opera house lobby.

Featured stars at Harry Lim's jam session tomorrow in the Panther room will be Harry James, the big shot trumpet player, who is advertised as the successor to Bix Beiderbecke but who experts say actually plays nothing like Bix, and Warren (Baby) Dodds, famed colored drummer. "For my dough, Baby's the guy to watch," says our jam session stooge. "He is from New Orleans. In the prohibition days in Chicago the Babe made a name as the 'shimmying drummer.' He shakes from the waist up when he drums. Most of the great white drummers learned by watching and copying many of the Babe's hot licks."

Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Nov. 1.—They do say that Marlene Dietrich, who is notably fussy about her costumes, rejected so many outfits before selecting the ones she wears in "Seven Sinners" that the wardrobe bill was $95,000. Divide it by 10 and it's still a lot of money for feathers. . . . Whenever a Great Man finishes a picture a story goes out that, having shot half a million feet, he must now cut it to 12,000 or so. R-K-O gave Alfred Hitchcock a raw film budget of 200,000 feet for "Mr. and Mrs. Smith," Lombard-Montgomery comedy. Shooting ends tomorrow night with a little under 80,000 feet exposed, and the picture will be cut and ready for a preview next week. . . . It's no gag. A local producer has been telling friends he will kill himself if his newest picture is a failure.

Rosalind Russell departs today for Kansas City for a church benefit appearance—thus making good on a date she made several weeks ago via long distance, under the impression that it was all a practical joke on the part of Columbia's director, Al Hall. . . . After that it's a four-month vacation for Rosalind, including a visit home at Waterbury, Conn. . . . Dear me! Baby Dumpling will have a song and dance routine in "Blondie Goes Latin" . . . Herb Polesie is now working with Norman Taurog on the "Boys' Town" sequel. . . . Warners have signed the first player for the film version of "The Man Who Came to Dinner"—Mary Wickes, who plays the nurse on the stage. Kaufman and Hart will be here about Jan. 1 to do the script. . . . Warners have set Dec. 14 for another of their famous junket premières—"Santa Fe Trail" at—three guesses—Santa Fe. They are whipping up a three-day festival to begin Dec. 13, the like of which has not been seen since neighboring Indians went around beating themselves with cactus.

Add two newcomers to the screen writing profession. Ann Froelich, secretary of the Warner scripter, Howard Koch, has collaborated with her boss on a number called "Danger Signal." And Robert Shaw, Fox actor whom Columbia borrowed for "Legacy," has just about sold Irving Briskin a scenario called "Between Two Worlds." It's autobiographical and concerns a bicycle trip Shaw took in Europe two years ago. . . . Speaking of loan-out players, Columbia is shopping for a story that will take advantage of the buildups given three of its contract players by other studios. The players are Rita Hayworth, Bill Holden, and Glen Ford. . . . Shooting starts today on Bette Davis' "Far Horizon"—once known as "January

Final Novelty Introduced by De Basil Ballet

BY CECIL SMITH.

With the first performance of "Protée" in the Auditorium theater last night, the De Basil Ballet Russe introduced the final novelty in the Chicago list. Some of the company's new works are not being given here, for the none too satisfactory reason that they would entail extra orchestral rehearsals.

"Protée," danced to Debussy's "Sacred and Profane Dances," is primarily an exotic character piece for David Lichine, who choreographed it and dances the only male rôle. The scenario is simple enough: Five girls lure Protée from the sea, his usual habitat. He dances, and just as they are really getting interested, he leaps back into the water in a swan dive that is likely to become the talk of the town's balletomanes.

The reasons for "Protée," which is attractive but unoriginal, are quite clear. The De Basil company does not own performing rights to "The Afternoon of a Faun," and Mr. Lichine has set out to create a piece as much like it as possible. Except for his own dancing, which is fairly athletic and has more elevation than the Faun is permitted, "Protée" on the whole seems like a badly remembered performance of the earlier Debussy work.

"Graduation Ball," also Mr. Lichine's choreography, is delightful in its resourceful handling of the groups of cadets and pupils at a party in a girls' school. Some of the individual divertissements, however, are as unoriginal as "Protée"—especially the duet of Mr. Lichine and Tatiana Riabouchinska, which is a dead ringer for "Beau Danube," another ballet this company cannot use.

The other ballets on last night's list were "Aurora's Wedding" and the superb "Paganini."

Show of British Contemporary Art Is Opened

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

"Contemporary British Art" is the exhibition that the Arts club chose to present as its first exhibit of the new season. The paintings went on view yesterday and, even tho some of us may have seen them in the British pavilion at the New York World's Fair, they make a superb showing.

Probably the most interesting thing about the exhibit is the way British art seems to have been developing along lines parallel with those on which American art has chosen to skid since shortly after the turn of the century. In plainer language, modernism has been as important a factor in English studios as in American—or so one gathers.

The British paintings include works of several schools. They run from the Constable type of landscape, P. Wilson Steer's "Chepstow," to the characteristic modern type as exemplified in Paul Nash's "Nocturnal Landscape" and Victor Pasmore's "Red Tablecloth." The exhibition by all odds is one not to be missed.

There are many stunning things in it, among them "From My Bedroom Window," by A. J. Munnings; "King Feisal," by Augustus John; "Oakbridge Farm: Late Summer," by Sir William Rothenstein; "The New Bedford," by Sickert; "The Farm Yard," by Sir Walter Russell; "A New Arrival at the Zoo," by Philip Connard, and "Arenig, North Wales," by the late J. D. Innes.

A delightful group of paintings by Stokely Webster went on view yesterday at the Roullier galleries, Fine Arts building. Mr. Webster is a Chicagoan who has lived and painted in France and the east. He had a one-man show last winter in New York that was well received. His present exhibit is his first in Chicago.

At the Cordon club, Fine Arts building, an exhibit of paintings by May H. Gilruth opened yesterday. With the exception of the sketch of an elderly man reading a newspaper the exhibit left us cold. There are too many loose ends in this particular kind of impressionistic, washed-in, modern art.

The Cliff Dwellers opened an exhibit yesterday of sculpture by Frederick C. Hibbard and Elizabeth Haseltine Hibbard. This exhibit is extremely fine; some of the pieces have been seen this summer at the Art institute, but as they were among the best on view there one can easily stand a second view of them—in fact, they are well worth seeing a second, third, and fourth time.

Tonight the curtain goes up on "Aida" at the Civic Opera house and in the foyers still another exhibition waits to be discussed. Pastels and oils, water colors, and drawings—all types of painting are hung and every picture has to do with the ballet. It is a stunning exhibit.

The most piquant and intriguing views of the ballet since 1900 have been assembled; the exhibit is gay, entertaining, and instructive. Among the painters represented are Bernard Lintott, Reginald Marsh, Waldo Pierce, and Boris Challapin. The ballet claims, too, the only thing Epstein, the sculptor, has ever painted—a most magnificent curtain.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Walter Kirk, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Daniel Catton Rich, Mrs. John Cochrane, and Mrs. Frank H. Woods are the Chicago sponsors of the exhibit.

Heights"—and the Warners are still looking for a No. 2 feminine lead. Dietrich had been sought but is out. The job will doubtless fall to Sylvia Sidney, Ida Lupino or Rita Hayworth. . . . Miss Sidney, incidentally, has been pouting at the studio of late, but the big Burbank plant wouldn't be operating efficiently if it didn't have a few feuds on with its hired hands. . . . Edmund Goulding, directing "Far Horizon," is back at work for the first time in five months, having been floored by repeated bouts with flu.

The Foy family will have its first reunion in seven years at Christmas time. Eddie III., Brynie, Mary and Irving, who are here, will host the rest of the tribe. . . . Twentieth-Century Fox has acquired S. Z. Sakall, the middle-European Charles Coburn who scored as the baker in Deanna Durbin's "Spring Parade," for "Tall, Dark and Handsome." Universal has acquired Fox's Walter Brennan for Durbin's new one, "Nice Girl." . . . Cobina Wright Jr. and George Montgomery were tested yesterday for "Tall, Dark and Handsome" rôles. Montgomery is a tall, lean and handsome Montana cowboy. . . . Fox has ordered its London office to decentralize distribution, making local booking offices independent. This despite the fact that London headquarters, in Soho, so far has escaped bombing. . . . Eight days have been added to the "Western Union" shooting schedule, so that the spectacle may be built up. . . . Darryl Zanuck has ordered $100,000 to be spent on one of the costliest of recent sets—a Welsh mining town for "How Green Was My Valley." The town will be built in Brent's Crags, 30 miles from Hollywood. Studio wizards will whip it up in a month and it will include a real coal mine—if they find coal. A long 72 day shooting schedule starts Dec. 4, with William Wyler directing.

What could be more timely than for a gay and frivolous perfume, that has been popular for a long time, to make its bow behind the footlights in a brand new dress? It stands ready to accompany you on your attendance at the opera, the ballet or the opening nights at the theater; at the dance or wherever your fancy takes you, all dressesd up in your best bib and tucker.

It's a sparkling fragrance that belongs to the dressup hours and blends so well with formal clothes, high heeled slippers, and glowing jewels.

Its new presentation is in a dark blue box with a white and gold baroque scroll framing a miniature stage. On a golden platform, against a rippling, iridescent fuchsia-purple backdrop, a lovely bottle, resembling a scored crystal spinning top, stands liké a star behind the footlights, ready to release its appealing fragrance as soon as the stopper is removed. Wearing this fragrance, you'll feel every bit as important as the leading lady in the play.

The girls who consider their standard makeup equipment incomplete without a lipstick brush in their bag, will be interested in knowing that a little restyling has been done on one of the favorites that came out about a year ago. This little gadget automatically feeds the rouge to the brush and the improvement lies in the task of refilling. When it is time for a new rouge cylinder—for there are refills—it can be slid into place without soiling the fingers.

Winter Gloves in Odd Shades Hard to Resist

BY REA SEEGER.

Being romantic to the finger tips isn't a state of mind. Smart shoppers acquire such a manner with the newest dress parade gloves. Some of the lovellest shades imaginable are now ready for the winter season. If you've craved gloves of emerald green, see them high lighted with black jet bead embroidery, and resist them if you can.

There's a beautiful shade of parma violet used for street gloves as well as evening. Sultry shades of old gold or green mustard tones, canary yellow, and several shades of blue offer just what you need in the way of subtle color with which to spike a dull toned costume.

Luxurious white kidskin gloves in lengths and styles come with or without trim. Gold skin bows, pipings, and even gold embroidery make them opera gloves and evening gloves for the most formal costume.

Odd shades like magenta, tangerine, cypress green, bronze green, caramel beige, rose geranium, hydrangea blue, turquoise blue, and turquoise green are the perfect accents for dark gowns.

These subtle shades are highlights for delicate pastels, two tone taffetas, two tone brocades, and also the right contrasts for pompadour flowered taffetas, printed crêpes, and the smart wide stripes of taffeta with velvet. Guardsman red, the real scarlet, is a flashing success with all black or midnight blue costumes, either day or evening wear.

Numerology

By Evelyn Holmes

Nov. 2, 1940.

Universal day—A bit edgy for most, especially if you get into political discussions.

November—Since our President is in a nine year, the month of November is a two month, or an 11 month for him. He should find some loyal support from friends and former and new partners. It is bound to be a highly emotional month in any event, but his numbers show that, too. He needs to handle all issues tactfully and not seek to win by personality alone. The wear and tear of these next two months are likely to be very exhausting. Any one else in a nine year may feel that a fishing trip vacation would be just what was needed after the emotional strain of this closing chapter of a nine year.

Year ahead—A new cycle is going to begin soon for you to cut down your speed now to a stop.

Cinnamon orange doughnuts are different from the usual kind in that they are orange flavored and contain no spices, not even cinnamon. The cinnamon flavor is outside, for the doughnuts are rolled in cinnamon and sugar after frying.

Cinnamon Orange Doughnuts.
(About 3½ dozen.)

2 tablespoons lard
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
4 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¾ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup orange juice

Cream shortening and sugar. Add beaten eggs and rind. Mix well. Sift dry ingredients together and add to creamed mixture alternately with orange juice. Chill the dough. Roll to a half inch in thickness.

Cut with a doughnut cutter. Fry in deep hot fat at 350-365 degrees, drain on soft paper, and roll in a mixture of sugar and cinnamon.

The new serving racks for glass casseroles and other oven dishes are handsome and convenient. They hold the hot dish well off the surface of the table, and have wooden handles for utility's sake.

Have you tried making jam and jelly a new easy way? There are concentrated fruits on the market which will make jam or jelly with the addition of water and sugar, after a short boiling period. Rasberry, strawberry, currant, blackberry, loganberry, orange, and grape are the kinds. A 15 cent package makes five glasses.

Peas are the most popular of vegetables. Grocers sell about a million cases more of canned peas than of any other canned vegetables. Once upon a time, about 1600, to be exact, royal French ladies and gentlemen made eating peas a high fashion. Nobody could call peas expensive these days, but at that time they cost what would amount in our money to $62 a pint.

Here's a Pretty Good Movie on 'Escort Clubs'

"GLAMOR FOR SALE."
Produced by Columbia.
Directed by D. Ross Lederman.
Presented at the Oriental.

The Cast:

Ann Powell ..... Anita Louise
Jim Daly ..... Roger Pryor
Peggy Davis ..... June MacCloy
Betty Warren ..... Frances Robinson
Frank Regan ..... Don Beddoe
Louis Manell ..... Paul Fix
Harry Braddock ..... Arthur Loft
Lucille ..... Veda Ann Borg

By Mae Tenée.

Good Morning!

There are, it seems, escort clubs and escort clubs.

Some are conducted on a high plane, and a girl who rents out her services thru their auspices to men craving feminine comradeship for an evening, retains caste and is as safe as if going out on a date from her own home. . . . Others, alas—so the story relates—are the opposite.

Anita Louise portrays a sweet, shy maid who ventures forth on her first paid engagement from the excellently managed "Escort club," and finds herself double-dated with another couple. . . . The man, married and alias-ing, has for consort a chiseling blonde from the "Companion club," which engages in blackmail as a sideline.

The evening is uneventful, save for the fact that Ann and her date [Shh! a federal operative, tho she wots it not!] fall in love AND have their pictures snapped with the other couple as they leave a night club. BUT—

The evening has ugly outgrowths. In due time Ann finds herself allied with the government and, as spy, a resident of the notorious "Escort club." . . . She is admitted thru the recommendation of the aforementioned blonde, Peggy, for whom she has "fronted"—how and why you shall learn from the film. And then the fat IS in the fire. . . .

This is a good little picture, entertaining, well acted, and pretty believable.

No—Peggy is NOT played by Alice Faye. . . . June McCloy, wife of a bandsman at the Oriental, shoulders the rôle. Competently—and looking so much like Alice that I gave the cast two lookovers before I was convinced that she and Tony Martin's pretty "ex" weren't one and the same.

See you tomorrow.

BY JEAN MacDONALD.

We aim to supply every member of the family with knitted Christmas gifts and Skippy is not left out in the cold. This good looking dog sweater is ideal for Boston or toy bull dog and wire-haired, Irish, or Welsh terrier. Red and white, and green and tan are popular color schemes for the dog wardrobe this season.

For instructions in knitting the dog's sweater, No. X-381, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

As I announced yesterday, the self-rating bridge examination will run one more week, space limitations having made it impossible for me to crowd the planned 40 questions into the original schedule of five weeks. So prepare for the stretch run, beginning next Monday and ending Friday.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: This is a question concerning defense, and it looks to me like a tough one. The following hand is involved:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Rubber bridge.

♦ K 10 9 8

WEST
♠ Q 8 6 5 2

EAST
♠ 7 3
♥ A J 9 6
♦ J 5
♣ J 10 8 7 4

SOUTH
♠ A 10 4
♥ 10 5 4
♦ A 7 4 3
♣ A K Q

"The bidding went:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

"West [my partner] opened the five of spades. Dummy's jack was played and held the trick. Declarer then led the diamond eight to his own ace, returning a low diamond and played the nine from dummy. I won with the jack and had to decide what suit to return. I scarcely need point out that a low heart return and a heart continuation by West would have given us four heart tricks and defeated the contract, but this was not so apparent to me at the time. Actually, I led back the club jack and declarer proceeded to wrap up nine tricks.

"Was there any way for me to tell that a heart return would be successful?—E. R. D., Chicago.

First, let me say that East's problem, on being presented with the diamond trick, was anything but easy. Indeed, every master would put up a fine exhibition of squirming in this situation, and how many of them would finally decide upon the heart return will forever remain a very moot point.

Actually, the best guide available to East was an appraisal of South's skill and psychology. If South was a shrewd player, it was extremely significant that, in clearing the diamond suit, he had chosen to present the lead to East instead of West. [Obviously, he could have "passed" a diamond to either defender.] Dummy's abject weakness in clubs would make a club return by East very attractive, and any experienced declarer would appreciate that fact. Hence, it was logical to suppose that if this particular declarer was deliberately inviting a club return by East, he was very well prepared for that return. And, of course, it is usually sound defense to refuse declarer's invitations.

There is another argument against the club return. South's no trump bid made it likely that he held three clubs, which would leave only two for West. Whatever those two were, even the ace and queen, East would not be able to clear and cash many club tricks, with only the heart ace for entry.

Thus, by the process of elimination, a low heart return by East appears to be the best defense. This, however, is no guarantee that the play would have succeeded against the many other card combinations in the South and West hands that were entirely conceivable.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—Alumnus Bob Zuppke will be among the Wisconsin homecomers here tomorrow, but the plans do not include entertainment for the little general or his Illini football corps. The little general and his men will be kicked around. At least, that is the Wisconsin battle scheme, built partly on the crest of the wave that followed the sensational victory last week over Purdue and partly on the premise that the Badgers rise to dizzy heights when the homecoming spirit is in the air.

Neither injuries nor ailments have been able to slow down the enthusiasm which developed in the wake of the last minute triumph over Purdue, the Badgers' first conference success since they defeated Northwestern in 1938. A mild epidemic of influenza has been working thru the squad all week. Others have hurts hanging over from previous battles. But George Paskvan, the pile driving full back, will be in there and that alone, Wisconsin thinks, will be enough to discourage the Illini.

Mr. Stuhldreher Is Suspicious.

While a giddy homecoming spirit has spread with the speed of an epidemic it hadn't hit Harry Stuhldreher, Badger coach, up to a late hour tonight. Stuhldreher is suspicious of Zuppke, the man who invents new football tricks between autumn Saturdays.

Zuppke points for certain games. He pointed for Southern California and might have gotten away with it if it hadn't been for a mishap. He didn't point for either Michigan or Notre Dame. He knew it was useless.

"So it's a cinch," warned Stuhldreher today, "that he has been pointing for Wisconsin. And why shouldn't he? Nothing would give him a heartier chuckle than to ruin his alma mater's homecoming. Zuppke also has a pretty keen memory. The last time he was at Camp Randall was in 1934. He was beaten, 7 to 3, and knocked out of a possible conference title claim."

Picks Tentative Lineup.

Because the health of his boys isn't what it should be on the eve of Zuppke's arrival, Stuhldreher was able to name only a tentative starting lineup. Fred Gage, senior guard, may start altho fresh from an influenza bed in the infirmary. Cliff Philip was being counted on for left end chores altho he was still in a physician's hands today for the same reason. Bob Ray, sophomore full back, who kicked the winning point against Purdue, and Paul Bronson, sophomore quarter, also are influenza convalescents.

On the brighter side is the case of Dick Embick, one of the Big Nine's better guards. Injured in the Iowa game, Embick had to sit on the bench while Northwestern's Wildcats were here. He played only a few minutes against Purdue, but he's as solid as a keg now. Hadley Hoskins, the flashy left half, and Al Lorenz, right end, haven't fully recovered from previous wounds and while they probably will be missing at the opening kickoff, they'll get into the affair sooner or later if needed.

The Gophers regard Dyche stadium, Evanston, as their jinx premises. . . . They haven't won a game there since Bronko Nagurski led them to a 26 to 14 victory in 1929. . . . Minnesota, with all its great teams in the last decade, hasn't made a touchdown on Northwestern's grounds since 1931 when it made two in a lost cause, the Wildcats winning, 32 to 14. . . . BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 1.—The vanguard of more than 40,000 Iowa citizens was involved in great doings around these parts this evening, and tomorrow afternoon the throng expects even greater doings of the university's Hawkeyes when the latter do battle with Purdue's Boilermakers in the annual homecoming.

The homecoming motif should be sufficient incentive for the local lads, but there is more to it than that for those who served on last year's wonder eleven. There is the record of never having been shut out since the arrival of Dr. Eddie Anderson as head coach here. In 11 games since the good doctor's auspicious advent they have scored at least one touchdown. In the 12th they were restrained to two safeties by these same Boilermakers, but those two sufficed to give them victory by the margin of a world series pitching duel.

Anxious to Succeed.

Of course, all those touchdowns and safeties have not given the Iowans a perfect record. Take, for instance, the current season, wherein, after starting out with two neat triumphs over South Dakota and Wisconsin, they were tipped over by Indiana, and only last Saturday ran smack into the Minnesota juggernaut.

For all the enthusiasm of tonight's homecoming celebration, none among the Hawkeyes or their supporters was anticipating an easy afternoon of it. Reports emanating from Davenport in midafternoon indicated the arrival there of a Purdue team considerably riled about its 1940 fortunes to date, and with more than a pinch of reason. The Boilermakers have lost their last three games, including that Ohio State-Charley Maag decision and last Saturday's Frank Merriwell finish by Wisconsin. If they're going to bounce back from these disappointments, tomorrow would seem to be the time and the place,

Purdue Without Byelene.

Purdue will be without the valuable services of its speedy right half back, Mike Byelene, whose duties will be shared alternately by sophomores Tony Berto and Paul Anderson.

Coach Anderson confessed today that he has no cohesive assortment of talents, but is relying, rather, on a blending of them. He has had to mix up his hands to suit the situation and finds himself without Full Back Ray Murphy, who came down with a shoulder separation the first time he carried the ball against Minnesota. But Iowa has a right able replacement in Bill Green.

Jim Youel, a 176 pound sophomore from Fort Madison, rated about the best of the Iowa punters and boasting running speed to boot, will get his chance as a starter tomorrow, at left half. This, of course, does not mean that he will go the route, for Anderson still thinks highly of Tom Farmer, another sophomore, hailing from Cedar Rapids. Another Anderson stratagem against Purdue's known swiftness is the likely appearance of still another first year kid, Left End Bill Parker of Des Moines.

New York, Nov. 1.—Twenty-seven years ago today—Nov. 1, 1913—an unknown group of boys from a way station in Indiana shocked the football world by knocking off Army, one of the nation's major gridiron powers, 35 to 13, on the plains of West Point. A few hundred fans, most of them cadets who had nothing else to do that afternoon, attended what developed into the most important football contest of all time, important because it changed the character of a sport. The admission was free.

Records Very Dissimilar.

Tomorrow, undefeated Notre Dame, now the greatest attraction in football, will play Army, twice beaten and once tied, before a capacity crowd of 80,000 in Yankee stadium. The huge throng will pay more than $325,000 to see the 27th meeting of football's oldest intersectional series.

Army was overwhelmed by Cornell, trounced soundly by Lafayette, and tied by Harvard, while Notre Dame was breezing thru College of the Pacific, Georgia Tech, Carnegie Tech, and Illinois. There is nothing in the records to warrant hope of an Army victory, yet thousands of fans are bustling around New York tonight trying to lay hold of a pair of tickets.

It Belongs to the Fans.

Which brings us up to the question—who are the people who year after year fill Yankee stadium on this occasion, no matter the standing of either team? Admitting that the cadets bring their entire student body and that a heavy percentage of those who were graduated summa cum laude, cum laude, or just graduated from Notre Dame live in or around the metropolitan district, that still leaves a lot of space unaccounted for.

The answer is that this game isn't

OVERLIN COMES UP FROM FLOOR TO BEAT BELLOISE

New York, Nov. 1 (AP).—Ken Overlin, the playboy ex-sailor from Washington, came up off the floor tonight, survived a severe fistic bombardment, and retained his middleweight championship [New York variety] by outpointing Steve Belloise in 15 rounds in Madison Square Garden. Overlin weighed 158 pounds and Belloise 153.

Floored in the sixth round by a right-hand smash, and on the verge of a knockout for the last two minutes of that round as Belloise threw everything he had, Overlin came back to administer a boxing lesson and win like a champion should.

The Associated Press score card gave him 10 rounds, with four for Belloise and one even. Both judges—George Lecron and George Kelly—voted for Overlin. Referee George Walsh called it a draw.

The fight, while a thriller that had a crowd of 13,071 on its feet time and again—some booing and some cheering at the finish—went just like every one said it would. They said Overlin would outbox the lanky youngster, who still has lots to learn, and that Belloise, who packs a particular wallop, probably would nail Ken before it was over. It went just like that. The crowd contributed a gross gate of $29,838.

Columbus, O., Nov. 1.—Ohio State, technically the defending champion of the Big Nine, and Indiana, for a spell this early autumn calculated to be a possible devastating dark horse, will meet here tomorrow afternoon for the sheer love of the game of football.

Despite the fact the two contestants have won only a grand total of three victories in a grand total of nine contests, a crowd of 47,000 is forecast. The way it looks now the 47,000 will do well to take along umbrellas, galoshes, and rubber rafts.

Since the game is to be played purely in the interest of good, clean fun, every effort is to be made to conduct the match strictly according to accepted football rules. The reason we mention this is because Ohio State has been embarrassed, coming and going, this season by infractions of the rules or alleged infractions.

Woe, Plenty of It.

There was the matter of the Buckeyes' lone victory in the Big Nine, over Purdue, on a field goal kicked in the closing seconds by an ineligible player. And last Saturday, you remember, the Buckeyes claimed that Coach Carl Snavely of Cornell was calling the plays for his quarter backs thru the none too ingenious use of a magic wand.

Coach Bo McMillin of Indiana, who arrived at noon today with 36 of his fine young men, is said to have claimed he didn't bring a wand or other semaphoring device with him, and that even if he had he wouldn't know how to use it or them.

Rain Cheers Buckeyes.

The rain today caused a burst of hastily refurbished confidence on the part of the suffering Ohio State followers, for they had figured that the forward passing ability of Hal Hursh of the Hoosiers was likely to lead to the Buckeyes' fourth straight setback. If tomorrow's weather is like today's, Hursh won't be so dangerous, two touchdown passes to Franck

Four years ago in Dyche stadium Northwestern's Wildcats stopped the all-conquering march of Minnesota's Golden Gophers at 21 consecutive victories. That conquest was the foundation for Northwestern's accession to the championship throne of the Western conference.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon, on the same battle site, a capacity throng of loyal homecomers and more than 8,000 adherents of the undefeated Gophers will see if this brilliant passage in the history of the Purple can be repeated.

Honor Song's Composer.

Forty-eight thousand will attend Northwestern's homecoming festivities. The game also has been designated as Dads' day and between the halves Theodore Van Etten, composer of the nationally known song, "Go U. Northwestern," will be honored by his alma mater. Van Etten wrote the words and music for this victory song in 1912 when he was a senior in the school of pharmacy.

A member of the Northwestern band, Van Etten was inspired by his team's victory over Indiana university to write the song which has taken its place in the collegiate musical potpourri.

Northwestern's football men now have earned three victories over Minnesota in the five year coaching era of Lynn Waldorf. Moreover, the Wildcats are seeking a third consecutive triumph, and since both teams are undefeated in the current Big Nine race, today's engagement not only headlines Western conference football but it rates top position in the nation.

Seats Are Available.

Ted Payseur, Northwestern ticket manager, announced yesterday that approximately 1,000 tickets remain for today's game. These will be on sale this afternoon at Dyche stadium. There is no doubt, of course, that all will be sold before the kickoff.

Minnesota's squad, which rested last night in Milwaukee after a daylight ride from Minneapolis, is favored to whip the Wildcats. Victories over the University of Washington, undefeated in the Pacific Coast conference, and over Nebraska, which stakes its unbeaten record in the Big Six conference today against Oklahoma, started the Gophers toward their present national rating. Minnesota licked Ohio State for its first conference victory and last week overwhelmed Iowa.

Gophers Are Giants.

The Gophers have more men and an advantage in weight which will be 25 pounds a man in a comparison of the starting lines. They also have George Franck and Bruce Smith, the best pair of ball carriers and passers in the Big Nine. Franck's kicking also will be superior to that of any Northwestern man.

Northwestern's bid for victory might be denied under any circumstance by the invaders, but that effort will be weaker since Bill DeCorrevont is not in best condition for this all important test. DeCorrevont has not been crossed off by his coaches but he has not recovered from the ankle injury received two weeks ago in the Wisconsin game. DeCorrevont's value is expressed by his 62 yard touchdown run against Minnesota a year ago that whipped the Northmen, 14 to 7.

There's Always Ollie.

Ollie [Red] Hahnenstein, a mighty agile open field runner and accurate passer, must carry the burden of the left half position. Northwestern's back field strength has been increased over last week by the return of Ike Kepford, right half, injured in the Syracuse game, but Tuffy Chambers quite likely will start against the Gophers. Don Clawson also will be ready to share the full back assignment this week with George Benson and Paul Soper. The latter probably can be used at left half where he played last season.

Jim Smith, left end, will start altho he has not entirely recovered from the bruises received from the Hoosiers. Minnesota brings a complete cast. The only problem, apparently, is selection of a starting left end, left tackle, quarter back, and full back, from the squad list. Choices have varied and last week Bruce Smith was withheld from the opening line-up for Iowa. Later, however, he threw two touchdown passes to Franck.

BIGGEST RACING SEASON SINCE '29 TO CLOSE TODAY

Sportsman's Handle Far Ahead of Last Year.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago's biggest racing season since 1929 will end today with the running of the final program of the Sportsman's Park meeting. In the course of the schedule which began last May at Lincoln Fields, every track in this area has shown substantial gains in attendance and mutuel handle. The average increase has been a little more than 20 per cent.

Sportsman's Park, operating under new management, is a million dollars over its total handle of last season, when $4,589,193 went thru the mutuels. Another $350,000 probably will be bet today.

Rockey Mike Finally Scores.

Long shots yesterday broke up the succession of victories by well backed choices. There was a $311 daily double on Ducmiss and Guy B. Then a 73 to 1 shot, Rockey Mike, came home on top in the third race after he had been beaten by 12 lengths, 20 lengths and 17 lengths in three previous starts at Sportsman's Park. It was his first victory in the 19 races of his career.

Rockey Mike, which paid off at $148.20, $51.20, and $17.20, scored by three-quarters of a length over Main Miss while Lydia K was getting in third. Jockey Harold Kees took Rockey Mike to the outside to find a clear path around his rivals in the seven furlong dash for juveniles. After staying within striking distance of the pace set by Main Miss, the long shot came up with a rush to catch the leader in the last sixty yards.

Guy B. Wins at 18-1.

The generous proportions of the daily double were due largely to Guy B.'s victory at 18 to 1 odds in the second race because Ducmiss, at a little less than 7 to 2, was fairly popular in the first.

Guy B., with Al Ebberts aboard, caught the early leader, Learner, soon after reaching the back stretch. He drew out to a lead of three lengths and lasted under a hard drive to beat Little Rhody by half a length. Little Wick was third.

OLD NOTRE DAME PALS TO MEET AS FOES TOMORROW

Bear, Packer Line Coaches Recall May, 1924.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Among the things for which there will be no time between 1:30 and 5 o'clock on Wrigley field tomorrow is reminiscing. But after the Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers have come to some understanding about the latter's championship hopes, two gents from the opposing sides probably will get together and, over a friendly bracer, talk old times, including May of 1924.

May of 1924 was a very eventful month in South Bend, Ind. It was in that month, along about lilac time, that the Ku Klux Klan had an interesting experience with the Notre Dame student body. In the heat of the hostilities, a freshman football player, the self-appointed generalissimo of the Irish expeditionary forces, decided to walk up three flights into the klan headquarters alone, and issue an ultimatum.

Hunk Eyes a Fight.

When Hunk Anderson, then line coach at Notre Dame, heard about it he jumped from the golden dome to the south goal posts. Some of the more gossipy citizens said Hunk was wrought up over the prospects of a good fight being finished before he could get into it. The truth, tho, was that Hunk did not want any football players with lead in them. He has some very old fashioned ideas about lead, especially the .45 caliber kind. It has a tendency, he contends, to slow up football players.

But when he learned the freshman was Richard [Red] Smith, a son of the wilderness around the Flambeau reservation in Wisconsin, he quickly regained his customary aplomb and sangfroid.

"Let's relax, gents," he said. "Let's be calm. That guy can take care of himself."

On Opposite Sides Now.

All of which suggests that Smith, now line coach for the Packers, like Anderson, who handles the Bear line, had a reputation even then for the kind of stuff that makes champion linemen. From opposite sides of the Wrigley field gridiron tomorrow, Anderson, the teacher, and Smith, his pupil at Notre Dame, will attempt to impart some of their fight and self-reliance to the opposing lines in another of the numerous little sidelights that help make this Green Bay-Bear tussle the outstanding game of the professional season.

Injuries have made it rather difficult for Smith this year and he sends his line forth tomorrow with one first line relief tackle, Charles Schultz, definitely out and a reserve center, George Svendsen, an uncertain participant. Anderson lost two right guards, the veteran George Musso and his relief Ray Bray, but in the shuffle he came up with Aldo Forte, who has been one of the Bears' most valuable players in recent games.

Fifteen thousand seats will go on sale at Wrigley field at 10 a. m. tomorrow and if the weather behaves more than 40,000 will see the game.

63 RUN TODAY IN CROSS-COUNTRY MEET AT LOYOLA

Sixty-three cross-country runners will compete for Walter Mehl's vacated crown in Loyola university's 10th annual invitational meet this morning at the Loyola stadium. Nine midwestern colleges and universities from five states have entered the race with Wisconsin's undefeated title at stake. The Badgers, winners for the last three years, are unable to compete due to a previously scheduled meet.

Favored contenders are Marion Cole, Illinois State Normal's second place winner last year; Max Lenover, Loyola's 1939 third place finisher, and Davy Griffith, Drake sophomore from Hammond, Ind. Besides Illinois State Normal, Drake, and Loyola, Bradley Tech, Chicago; Milwaukee State Teachers, Macomb State Teachers, Charleston State Teachers, and Wheaton have entered teams. The 3 9/16 mile race will begin at 11 o'clock.

CENTRAL WHIPS RILEY, 7 TO 6, IN SOUTH BEND

South Bend., Ind., Nov. 1 [Special].—South Bend Central remained in first place and undefeated in the eastern division of the Northern Indiana High school conference by nosing out South Bend Riley, 7 to 6, on a rain soaked field before 8,000 tonight.

Mishawaka defeated Laporte, 19 to 0, to take second place in the standings.

Villanova Regains Punch to Smother Kansas, 33-7

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 1 (AP).—Villanova's touchdown punch, missing in the Baylor and Detroit games, was regained tonight as the Wildcats defeated Kansas, 33 to 7, in their intersectional football game before 21,000 in Shibe park.

State Seeks 2d Victory; Meets Kansas State

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 1—Michigan State will attempt to get back on the right side of the ledger tomorrow afternoon when it meets the Wildcats of Kansas State in an intersectional encounter at Macklin field before a crowd that will include 8,500 Michigan Boy Scouts.

Kansas State beat Emporia Teachers while losing to Colorado, Missouri, and Oklahoma, but finally hit its stride last Saturday in rolling up a 20 to 0 score against Kansas.

The Spartans came thru the Santa Clara game Saturday without injury and will be fighting to place their second victory of the season on the record books. So far they have lost to Michigan, 21 to 14 and Temple, 21 to 19; played a scoreless tie with Santa Clara, and defeated Purdue, 20 to 7.

Coach Charles Bachman of State has spent the entire week in stressing blocking. So far this season, the Spartans have displayed scoring strength only thru the air. Their running attack has been futile and against Santa Clara they ended up with a net loss of two yards.

The probable lineups:

DE KALB IS HOST TO CARBONDALE ELEVEN TODAY

De Kalb Teachers' college opens its Little Nineteen conference season this afternoon against Carbondale Teachers in a game which celebrates Mothers' and Dads' day at De Kalb. De Kalb has scored victories over Whitewater, Mount Pleasant, Mich.; Oshkosh Teachers, and Wheaton, and is one of the favorites for the conference title.

The invading Carbondale eleven lost its season opener to Evansville, Ind., Teachers, but came back to win from Capt Girardeau and then followed with a victory over Arkansas State.

De Kalb is at full strength for today's game, only Ed Behan having suffered injury in the Wheaton contest.

LAKE FOREST IS CRIPPLED; FACES NORTH CENTRAL

Lake Forest today will endeavor to repeat its 23 to 0 triumph of a year ago when it plays the homecoming game at North Central, but the Foresters will be badly crippled for their attempt.

Their two first string half backs, Floyd Gates and George Metz and Metz's replacement, Bill Harlan, are injured.

North Central will rely chiefly on the plunging ability of its star full back, Bill Shatzer of Mooseheart. Shatzer has been a one man offensive in the Cardinals' four games, three of which they have won.

Urbana Tosses Passes; Beats Champaign, 7-6

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 1 [Special].—Urbana High school's successful air attack in the final minutes tonight gave it a 7 to 6 victory over Champaign in their 34th annual game on McKinley field. It was Urbana's fourth consecutive victory in the Big Twelve conference and its eighth of the season.

Evanston and Proviso Meet; Title at Stake

Maywood will celebrate its biggest day of the football season today. Undefeated and untied Proviso High school's eleven will entertain Evanston, conqueror of Oak Park, and at least a share of the 1940 Suburban league championship will go to the winner. Evanston and Proviso will march into the battle with identical records, each having won its first three league contests.

The game will headline the suburban prep schedule. Oak Park, which had been unbeaten in 37 games until it met Evanston two weeks ago, will travel to Waukegan. Oak Park will be seeking its third victory in four league contests against Waukegan, which has failed in three previous starts. New Trier will be host to Morton in Winnetka in the other Suburban league game.

Fenger vs. Morgan Park.

In the Public School league, Fenger, undefeated in 33 games, opposes Morgan Park in Pullman Tech field for the championship of the south section. Chuck Palmer, Fenger coach, named Garrett Prince and Melvin Wyma to replace John Vilet and Alfred Valentine, who were injured in an automobile crash Thursday night.

Amundsen and Austin will attempt to join Lindblom in the semi-finals in two other games. Amundsen, north division favorite, encounters Sullivan in Loyola stadium, while Austin, west zone champion for the last four years, meets McKinley at Roosevelt road and Central avenue. Lindblom, which clinched the central section berth last week, opposes Englewood in Normal stadium.

Schurz Wins, 13 to 0.

Schurz, Tilden Tech, Phillips, and Crane triumphed in games yesterday. Schurz won from Kelvyn Park, 13 to 0, in Spencer field; Tilden routed Du Sable, 27 to 0, at 83d street and Yates avenue; Phillips defeated Farragut, 18 to 7, at Roosevelt road and Central avenue, and Crane defeated Marshall, 26 to 0. Army Braves Notre Dame Before 80,000

Army's and it isn't Notre Dame's. It's the personal property of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Phan, those legendary figures who always manage to come up with a sawbuck when a big sports event takes place.

You Never Can Tell.

So much for the customers. To Notre Dame and Army, it's the toughest ball game of the year. Earlier in this piece we stated there was nothing in the records of the two teams to warrant hope of victory for the Army. We should have added "unless you know the Army."

Next to Navy, this is the traditional game for the cadets, the one they want most to win. This is one of the two contests in which every young soldier gives everything he has, and a little more. The same goes for Notre Dame, which long has considered Army its most respected foe. So those who are worried lest Notre Dame pile up a top heavy score had better save their fears. Army, for one, is conceding nothing.

There's at least one man from the middle west who isn't underestimating the West Point squad. He is Coach Elmer Layden, who intends to start his strongest lineup for the first time since the opening game with College of the Pacific.

"I don't care what Army has or has not done against other opponents," Layden said this morning. "I've seen enough of West Point football to know it never has been easy for Notre Dame. We're going to open with every regular who is physically fit and he will stay in there as long as he is needed."

Piepul May See Action.

It is likely that even Milt Piepul, who is nursing a torn muscle in his side, will see service. Piepul is Notre Dame's captain and it is a tradition cherished at Notre Dame that the captain always leads his team against the Army.

Notre Dame is hardest hit at center, where only John Lanahan of Jacksonville, Fla., a fourth string player at the beginning of the season, is in top condition. Bob Osterman and John McHale, both of Detroit, are badly bruised from recent games. Lanahan, however, has developed so rapidly that there is some doubt whether Osterman and McHale can regain their rank when they do recover from their injuries.

The Army squad, encamped tonight at Knollwood Country club on the outskirts of White Plains, was encouraged by word that Johnny Hatch, its ace back field man who was injured against Cornell, may be able to get into the game. Capt. Bill Wood, Army coach, plans to start the same lineup that lost to Lafayette last week, 19 to 0.

BELOIT DEFEATS GRINNELL, 6 TO 0; HOPES BRIGHTEN

Beloit, Wis., Nov. 1 [Special].—The Beloit college Blue Devils defeated the Grinnell Pioneers, 6 to 0, tonight and took some of the will o' the wisp nature out of their hopes for their first Midwest College conference title in 15 years. The road ahead is still uncertain, however, because Lawrence college stands in the way, in addition to the fact that Carleton must tie or defeat Grinnell to make the Blue Devils' dreams come true.

Beloit took a punt at the opening of the third period and marched eighty-seven yards to its touchdown. The highlight was a thirty-seven yard sprint around end by Capt. Jack Griffith. A pass, Griffith to Eddie May, Negro half back; plunges by Roy Thomas, full back, and a double reverse, May to Griffith to Frank Shirvis, helped take the ball to the 6 yard line, where Thomas plunged twice for the score. Beloit's defense was at its peak and Grinnell never seriously threatened.

DRIVER KILLED, 2 FENGER ENDS HURT IN CRASH

Fenger's football team, defending city high school champions, yesterday lost the services of two ends when they were injured, one of them critically, in a head on automobile collision at 99th street and Cottage Grove avenue. Three other boys and a girl, all Fenger students, also were injured.

Edward Chrabasz, 25 years old, 126 East 118th place, driver of the other car, a surface lines mechanic, was killed. An inquest into his death was continued indefinitely pending the outcome of injuries to Alfred Valentine, 17, 10633 South Throop street, the end most seriously hurt. He is in the Burnside hospital. His teammate, John Vilet, 17, 11306 Champlain avenue, was released after being treated for cuts.

3 GAMES OPEN NATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE TONIGHT

New York, Nov. 1 (AP).—The National Hockey league will open its second war time season tomorrow night in Toronto with the New York Rangers, winners of the Stanley cup last spring, opposing the Maple Leafs.

Four other members of the seven team circuit swing into action Sunday. In Montreal, the Canadiens will clash with the Boston Bruins and in Detroit, the Red Wings will entertain the New York Americans. The Chicago Blackhawks will not start the season until Nov. 7, when they oppose the Americans on their home rink.

The league owners were a bit apprehensive last season about the effect the war would have on hockey, but apparently they were satisfied with the success of the 1939-1940 campaign, for there has been no great retrenchment. Since the season closed last spring, a large number of the players, most of whom are Canadians, have gone thru a period of military training in the Canadian militia.

Off past performances, the experts pick the Rangers, Bruins, and Leafs to fight it out for championship honors. Their lineups will be much the same as last year with nary a change in the Rangers, who piled up a record making run of 19 consecutive games without defeat and then whipped Toronto four games to two in the finals of the Stanley cup playoffs.

The only managerial change is at Montreal, where Dick Irvin has taken over the Canadiens.

Picking a Champion Malamute calls for "dog knowledge"

But you can pick a Champion Bourbon in one TASTE!

(1) Whether it's mushing hundreds of miles through snow or displaying his skill at field trials—it makes no difference to a true champion Malamute. Winning is a cinch! "Yet I spent one solid day analyzing his points," says Judge Freeman Lloyd. But you'll declare Meadow Brook the champion in 5 seconds. One sip tells you it tops 'em all for taste!

(2) Wedge-shaped ears, "wolf-like" eyes, and a proud carriage—not one, but a combination of points, makes him a winner. But in bonded bourbons, it's taste that counts. That's why Meadow Brook is winning taste honors with more and more men each day!

(3) The one point that enables the Malamute to outclass other dogs on the trail, is his stamina. The one point that raises Meadow Brook above all others, is taste. For all bonded bourbons are 4 years old, all 100 proof—it's taste that counts. And Meadow Brook has the flavor it takes to win!

Popular dog judge, FREEMAN LLOYD, gives you his verdict on bourbons—

I KNOW OF NO WHISKEY THAT CAN EQUAL MEADOW BROOK FOR TASTE!

W-G-N TO OFFER PATRIOTIC DRAMA TOMORROW NIGHT

Play to Tell Citizen's Rights and Duties.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

With election day almost at hand, W-G-N will depart tomorrow night from its regular concert program—the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour—to present a timely play about American citizenship and the rights and duties that go with it.

The play, "The Man With a Country," was written specially for W-G-N by Frederick Hazlitt Brennan, novelist and motion picture and radio writer.

The Story of a Citizen.

The play tells the story of Chris Kamenides, a man born abroad, who cherishes his American citizenship. He risks his life to carry out the pledge he made when taking the oath of citizenship.

David Broekman, Hollywood composer and conductor, will appear on the special broadcast as guest conductor. Mr. Broekman will lead the W-G-N orchestra in his "American Rhapsody," a symphonic arrangement of American songs. He wrote the musical score for tomorrow night's drama.

Col. McCormick to Speak.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will be the speaker. The program will be presented from 9 to 10 p. m. over W-G-N and Mutual.

Lin Borden, who took the part of Chris when this play was first presented last Fourth of July on W-G-N, again will interpret this heroic character. Bret Morrison will present a prolog touching on the rights and liberties under the constitution. William A. Bacher will produce the program.

G. H. EDDY, NASH, KELVINATOR CO. TREASURER, DIES

Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 1 [Special].—George H. Eddy, 79, treasurer of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation since Charles W. Nash purchased the former Thomas B. Jeffery company plant here in 1916, died today.

Widely known in the automotive field, Eddy was also active in civic affairs in Kenosha. He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Mrs. Charles F. Craig of Detroit.

Eddy was born in Boston, Mass., and married Miss Susie Porter, member of a pioneer Boston family, on March 1, 1885.

Funeral services will be held Monday at Boston with interment in Forest Hills cemetery. A brief service will be held at St. Matthew's church, Kenosha, at 1 p. m., Saturday.

U. S. ARMY UNITS MOVING TO NEW OFFICES TODAY

Three United States army units, now in the postoffice building, are to be moved today and Monday to the 20 East Wacker drive building. They are the office of the quartermaster, Col. James Laubach, the fiscal unit and the 6th corps area intelligence office of the quartermaster's office, and the Civilian Conservation corps office. The government has leased 25,000 square feet of space on the 18th floor for a four year term. This is about the same floor area now used by the three units in the post-office building, it was said. Expansion of other federal departments caused the move. The change will not affect the quartermaster depot personnel at 1819 West Pershing road, it was said.

MONSANTO NET PROFIT SLASHED BY TAX BOOSTS

U. S. Gypsum Also Realizes Less.

Profits of Monsanto Chemical company fell in the third quarter of this year and taxes consumed two-thirds of net income from the company's American operations, Edgar M. Queeny, president, said yesterday in a message to stockholders.

Edgar M. Queeny.

Another concern to report decreased earnings because of higher taxes was the United States Gypsum company, manufacturer of wallboard and plaster.

Nets 28 Cents a Share.

Monsanto's profit after all charges, including increased taxes under the revised revenue act, was $469,031 for the September quarter, equal after preferred dividends to 28 cents a common share. In the corresponding 1939 period net income was $1,192,219, equal to 85 cents a share.

"The relatively low earnings for the third quarter of 1940 reflect the increased normal and excess profits taxes assessed under the second revenue bill of 1940," Queeny said.

"Under a normal tax rate of 21 per cent, earnings for the third quarter of 1940 would have been $1,460,009, or $1.07 a common share after deduction for minority interest and preferred dividends."

Reports Lower Profit.

During the September quarter, the United States Gypsum company, with offices in Chicago, realized net profits of $1,713,781, or $1.32 a share, compared with $2,613,003, or $2.08 a share, for the corresponding period last year. Company officials said $1,394,916 had been set aside for excess profit taxes and increased normal taxes for both the quarter and the first six months of this year. Under the old tax rate the quarter would have shown an increase of $495,694, they said.

Radio Corporation of America reported for the quarter ended Sept. 30 consolidated net profit of $1,985,321 after all charges, including provision for federal normal income taxes, equal to 8 cents a share on the common stock. For the like period last year profit was $1,894,224, or 7 cents a share.

Day's Income Reports.

Plan New Air Route

(Story in adjoining column.)

This map shows the direct route between Chicago and the Panama canal and various cities in Central America under the system which American Export Airlines, Inc., is seeking to operate out of New Orleans. One line to the Panama zone would go via Guatemala City, Guatemala, and the other via Belize, British Honduras.

Auto Show's Visitors Near 300,000 Mark

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

With two days to go, attendance at Chicago's 41st annual automobile show neared the 300,000 mark yesterday. Approximately 48,000 persons jammed the International Amphitheater at Halsted and 43d streets and brought the grand total to date to an estimated 296,000. The total attendance last year was 375,000, a record.

S. B. Shapiro, show manager, said exhibitors are reporting a considerable number of "repeat" visitors who had attended the show earlier in the week.

"These return visitors indicated that people are in a buying mood," Shapiro said. "They want to take another look at all the cars before making up their minds which to buy."

Sales Upturn Sharp.

The estimated increase in attendance at the show thus far is 9,000 over the corresponding period last year. This gain is accompanied by a sharp upturn in sales of new cars, used cars, and trucks. An estimate of the number of cars sold during the show is being made by show officials. The increase in car orders is estimated at about 15 per cent, with some dealers reporting as much as 30 per cent.

V. C. P. Dreiske, a member of the show committee, said cars are moving well in all price ranges.

Several of the companies exhibiting at the show report they are unable to make immediate deliveries because of the heavy demand for the 1941 models coupled with delay in delivery of certain parts and materials as a result of the defense activity.

Shortage Considered Possible.

"The automobile industry is confronted with a situation it has not faced in many years," said Harry T. Hollingshead, a member of the executive committee for the show. "Along with the keen demand for new cars there is the possibility of an actual shortage of automobiles.

"We have this unusual situation: The defense program is expanding the nation's purchasing power. People are in a position to buy more automobiles and other goods. But at the same time the defense program is making a heavy demand for steel and other materials which may tend to put a brake on the production of cars."

Frank H. Yarnall, chairman of the show's used car committee, said that if a shortage develops in new cars there also may be a shortage in used cars. He said sales of late model used cars have been running 50 per cent ahead of last year.

ARE DRUM AND BUGLE OUTDATED? ARMY GETS SET FOR JAM SESSION

The country's conscripted army will be well provided with musical instruments to give martial tunes a lively cadence, a government advertisment for bids indicated yesterday.

Military bands will be supplied not merely with the more familiar instruments, such as saxophones, clarinets, trombones, trumpets, and drums. For added sound effects, the army is seeking 26 each of cow bawls, cuckoos, rattles, slapsticks [of rock maple with spring hinges], Chinese tom-toms, and all sorts of whistles, including the canary bird, locomotive, and steamboat whistles. The need of 26 piccolos also is listed.

The invitation for bids came from the Philadelphia, Pa., quartermaster's department, which will open the bids on Nov. 6.

PROPOSE DIRECT CHICAGO, CANAL ZONE FLIGHTS

Viewed as Benefit to Middle West.

Plans to give Chicago and the Mississippi valley easier access to Central America and the Panama Canal Zone were discussed yesterday by air line officials and business men at a meeting at the Union League club. James M. Eaton, vice president of American Export Airlines, outlined to Jack Vilas, chairman of the aviation committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, plans being made for the development of an air service which will bring Chicago much closer in time to Central America.

Eaton said that American Export will operate a fast short-cut air service across the Gulf of Mexico as soon as permission is granted by the Civil Aeronautics authority.

Routes of Flights.

Starting at New Orleans the line will operate to the Panama Canal Zone via Guatemala City, Guatemala; Belize, Honduras, and San Jose, Costa Rica. It will connect at Guatemala City and Belize with the network of lines operated by American Export's newly acquired subsidiary, TACA [the Central American Air Transport System].

When permission is granted to start the service, a Chicago business man will be able to leave Chicago at 9 p. m. for New Orleans via Chicago and Southern Airlines, catch an American Export plane at New Orleans and arrive in Guatemala City in time for breakfast.

It is proposed to fly the 1,068 miles across the gulf from New Orleans in 300 mile an hour four engine Sikorskis.

Founded by New Zealander.

The TACA system, which gives America control over a big air business thruout Central America, was founded nine years ago by Lowell Yerex, a New Zealander who had served with the royal air force during the world war. When it was purchased by American Export several weeks ago TACA owned 52 airplanes, and 40 ground radio stations, operated regular air schedules to 143 airports, served 243 airports as required, and had 700 employés.

Officials of the Chicago Association of Commerce said establishment of the line would help Chicago and other middle western cities in their trade drive in Latin America. It would make possible the quick movement of passengers, mail, and express originating in the middle west to the various Central American cities.

Test fights already have been made between New Orleans and Guatemala City. American Export proposes to establish air service between New York and Lisbon, Portugal, next year.

CHICAGO TRANSIT SYSTEMS REPORT GAINS IN OCTOBER

Traffic increases in October and the first 10 months of 1940 were reported yesterday by the Chicago Surface Lines, Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated] and the Chicago Motor Coach company.

Surface Lines October passenger volume was 59,363,932, an increase of 649,943 or 1.1 per cent compared with the 58,713,989 passengers carried in the 1939 month. Ten month volume rose 10,353,203 or 1.8 per cent to 570,430,440 from 560,077,237 in the 1939 period. The 1940 figures for the street car system, as in the case of the bus and elevated companies, are preliminary.

Elevated traffic compared as follows: October, 12,871,798, against 12,515,961 in the 1939 month, a gain of 355,837 or 2.8 per cent; 10 months, 122,408,060 against 119,796,368, up 2,611,692 or 2.2 per cent.

Bus traffic: October, 5,209,512, up 243,547 or 4.9 per cent over October, 1939; 10 months, 49,826,943, an increase of 1,855,938 or 3.9 per cent.

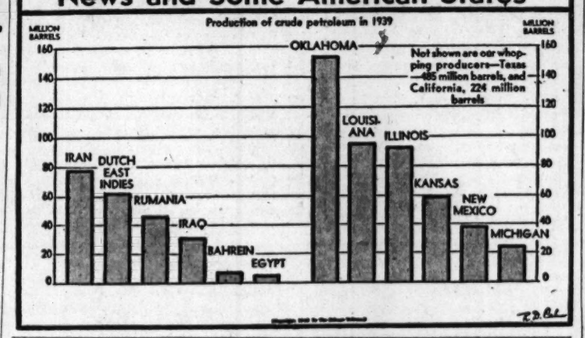
Comparison of Crude Oil Production in Some of the Countries in the News and Some American States



Predicts State Oil Output Will Continue High

BY EDWIN STOLL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 1.—Illinois wells should yield from 250,000 to 300,000 barrels of oil a day during 1941, Dr. Alfred H. Bell, geologist, predicted today. Dr. Bell is head of the oil and gas division of the state geological survey.

After climbing to a peak of 518,224 barrels daily in the week ended June 29, Illinois production has receded to about 340,000 to 350,000 barrels daily and is holding fairly steady. This output, Dr. Bell said, is about three times that of Rumania, which is considered a major source for Germany. The daily average for the Rumanian fields in 1939 was 120,000 barrels.

"Prospects exist," he added, "for continued activity in 1941 in drilling, both in wildcatting and developing already discovered fields."

If new fields should develop into rich "finds," the Illinois output may record a sharp rise such as was produced this year by the discovery of oil at a depth of about 3,400 feet in the Devonian limestone in the Salem and Centralia pools, he said.

Devonian wells, he explained, have a high initial production and rapid exhaustion. These characteristics accounted for the spectacular climb and fall of state output in the spring and summer of 1940. Some oil experts predict the draining of the Devonian wells in the Salem and Centralia pools within a year. Output there from other formations at lesser depths probably will continue much longer, they say.

145 Million Barrels in 1940.

Illinois wells up to Oct. 1 had produced 115,526,000 barrels this year, and by Dec. 31 the output should total between 145 and 150 million barrels, Dr. Bell said. The state's aggregate production at that time, he estimated, would be about 700 million barrels. He placed reserves yet to be obtained at 500 million barrels.

A comparison of the output since the revival of the industry in 1937 follows:

Year.	Total Production.
1937	7,426,000
1938	24,074,000
1939	94,302,000
1940 to Oct. 1	115,526,000

Two of the latest discoveries, probably indicating new pools, are near Benton in Franklin county and in Hamilton county about nine miles north of McLeansboro, Dr. Bell reported.

GRAIN MARKETS ERRATIC; CORN CLOSES HIGHER

Grain markets were irregular yesterday. Wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade rose early with securities prices, sagged under profit taking, and then ended on a rally with prices unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel lower. Corn dipped early but rallied to close ¼ to ½ cent higher. Oats were unchanged to ⅛ cent higher, and rye was up ¼ cent.

Soy beans advanced 1½ to 2⅜ cents following issuance of crop estimates by Chicago statisticians indicating a decrease of about 2 million bushels since Sept. 1 in the expected yield. The average estimate was for a harvest of 79,511,000 bushels, compared with last year's record harvest of 87 million bushels.

Estimates on the corn crop averaged 2,356,000,000 bushels, or 4 million more than the department of agriculture's Sept. 1 forecast. The increase was about what traders expected and was not a market influence.

MONEY, GOLD, AND SILVER

A rise of ¾ cent in the British pound was the principal movement yesterday in the New York foreign exchange market. The pound closed at $4.04. The Canadian dollar held steady at 86 13-16 cents in American money.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP).—Bar silver, 34¾c, unchanged.

MIDLAND UNITED SEC HEARING IS SET FOR NOV. 25

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission today ordered a hearing Nov. 25 to determine whether the structure of the Midland United company system is unduly complicated or the voting power of security holders inequitably distributed by the existence of four subsidiary corporations. These were listed as Public Service Company of Indiana, Central Indiana Power company, Northern Indiana Power company, and Terre Haute Electric Co., Inc.

The action, taken under the corporate simplification provisions of the holding company act, will be heard jointly with a proposed plan of consolidation under which subsidiaries would transfer their assets to a new corporation, Public Service Company of Indiana.

The commission denied an application for a report by the SEC on the proposed consolidation plan.

POLITICAL NEWS CALLED BIGGEST MARKET FACTOR

Chicago Traders More Optimistic.

Political developments were generally credited by traders on La Salle street as the factor which stimulated the stock market upsurge Thursday and maintained the tempo yesterday.

Turnover on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday was 40,000 shares, compared with 41,000 Thursday, the most productive day since last May. Five issues established new 1940 price peaks in trading which showed 51 advancing, 19 declining, and 30 closing unchanged.

Business Indices Help.

Brokers said that despite the millions of dollars in defense orders indicating increased earnings for business, potential investors had been sitting comparatively idle for weeks.

Several important business indices also contributed to stock market optimism, including Barron's business index with another rise and the carloadings report with a contra-seasonal climb.

United States Steel stock, the volume leader on the Chicago exchange, reached a new high for the year at 71, but eased to close at 69⅞, up ⅝. Others which recorded records yesterday were Inland Steel, Peoples Gas Light and Coke, Sivyer Steel Castings, and South Bend Lathe.

N. Y. LIST FALTERS

New York, Nov. 1 (AP).—Traders cashed profits on the stock market today and an early bulge of fractions to a point or more for leading steels, utilities, rails, and specialties turned into irregularity at the close.

Dealings, fast in the forenoon on the extension of Thursday's brisk rally, dwindled later but the day's turnover topped the million-share mark for the second time since Sept. 5, and was one of the largest since last June. Transfers of 1,258,905 compared with 1,343,960 the day before.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 45.8 after advancing three days in a row.

There were 37 new highs for 1940 in evidence when stocks were rising. Among these were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible, Great Northern, and Chesapeake & Ohio. All but "big steel" ended slightly lower for the day.

Chicago Gets Water Loan at New Low Record Rate

An underwriting group, headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., yesterday reoffered the $5,200,000 city of Chicago water revenue certificates, due 1950 to 1957, at prices to yield 1.50 to 2 per cent, according to maturity. The syndicate purchased the issue earlier in the day on a bid of $32,188 premium for a 2 per cent coupon, bringing the net interest rate to the city down to 1.955 per cent, the lowest in the history of the sale of water certificates.

Report British Blacklist Cuts Trade of Nazis

BY NORMAN INGREY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 1.—German traders who laughed off the British "black lists," asserting they were ineffective, have suddenly changed their opinion. The change is not attributed to any fresh action by the British, but rather to what is described as a "new American policy."

Investigations by this correspondent partially confirm what some of the Germans declare—that the trade screws are being tightened on the black listed [those with whom the British refuse to trade] and others, by Americans almost as much as by the British. German trading houses with American agencies also appeared resigned to the loss of their business.

"New Policy" Explained.

The "new American policy," of which, of course, there is official ignorance, amounts to this: American firms, thru their chambers of commerce or acting independently, have voluntarily decided to respect the British black lists of enemy traders.

In Chile, one concrete case has come to light. The Goodyear tire agency has been taken from the Kulenkampff & Knoop company, which was barred by the British. It has been given to neutrals.

American committees have been set up to control advertising so that none of it goes to vernacular newspapers which support the Nazis or their friends. Action along these lines is already under way in Chile.

Reason for Action.

The explanation given to this correspondent is that the totalitarians, especially the Nazis, have been warring on American interests in South America for several years by propaganda and unfair trading methods. This coöperation with the British is looked on as a legitimate reprisal. The initiative, however, does not appear to be local.

There have been British attempts to edge in as the elimination of German representation of American manufacturers proceeds. It would seem, however, that there is a good opportunity to appoint Americans to take care of this business which has long been in foreign hands.

The British will soon send their "biggest ever" trade mission to South America. It will be headed by Lord Willingdon, who will be accompanied by prominent diplomats, bankers, and merchants. This mission, too, is said to have received assurances of American good will.

CHICAGO FIRM AIDING.

In a survey of Chicago firms that deal with South American trading agencies, it was learned yesterday that one company has been coöperating "100 per cent with the black list sent out by the British government."

The officials, who refused to have their company's name used for publication, said they were following the British policy not only as an aid to that country, but also from fear that their domestic business would suffer if they continued trading with German agencies.

Other companies reported that they were not conforming to the black list so long as they felt assured the German agencies were financially reliable. Some company officials said they had not seen the black list.

TVA AMMONIUM NITRATE PLANT TO COST $6,200,000

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 1 [Special].—The Tennessee Valley authority announced today that it had received war department instructions to prepare for production of ammonium nitrate and will have to replace obsolete ammonia equipment with a new plant to cost about $6,200,000.

Ammonium nitrate is a basic material for high explosives used in bombs and certain shells. Officials said TVA, until it can build a synthetic ammonia plant at its Wilson dam site, will buy ammonia in the open market. They said 18 months would be required to get into production on synthetic ammonia with its own equipment.

Auto Output This Week Climbs to 118,092 Units

Detroit, Mich, Nov. 1 (AP).—Ward's Reports, Inc., today estimated this week's output of the automobile factories at 118,092 cars and trucks. Assemblies last week numbered 117,080; a year ago this week they totaled 82,690. The survey predicted that production would hold steady for "the next few weeks," after which the direction would be downward.

SIX ADDITIONAL FIRMS DECIDE TO PAY EXTRAS

Standard Oil (N. J.) Votes Added 25c.

Extra dividends were declared yesterday by six more enterprises, including Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, American Chicle company, and Creole Petroleum corporation.

W. S. Farish reports reduced oil profits.

Directors of Standard Oil of New Jersey authorized an extra of 25 cents a share, a reduction from the 50 cents extra paid in June, because of serious curtailment of European business and declining prices in the domestic market. These factors "also led to the budgeting of minimum capital expenditures over next year," the company said.

The extra dividend, plus the regular semiannual dividend of 50 cents, will be paid Dec. 16 to holders of record Nov. 15.

Faces War Complications.

The management "has faced an ever growing number of complications as the tide of war has swept over Europe," the company said. "Our European business has been seriously curtailed. In some countries it has practically ceased.

"This situation naturally reflects itself in current earnings, which will be considerably less for the latter half of 1940 than were reported for the first half of the year."

W. S. Farish, president, had estimated first half earnings at about $85,000,000.

"In the domestic market, fortunately, the company has enjoyed an increased volume of business, but price declines in recent months have depressed earnings below previously prevailing levels," he said.

BUSINESS READY FOR PROSPERITY IF WILLKIE WINS

utterances their support undoubtedly leans to Willkie.

Knudsen, outstanding figure in the defense picture, put it rather bluntly, when he told a New York audience on Oct. 8:

"There is a school of thought in Washington which feels that the government should go into business on a large scale. The government is in business on a large scale right now—on a scale as big as it can handle. On a larger scale than any other country except perhaps Russia, and we don't want any part of the Russian system over here.

"The success of our program depends upo nthe brains and patriotism of the American banker, business man, engiheer, executive and workingman. This is where a pull together effort is not only desirable but it is an indispensable necessity for the security of our shores."

The New Deal handicap on business was well reflected in November, 1938, when a wave of buying swept the stock and community markets, and the federal reserve index of industrial production rose 7 points above the October level to 103 per cent of the 1923-'25 average after the New Deal suffered defeats at the polls.

Business Now Bewildered.

Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business and in daily contact with business men for more than 25 years, said tonight that he has never known them to be so bewildered.

"Most of the 'must' legislation of congress has delegated authority to commissions, bureaus and boards," Thorpe said in a talk on the business situation in nearby Maryland. "They, in effect, thru rules and regulations, make the law of the land, day by day. The law is not on the statute books but under the hats and in the briefcases of thousands of lawmakers. This has caused the 'uncertainty' with which a business enterprise is faced.

"A change back from government by men to government by written law will dissipate two fears: the fear of not knowing what to do without a legislative chart, and the fear of dictatorship thru hopeless deficits."

Submits Two Statements.

Thorpe submitted two statements by President Roosevelt and Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general, as evidence for fears of dictatorship in the United States if President Roosevelt is reelected. These were:

"President Roosevelt said at Covington, Ky., on July 7, 1938: 'It has taken courage for the federal government to go into the red, but it has been worth it.'

"Thurman Arnold, in his book, 'The Folklore of Capitalism,' said 'one of the reasons for the great strength of Hitler and Mussolini is the fact that they paid no attention to balancing the budget.'"

Recent national polls have shown that 67 per cent of the public is opposed to any further regulation of business by government, indicating that Roosevelt's attacks on business were resented, and that Willkie's support has grown in proportions as a protest vote against New Deal policies.

Another poll, made as far back as August, found 91.3 of the business leaders of the nation thinking that Willkie would do a better job of preparedness than Roosevelt, and they voted a 5 to 1 preference for Willkie in handling foreign relations.
